Helena.

[SPECIAL TO INTER MOUNTAIN.]
Helena, August 30.—By far the event that out-classed all others of interest to the younger social set was a picnic given by Miss Emma Gerner at the Gerner ranch in the valley last Tuesday. Nearly 40 young people participated in the enjoyable ride and the supper out of doors afterwards. The pleasure of the picnicers came near to being spoiled in the early part of the trip when the rear wheel of the hayrack in which they were being conveyed to the ranch broke, and it was an hour before another hayrack was procured and the party again on its way.

The jolly crowd left the Gerner residence on Ewing street about 2 o'clock and all went smoothly until the Orphan's Home was reached. For some time the heavy load had caused the bed of the rack to sag so low that the rear wheels scraped the bottom of the bed. This constant scraping last wore the tire loose and the wheel became unfit for use. Some of the party ran back to the Orphan's Home in quest of some kind of a conveyance and came back bringing with them another rack. When the young folks and the provisions had been transferred to the latter the party went merrily on its way none the less jolly for the wait.

The destination was reached about 5 o'clock and when catables had been prepared, the lemonade made, and the ice cream frozen, the merry-makers sat down to a table under the trees loaded down with good things to eat. After the delicious repast was over singing and romping, including sliding down hay stacks and the like, formed the chief feature of the evening's amusement. When it had grown dark a huge bon fire which could be seen for miles around, was lighted in the middle of the road in front of the house.

Two large hay racks brought the picnicers home. The ranch was left about 10 o'clock, but as the way was up hill, and the horses tired from their trip down, the party did not reach Helena until an hour after midnight. The journey home was enlivened with story telling and singing, which in the moonlight was most enjoyable.

A large number of the members of the St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church enjoyed a most successful annual picnic at the Broadwater Tuesday.

The younger children enjoyed various games and sports romping under the trees, and some of the older ones resorted to a spirited game of baseball, at which two of the picnicers, the Rev. Charles L. Boyard and Chief of Police Thomas Travis, especially distinguished themselves.

At noon the well-filled lunch baskets were opened and a time of great feasting ensued. The good things were made more palatable by cooling draughts of excellent lemonade provided in abundance for all. For the children and grown folks as well, it was a day long to be remembered.

Little Alice Dahler was the hostess at a party of her girl friends Thursday afternoon. The chief amusement was the making of paper hats. For this purpose large sheets of colored tissue paper were produced, each girl drawing by lot different colors, and they set to work. Margaret Sanders succeeded in making the most artistic and drew the prize, a pretty embroidered pin cushion, while Miss Alice Salvail carried off the consolation.

After the millinery part of the program had been finished the young folks adjourned to the yard and played games after which refreshments were served.

Those present were: Bessie Wallace, Florence Knight, Margaret Sanders, Harriet Sanders, Mary Sanders, Gertrude Ashby, Helen Ward, Louise Bell, Dorothy Gans, Erma Morris, Alice Salvail, Dolores Zayas, Alice Thompson and Bernice Sieben.

One of the happy events in Helen K. Warnken's youthful life took place Tuesday afternoon when she celebrated her ninth birthday. It was a jolly party and greatly enjoyed by all present. Games were played and singing and dancing indulged in. The hostess was the recipient of many pretty gifts from her schoolmates. About 5 o'clock refreshments were served.

Among those present were: Rita Hillis, Ora Larson, Ella Rossman, Mamie Lind, Mary Hildenthal, Dora Shreever, Edna Larson, Lena Rossman, Bessie Didner, Bessie McCann, Robie Welch, Lydia English, Margaret English, Bessie Winscott, Florence Stephens Marjorie Freeman, Marguerite Benson, Caroline Didner, Louise Brantley, Master T. H. Warnken and W. B. Warnken.
