

Doings of Society.

"NOTHING new under the sun." Perhaps not, but it certainly is not the fault of those who entertain in Butte. Paper chases, given by Mr. Charles Clark and courting parties like that given by Mr. Blossom are at least new to Montana society. Hunting parties are at their best in early fall, when the chilly air gives a tinge to the cheek, and with the healthful exercise sends the blood coursing through the veins.

Speaking of courting, it is told, sub rosa, that another form of hunting is under consideration. Different game and different methods to capture it. Next week may tell the tale.

TO WED IN HONOLULU.

Miss Virginia Patton is to Become the Bride of Charles Clemons.

Miss Virginia Patton, well-known in Butte's social circles and daughter of Mrs. Mary A. Patton, is to wed Mr. Charles Clemons, late of Butte, but now of Honolulu, on the tenth day of September next. Miss Patton was born and educated in Montana, and spent most of her life in this city. She will leave Sunday for San Francisco, where she will be the guest of Mrs. Brown, a friend of Mr. Clemons, until September 4th, when she sails, arriving at Honolulu on September 10th. On the evening of that day the wedding will be solemnized at the home of Mrs. Hemingway, wife of a Yale classmate of Mr. Clemons.

The wedding is to be a "white" one, and somewhat informal, gentlemen coming in white suits, and the ladies wearing white gowns and hats. There being many college friends of the groom-elect in the city, they, with their wives, will be present to offer congratulations. The bride's dress is of white mull, of the finest and sheerest texture, elegant in its simplicity and particularly becoming to the classic beauty of the fair wearer.

During the honeymoon the bride and groom will occupy the beautiful mountain home of an intimate friend, after which they will return to their residence in Honolulu, where Mr. Clemons is pursuing a lucrative practice as an attorney-at-law.

Mr. George Patton, assistant attorney general of this state, with his wife, arrived in Butte this morning to wish his sister "bon voyage" and see her safely started on her long journey.

Mrs. Mary A. Patton will return with her son to Helena to spend the winter.

That these horns were tested and blown to their full capacity is thoroughly known by all the residents in that neighborhood, as well as along the route over which they rode.

In the pavilion at Columbia Gardens they danced and danced, full of fun and frolic. They took the last car, going to Mrs. Largey's spacious home, where they thoroughly enjoyed the appetizing and refreshing supper that awaited them. ## ENJOY COURSING.

E. L. Blossom Treats Party to a Run Over Rough Country.

E. L. Blossom treated his friends to an innovation in the line of entertainment by giving a coursing party Thursday afternoon, in honor of Miss Hammond of California, guest o. Mrs. Charles Clark, who chaperoned the hunt. They met at Broadway and Washington streets at 4:30 o'clock, and started for the open fields near the Five-Mile house. George H. Macdougall furnished hounds and hares. Before letting the dogs loose, the riders were divided into two parties, to take turns in hunting. The first hare was allowed a good start, then two hounds were slipped and after a few moments the horsemen followed. There was an exciting chase of about one and a half miles, when the hare got away. The second course was uneventful, the hare being quickly killed. The third was very exciting, the bunny leading the party a merry chase before being caught. For the fourth event, two hares and four dogs, with the fun party in pursuit, went about a mile over rough country, giving a taste of the real sport.

One of the incidents was a mix-up between Charles Clark's horse and another fall of Mr. Blossom, caused by a collision with one of the riders, but in neither case was any damage done. After the coursing, during which three hares out of eight got away, the hunting party rode to the Five-Mile House for light refreshments, then took a hard gallop to the Nine-Mile House, where an exceptionally excellent dinner was served. Lively hunting songs, coon songs and toasts to the host, Mr. Blossom followed, interrupted in the midst of the feast by the news of the fire at the M. O. P. smelter, compelling the host to leave his merry guests and hasten

YELLOW LUNCHEON.

Saffronhued Entertainment Designed to Promote Gaiety and Drive Away Blues.

On Friday afternoon, these young ladies, as hostess, presided over a luncheon given at their home, in honor of Miss Frances Thornton. The dining table was made strikingly attractive with rich lace doilies over yellow satin, at each plate; the center piece was a large Mexican shaped straw hat, with a yellow satin band around crown, well filled with golden glow, place cards with names in gold, attached to diminutive straw hats, each containing a corsage bouquet, were the souvenirs of the occasion.
