

ROCHELEAU TELLS HOW TO AVOID IT

IMPORTANCE OF NOT ALLOWING PUPILS TO FORM UNFORTUNATE HABITS IN YOUTH.

FOUNDATION IS MOST IMPORTANT IN LIFE

How the First Rope Was Stretched Across Niagara and the Relation the Smile Has to the Formation of the Character of the Children—Institute Hears Interesting Lecture.

Prof. W. F. Rocheleau of Chicago delivered an address in the Silver Bow County Teachers' institute today, and was warmly applauded by the teachers, of whom there were at least 150 present.

From the more rudimentary phases of the subject he drifted into the intricate parts, giving his audience an insight into the manner in which the nerves receive impressions and are controlled without the aid of will-power.

Importance of Foundation.

"Some years ago there became a desire to span Niagara with a bridge," said he, "but how to get the first cord across was a problem with the engineer who had taken up the matter. The engineer studied the various ways in which it might be done, but finally concluded to get hold of the boy who possessed the reputation for being the most successful kite flyer in the district."

Women's Clubs Invited. The address was a car in all of its details and if those who heard it adopt the suggestions of the professor the young pupils of the Butte public schools will progress rapidly in their studies.

JURORS WANTED BY THE POLICE

WARRANTS ISSUED FOR ARREST OF B. TYSON AND JOHN THOMAS BY JUDGE McCLERNAN.

Officers from Judge McClernan's court are looking for B. Tyson and John Thomas. The troubles of Mr. Tyson and Mr. Thomas are in connection with jury service.

The case in which they were called for service was in a suit of the Butte Hotel company against M. L. Todd, for a bill of $48.00, alleged to have been contracted during the defendant's period of existence at the hotel.

An amended complaint was filed and John N. Kirk, attorney for Todd, asked for an order to vacate to secure time to answer the amended return.

MOLLIE MURRAY MEANT NO HARM

BUT SHE CREATED EXCITEMENT TO BURN WHEN SHE OFFERED TO SHOW UP THE CHURCH.

MOLLIE HAD A PAPER SHE JUST WANTED TO READ 'EM

And When She Had Gotten Up and Was Ready to Begin, the Congregation Had Vamoosed—And Now Mollie Is Dragged Into the Police Court and Judge Boyle Fined Her Five Plunks.

She laughed in church and then she vowed "She hadn't done so much," And told Judge Boyle "dat dey wuz mad becase she squashed de chu'ch."

"Mollie Murray," said Judge Boyle to a chocolate-colored amazon whose countenance has become familiar to the habitués of police court, "the church deacons swear that you laughed in church last night and caused the meeting to break up in a row. Officer Barshaw had to arrest you over on the west side. Don't you rest you over on the west side."

MOLLIE MURRAY,

"Squashing the Chu'ch!"

know it is sacrilegious to behave with such levity during religious services?" "I see much 'posed agin lafin in chu'ch ez mos anybody," replied Mollie, "but I haint neber laffed in dat dar chu'ch tell yit, Judge Bile."

"Then what makes all the deacons say you laughed?" asked Judge Boyle. "Dey am jes agersted wid me becase I squashed dat chu'ch, Judge Bile," was the reply.

She Was Frivolous.

"Squashed dat ole chu'ch. Dey had dis nigrah from Pleasant Alley up fer bein' too frivilous, an' I jes went ter de perfice books an' gits a list o' de chu'ch members what dun bin ter dis yer cote fer trial. Lawdmersey, yer jes oughter seed de wuz dem nigrahs gits up an' leas whin I 'nounced dat I wuz gwine read de names uv all de members what bin up befs' yer in dis cote. De chu'ch wuz mos' empty."

"Den dey drapped dem charges ergin me lak dey wuz hot bricks from de Devil's brick y'd. Eber since den dey bin pickin' er' chance ter git me sent up an' dat am de reason dey lowed dat I laffed las night. But how's I gwine ter laff when I wuz sleep? Dat's what I laks ter know, Judge Bile."

"Well, he who laughs last laughs best," remarked Judge Boyle, "and the deacons are laughing now. I'll fine you five dollars, Mollie. Stop squashing chu'ches; it's bad business."

BY SACRED HEART PARISH

Picnic at Columbia Saturday Will Be Worth Attending.

The Sacred Heart Parish outing, which was to have been held at Gregson Springs, Sunday, August 31, and was postponed on account of the death of Con. Hayes, will be held at Columbia Gardens, Saturday.

The committee having the affair in charge are sparing no efforts to make it one of the most enjoyable and successful picnics of the season.

The ladies of the parish will have charge of the cafe in the pavilion and will serve lunch and refreshments during the day.

A program of sports has been arranged in which all can participate. Other attractions are a baseball game and dancing. As it is the last picnic of the season a very large crowd is expected and a good time assured to all.

TO SECURE VOTE FOR OUR WOMEN

SUFFRAGISTS ARE ENTHUSIASTIC OVER PROSPECTS OF MAKING INFLUENCE FELT.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS TO BE HEARD THIS EVENING

Committee on Jails Reports That Condition of Women in Our Bastile Is Appalling—in the Extreme—Matron Is Badly Needed and Club Will Work to Have One Appointed.

Judging from the enthusiasm prevalent in the meeting of the Butte Suffrage club last night the state convention of Suffragists, which will convene in this city September 17 and 18, will be a success.

Mrs. M. A. Dunckle, as chairman on arrangements, said the committee was undecided between the hall on West Grand street, known as Carpenters' Union hall, and the hall of the Trades and Labor Assembly. The committee was instructed to obtain whichever was the most reasonable, as either would be acceptable for the convention.

Among other things including music, instrumental and vocal, will be addresses by distinguished people from outside of Butte as well as some of the best speakers of the city who are interested in equal rights.

Interesting Address.

Hon. F. D. Flenner of Boise, Idaho, will deliver an address on the subject of "The Idaho Woman in Politics," in which will be given the effect of woman suffrage in that state. Hon. Wilber F. Sanders is down for a talk on "How Montana Would be Aided Through Equal Suffrage," Mrs. Green Majors will address the convention on "The New Parenthood"—a subject near to the heart of every man and woman.

There will also be a debate by two prominent people on the affirmative and negative of woman suffrage, which will be one of the most interesting features of an already interesting program. Mayor Davey will deliver an address of welcome as will also a representative politician, minister, club woman and one representing labor. The program committee decided that no address is to cover more than 15 minutes, to be followed by a general discussion lasting 10 to 15 minutes. There will also be congregational singing by the audience.

Women in Our Jails.

The special committee appointed to investigate the conditions surrounding women in the jails reported an appalling condition of affairs and recommended that the club take up this matter and after further investigation, place a petition before the city council asking that a police matron be made a part of the city government. Mrs. Ella Knowles Haskell was appointed a committee of one to look up the law governing the operation of the jails.

The quarters now occupied in the city jail by women consist of a small room in which are placed four cots, only one of which has any covering, and that consists of only two filthy comforts. But the women interested in this matter seem to be thoroughly in earnest and will no doubt succeed in their petition to the council for more humane conditions in the jail.

There will be a special meeting of the arrangements committee Friday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Dunckle.

FINDER OF THE LARGEST GOLD NUGGET IS DEAD

Samuel Hawkins Napier, One of the First of the Australian Gold Hunters, Dies Poor.

New York, Sept. 10.—Samuel Hawkins Napier, who found what is said to have been the largest nugget of gold ever mined, is dead, says a Provincetown (Mass.) dispatch. He died alone, except for a companionship of a dog, 200 miles from any human habitation, in the wilds of Getineau river, Canada.

Napier's rich find occurred in Australia, in 1852. He was a prospector on the Melbourne-Liverpool, when the metal race for the Australian mines, and succeeded in finding rich deposits. He joined fortunes with his brother-in-law, and the two went out to the gold country. One day Napier's pick struck solidly on a metallic mass of large proportions. The nugget was taken to London, where it is exhibited, and finally sold for $60,000.

Napier settled at Bathurst, N. B., and became a member of the provincial parliament, but his share of the wealth amassed at the King of War diggings was lost in speculation.

Report Now Denied.

London, Sept. 10.—Reports that George C. Hale of Kansas City had been invited to reorganize the London fire brigade are declared to be inaccurate. The dispatch adds that Former Chief Hale probably has received an invitation to be present at the congress of the National Fire Brigade union in London next year, and this has probably given rise to the rumor.

NAUGHTY MARY BACK IN MAINE

MUST HAVE GIVEN LASELLE NO END OF TROUBLE, IF THIS STORY BE TRUE.

MARY LEFT HIM FOR A WINNING MAN, HE SAYS

His Happy Home Is Broken Up and Inasmuch as Mary Is Continuing in Her Evil Ways Back in Old New England, Laselle Thinks He Ought to Have a Divorce and the Children.

There is a little town named Norway 'way back in the state of Maine where lives a very naughty woman named May E. Laselle, if the story told by her husband is literally accurate.

In a complaint filed in the district court this morning, George E. Laselle tells a tale of domestic infidelity that while not by any means a new story, unfortunately goes to show that even in staid old New England, marriage is not always one grand sweet song.

Twenty years ago, says the complaint, George Laselle and May stood up together and made solemn vows about loving, honoring and obeying each other and in various other ways contributing to their mutual comfort and for 19 years it does not appear that May forgot her vows.

Whether she broke them violently, because of innate cussedness, or whether she was the victim of circumstances and that strange propensity that so often contributes to the amusement of Belzebub and the support of struggling lawyers, does not appear in the story, but it does relate that on or about the 11th day of September, 1901, the erring May did commit adultery in her own house with one Frank D. Briggs.

He Wants the Children.

Deponent relates not who Briggs was, but gives the impression that he was a winning fellow, for he goes on to relate that this misconduct continued on divers days and times after the last mentioned date and that finally, disregarding all the laws of decency and of the state of Maine, Mrs. Laselle threw discretion and George to the winds and is now living with Briggs in the state of Maine and in the little town of Norway.

George further states that each and all of the acts were committed without his consent, connivance, procurement or previous knowledge and that he has not lived with his wife since he became cognizant of the commission by the defendant of the several acts of adultery complained of.

Mr. Laselle states that there are now living of the issue of his marriage with May, four children, Ralph J., aged 15, Richard P., aged 12; Howard D., aged 10, and Henry S., aged six, and that considering that Mrs. Laselle is no longer a fit person to take care of the children, he is granted their custody, a decree of divorce and such other relief as to the court may seem just.

Dan Yancey is attorney for Mr. Laselle.

ECHO OF FAMOUS CASE NOW HEARD

RIDDELL VS. RAMSEY AND SUITER UP IN McCLERNAN'S COURT—WHAT IT IS ABOUT.

In Judge McClernan's court today came an echo of the famous case of J. A. Riddell against George L. Ramsey and Charles Suiter.

When the case was tried in Judge Harney's court, a judgment was secured by Riddell against the defendants and an order was issued for execution on the property of the defendants, located in Lewis and Clarke county.

Today the defendants appeared and filed a bond for $17,175.10, double the amount of the judgment and costs and asked that a stay of execution be ordered pending the application for a new trial and the probable appeal to the supreme court.

Judge McClernan accepted the bond, which was signed by George L. Ramsey, as principal, and the Union Bank and Trust company as surety, and ordered the stay of execution and a release of the property attached.
