HORRIBLE VENDETTA LA LA THE OLD KENTUCKY FEUDS

The Lavasseurs and the St. Jeans Mix It Up and Gallons of Rich Red Blood Are Likely to Flow.

[SPECIAL TO INTER MOUNTAIN.] Anaconda, Sept. 3.—Family feuds are not confined to old Kentucky, although they are not uncommon there. Montana occasionally has a scrap of this nature recorded in the newspapers, but it is seldom that the differences are aired in court. What promises to be a very interesting case, at least for the parties concerned, was scheduled to come up in Police Judge Hayes' court yesterday, but was postponed until today. The families of Mrs. Lavasseur and Mr. Wilfred St. Jean live in close proximity in Elm street. Mrs. Lavasseur claims that St. Jean struck her on the arm and Mr. St. Jean accuses Mrs. Lavasseur of throwing water on his children, and as there was no need of such an action, alleges that Mrs. L. is responsible for all the trouble. Judge Hayes will endeavor to straighten out the squabble.

THREE FINE SHIPS SUNK BY THE ARMY

Indiana, Massachusetts and Puritan Go Down With All the Gallant Men on Board.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New London, Conn., Sept. 3.—Major Best, commanding Fort Terry, has sent an order to headquarters which gives a good idea of the work done by the army in defending its positions against Admiral Higginson's fleet. The report is as follows: "Office of Post Commander, Fort Terry, New York, September 3, 1908.—Adjutant General's Department, Fort Trumbull, New London. "Sir—Last evening at 10:14 word was telephoned from the mortar battery to F. C. station that a warship was off Fort Michie. The ship was at once found in the light from Michie and identified as the Brooklyn. She was assigned to the mortar battery, which commenced firing 8:01. The Brooklyn and another ship passed to a point about 3,000 yards northwest of the flagstaff and fired at the post. "Subsequently the vessels anchored about 2,500 yards north of the island and beyond the field of fire of the 10-inch guns and inside of the nearest mortar zone. Seen by the Searchlight. "At 4:45 a. m. September 2, a searchlight was revealed in the mist eastward of Gardner's Point battery. The Kearsarge, Indiana (or Massachusetts) and Alabama were seen and began firing at the battery named, standing to a point to the west and north some 4,500 or 5,000 yards from the F. C. station. "All our pieces soon opened on the fleet (except the 6-inch bat'ry). "At 5:15 the firing ceased on our side, as a telephone message was received from Gardner's Point battery that the three ships had been sunk in passing over the mine field. In a few moments the report was corrected to the extent that the reported sinking of the Kearsarge was an error. "The fire was at once opened on the Kearsarge by the mortar and 10-inch battery. At this time the Puritan was seen approaching over the same course as that followed by the three ships just under consideration. Fire was opened on her by the 6-inch rapid-firing gun, the mortar and the 10-inch batteries, and continued until word was received from Gardner's Point battery that the Puritan had been sunk in passing over the mine field at 5:37 o'clock. They All Went Down. "While firing was going on at the Puritan a small craft was in sight. She was fired on by the 6-inch rapid-fire and 10-inch batteries as soon as she came in range. "During all this time the Brooklyn and Massachusetts had anchored off the north side. "At 6:15 a. m. all the ships and the small vessels alluded to in this report were steaming eastward. Under the rules, it is believed that all the ships named were sunk by either cannon or mines, and in some cases both. (Signed.) CLEMENT BEST, Major Artillery Corps."

LITTLE DOING IN COURT OF THESE UNITED STATES

Few Small Cases Occupy the Attention of Judge Knowles—Matters Settled and Dates for Trials Set.

But little business was transacted on the second day's session of the United States circuit court, over which Judge Hiram Knowles is presiding. The case of the Anaconda Copper Mining company, plaintiff, vs. the Colusa-Parrot Mining and Smelting company, defendant, came up for attention and was dismissed as settled upon the stipulation that both parties pay their own costs. The case of John MacGinnis against the Boston & Montana Consolidated Copper and Silver Mining company was continued to Thursday morning at 10 a. m. Bankruptcy cases to receive a hearing were: Herman Brinig's petition for the allowance of attorney's fees to be paid Carroll and Forestell for services rendered, allowed in the sum of $250. In the case of Walham Fiddi, petition for the allowance of attorney's fees was allowed in the sum of $70. The petition of John W. James, attorney of Anaconda, for fees in the sum of $100 in the case of Jacob Brinig, bankrupt, was allowed. Bankrupt cases set for trial were as follows: Theresa A. Vineyard, September 10; Gordon C. Vineyard, September 20. That of Charles H. Laier was discharged. The court adjourned at noon to 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

BRIGHT BLAZE LIGHTS UP FLAT AT AN EARLY HOUR

Little House of Charles Huffman, Back of Columbia Gardens, Is Completely Destroyed by Fire.

Fire destroyed the home of Charles Huffman, on the hill above Columbia Gardens, at an early hour this morning. Huffman, with his wife, occupied a small one-story frame house a few hundred yards back of the Gardens. About 4 o'clock Huffman was awakened by the smell of smoke. He jumped out of bed to find the rear portion of the house in flames. His efforts to check the flames were ineffectual and the house was burned to the ground. Nothing was saved. Huffman is a baker, and it has been his custom to come in on the cars to work each morning. He owned the house. His loss will amount to several hundred dollars.

MERRY HORSE THIEVES AGAIN

A. M. Mitchell Reports That His Equine Has Disappeared.

Are the horse thieves that have been operating in and around Butte still at work? The chances are that they are. A. D. Mitchell reported at police station this morning that his horse had been taken from the stable in the rear of 27 East Granite street. The animal is described as being a bay, with white hind feet, and will probably weigh 900 pounds. Special Officer Barney McGillie is detailed on the case.

AND NOW THE CIRCUS.

Expectation Roused to a High Pitch Over Ringling Bros' Big Show.

No one needs to be told tomorrow is circus day. The date of the big show stares one in the face from every point of vantage, while the entire city has assumed the appearance of an open-air picture gallery. Back-like riders, prancing upon the laps of madly-dashing steeds; human meteors, whirling through space; acrobats, performing the most incredible feats of strength and daring; elephants, imitating the comedy of the human actor; the fierce beasts of the jungle and the strange and curious things of foreign lands—these are the things that have been pictured in brilliancy of coloring and perfection of detail—on paper. Now comes the reality. The ideal gives way to the real. Promise merges into fulfillment. And it is here that Ringling Brothers' circus proves its greatness and its superiority over all other arenic institutions. Every promise made upon the bills is fulfilled in the show. This is just as true this year as in the past.

KING EDWARD OWNS A MAGNIFICENT STABLE

Royal Stables Adjoining Buckingham Palace Are of Interest to All Lovers of Fine Horse Flesh.

One of the most interesting points in the entire world to lovers of fine horseflesh is the royal stables, Pimlico, where the horses of King Edward of England are quartered. The royal stables adjoin Buckingham palace, and it is considered a great privilege to be permitted to have a peep at the animals which bear royalty upon their backs and draw kings and queens, princes and princesses, in the carriages. At present the horses in the royal stables number 150. Except for one stable room, which contains about 15 hackneys for saddle purposes, nearly all the other animals sheltered in the splendid building are coach and carriage horses, with an equal number of cream color. All the others are of a deep bay with dark points. This is the color known as the royal bay.

CLIFFORD-HAWKINS FIGHT IS TO BE HELD IN BUTTE

Arrangements Made to Pull Off Go in a Local Theater September 18—Salt Lake Offer No Go.

It was declared today that the Clifford-Hawkins boxing contest would be pulled off in Butte, notwithstanding the tempting offer made from Salt Lake. Some of the better class of sport promoters have taken hold of the match, and the deal now being arranged for is to have the contest in the Grand opera house September 18. In case the match is made here, Dunc McDougal will probably be selected as referee.

OLD TIME PRIZE FIGHTER IS DYING

NEWS OF CHARLIE MITCHELL'S ILLNESS IN LONDON RECALLS BATTLE WITH JOHN SULLIVAN.

Under the deep and turbulent waters of the Atlantic floated the news recently that Charlie Mitchell was dying at Poney Moore's, his father-in-law's home, in London. The news carries one's memory back to the day of March 10, 1888, and in a reminiscent mood we recall the battle of John L. Sullivan and Charlie Mitchell at Criel, near Chantilly, France, on that date. In the twelfth round rain began to drop; the wind, too, was rising, and, luckily for Mitchell, the drops blew in Sullivan's face. As the rain increased he began to shiver in his corner—indeed, both men were soaked as well as the spectators. To add to Sullivan's disappointment and fatigue the pouring rain softened the turf. The ground at the ring point being in a slight declivity, it was much trodden by the running about of the jocky Mitchell and the six spikes of the combatants' shoes got it marshy and miry. John Sullivan's weight made his progress difficult and his footing oozy and insecure. Mitchell minded the disadvantages less. From this point up to the twenty-fourth round it was a tedious footrace. Mid the splashing of rain and the mire under foot John was blue under the gills and shook until his star-spangled handkerchief danced with shivers.

ROYALTY DEVOTED TO THE CAPRICIOUS AUTOMOBILE

Nearly All Their Royal Highnesses Abroad Enthusiasts on Subject—The First "Chauffeuse" Arrested.

The royal families abroad are nearly all enthusiastic devotees of the automobile. Her Imperial and Royal Highness Archduchess Gabrielle Marie Theresa of Austria uses a steam carriage with great success. The Queen of England, often accompanied by the Princess Victoria, uses a handsome dark blue automobile of the phaeton style. Since the last family reunion at Fredensburg the Dowager Empress of Russia has zealously taken up this modern sport and now runs her sister a close second. The former is never happier than when grasping the steering wheel of her new 16-horse-power automobile. The other day she was seen at Cintra, Cascaes, and Villavieosa, doing her 40 miles an hour.

Queen Wilhelmina also rides in one occasionally. Though William II. has always been bitterly opposed to female bicyclists, he smiles on the fair automobilists, and Empress Augusta long ago took up the craze.

Among French aristocracy the Duchesse d'Uzes tops the list of "chauffeurs" and laughingly boasts an enviable score of "premieres." The Duchesse was the first French lady to obtain the certificate as a competent driver of the automobile, the first "chauffeuse" arrested for fast driving, the first to create automobilist modes, and only a couple of months ago scored another distinction—that of being the first and only lady who has ever ridden to hounds on her machine.
