PECK WORKS BLUFF ON JUDGE NEENAN

BAD MAN THREATENS TO BLOW UP COURTROOM IF COMMITTED TO THE BASTILE.

AWFUL MOMENT WHILE HE FINGERS IN HIS POCKET

Nitro-Glycerine Turns Out to Be Harmless Postage Stamp and His Honor Sends Perpetrator of Hoax Up to Jail for Thirty Days for Frightening Him Out of Thirty Years' Growth.

"I shall commit suicide if you send me to jail, judge," exclaimed "One-Eyed" Dave Peck, when Justice Thomas Neenan found him guilty of being a public nuisance to the detriment of the peace and good order of the city of Walkerville. The fine was $5, the alternative 30 days in jail and Dave was broke.

Dave's offense had consisted in whitening unsightly holes into the weatherboarding of the Walkerville city hall and in frequenting the training quarters of Jerry McCarthy so continuously that the "Walkerville Pet" left and went to Alhambra Springs to finish his training.

"Here goes, continued Dave in an excited tone, diving his fingers down into his vest pocket. "I've got two ounces of nitro-glycerine. Now the whole courtroom is going to smash. Good bye," and he drew out his fingers, in which were tightly clutched a postage stamp. To say the strain had been great on the court when "One-Eyed" Dave Peck made his startling announcement, is putting it mildly.

A Bad Man.
Nobody moved. The words had simply petrified court, spectators and prisoners. When the postage stamp came out it was like springing a good joke. A joyous sigh of relief and a hearty laugh went up. Peck stood grinning in front of the judge, gazing around and holding the postage stamp aloft triumphantly.

"I will give you 30 days for sure now," said his honor, sternly.
"Now, judge," urged Peck argumentatively, "I've fought, bled, been stabbed and been struck by an engine, all in defense of my country. You won't send a man with a record like that to jail, will you?" But his honor was obdurate, so Peck tried another tack.

"I'm a bad man," he shouted fiercely, "I am worse than Tracy. I might do something awful down at that jail if you send me there. You had better consider well what you are doing."

"Take him away; take him away," said Justice Neenan, laughing, and they put Peck back into the prisoners' box, still vowing he was a bad actor.

"THELMA" WELL STAGED

Capable Company Presents Aiden Benedict's Version of the Corelli Novel.

Aiden Benedict's version of "Thelma," adapted from the Corelli novel by Charles W. Chase, is presented at the Broadway by a capable company. The story is too well known to warrant summary. The play, in various versions, has been popular for some years.

The piece is well set and while, like the great majority of the dramas made from novels, it lacks action in spots, is interpreted with fire and ease by Mr. Benedict's players, at the head of whom, as "Thelma," Miss Martha Beaufort, a truly beautiful young woman of the Norwegian blonde type, shines conspicuously. Sigurd, the dwarf, is ably carried by Joseph H. Kearsley. Comedy roles, in the hands of Fred Matthews, as George Lorrimer and Emily Green, as Britta, served to enliven the dreary, heavy scenes Miss Corelli insists in putting in her books. The remainder of the company, notably Mr. John A. Larkin, as Errington, were well received.

"Thelma" will be seen at the Broadway again tonight and tomorrow night. The audience last evening was large and select and the season in Butte is auspiciously opened by this excellent attraction.

ROOMING HOUSES WILL HOLD CROWD

COMMITTEE ON ACCOMMODATION SAYS NOBODY NEED WALK STREETS DURING MEETING.

FULLY 500 ROOMS ARE ON THE LIST MADE OUT

Orders for Quarters Are Coming in From All Directions—South Dakota Men, Who Are to Try to Land the Next Meeting, Will Stay at Thornton, While Chicago Will Hang Out at the Finlen.

Strenuous effort is now being made to secure rooms for the delegations who will attend the International Mining congress. The local committee having the matter in charge have so far reserved 500 rooms, not including the hotels. One man is employed whose sole business is to look up and arrange for the accommodations.

Before the delegates begin to arrive, a printed list will be made out and the committee on reception will present each stranger with a copy and thus permit each one to take his choice.

Lead City and Deadwood have wired for rooms for 50 at the Thornton and it is understood that there will be many more come from other cities and towns in South Dakota, as it is proposed to secure the next meeting of the congress for Deadwood.

Cleveland has secured room for 25 delegates at the Thornton and applications are being daily received from other places. Cots have been provided and this hotel, while unable to provide any more rooms, will be able to receive many more guests.

Chicago Headquarters at Finlen.
Chicago is also after the next congress and while no arrangements have been made for rooms, it is understood that 50 Chicagoans will make their headquarters at the Finlen. This hotel has taken every room in the block and, with the cots, will be able to accommodate a larger crowd in addition to the regular guests.

President Shafter will make his headquarters at the Butte. Other delegations have arranged for rooms and this hotel may be said to be all reserved already.

When seen today, Governor Rickards was positive that rooms enough had been secured, or would be secured, to accommodate every person who would come and this seems to be the opinion of the committee.

WORLD-FAMOUS ACROBATS.
Ringling Bros. Present an Entirely New Company of Gymnasts This Year.

The superb company of acrobats which Ringling Brothers have secured for their circus this year illustrates as never before the magnificent possibilities of the human form in the absolute perfection of physical development. Not only are these performers the greatest exponents of acrobatic that the world has ever produced, but they are handsome, superbly-developed men and women, whose lives are a tribute to the value of modern athletic training.

In a company embracing so many star artists it is difficult to individualize, and yet there are many among these great performers whose exceptional skill entitles them to distinctive mention. At the head of the list is the famous Nelson family. This giant company of acrobats embraces ten men, women and children. Their act is original with themselves, and in its intricate novelty as well as the ease with which the most difficult and thrilling evolutions are performed, it has no peer in the wide world. The costuming of this great act is also a matter for comment and unstinted praise.

New features that will also attract attention when the show exhibits in Butte on Thursday, September 4, are the performances of the Roberts family, the exceptionally clever acrobatic feats of the Pettits and the Dibolin brothers and the beautiful posing of the far-famed Kawalskis. Genero and Theod present an astonishing exhibition of graceful and difficult contortion, in company with the great Ethardo, who occupies the corresponding stage. Scores of other acrobats and gymnasts combine with the world's greatest riders, the world's cleverest clowns and the world's most skillful specialists to make this the most remarkable exhibition ever organized. A gorgeous horse ballet, an immense menagerie, which offers as special features the only giraffe known to be alive, and 30 big and little elephants; a trained animal department, with marvelously educated bears, seals, dogs, ponies and elephants; and a glorious revival of the thrilling sports and spectacles of old Rome round out a performance that has no counterpart on earth. This year's street parade is all new and is brilliant beyond power of human pen to describe.
