MOUNTAIN LION HAS BEEN SEEN IN COLUMBIA GARDENS—SCARES LITTLE GIRLS.

Just how many mountain lions there are running wild in the hills back of Columbia Gardens is a question, but Manager J. R. Wharton is sure there is one, at least. This morning the lion paid a visit to his caged cousin at the Gardens and incidentally frightened Mary Johnson, a small girl who lives with her parents not far from Manager Wharton's residence, out at Butte's pleasure resort. "This is the lion's first visit to us this year," said Manager Wharton this afternoon. "For several years past he would come to the Gardens after the cold weather had set in, but he is a little early this fall. "All through the night I was awakened by the howls of the coyotes, the moaning of the wolves and the various noises of other animals made. I had almost forgotten our old friend, the wild mountain lion, and couldn't guess what had caused the commotion among our caged pets until I started to the city after breakfast. "Then it was I passed the little Johnson girl and she told me she had seen a large mountain lion hiding in the bushes about 100 yards from where I live. She was badly frightened by the presence of the animal, though I have no idea it would have attacked her."

FOR A PROWLING WILD BEAST Half-Breed Is Mistaken and Shot Down on the Dry Fork. [SPECIAL TO INTER MOUNTAIN.] Lewistown, Sept. 19.—Louis Gardape, a half-breed, was accidentally shot and killed last evening by a sheepherder on Dry Fork, near Grass Range. According to the story told by the man who did the shooting, he mistook Gardape in the dark for a prowling wolf. The man is under arrest and will await the verdict of the coroner's jury.

HEINZE ONE-MAN SHOW "JOSHES" SENATOR CLARK

Democratic Leader Is Put on Head of Delegation by the "Rumps" in the Auditorium. At the late session of the "Gilligan" county convention yesterday, the time was occupied with reading the resolutions which condemned and denounced everything that was not in accordance with Ringmaster Heinze's idea of conducting a circus. When the roll was called it was found that there was no representation from 17 out of the 53 precincts. There were 15 delegates besides who failed to answer to their names. The chair named the following to select the delegates to the state convention: Ed Hickey, Pat Mullins, M. F. Gilligan, M. C. Duffy and Guy Stapleton. When they brought in the typewritten list furnished them by Mr. Heinze an hour before it was read by the secretary, the first name called was that of Senator W. A. Clark. This was regarded as an amusing bluff. On motion of Guy Stapleton the chair ratified the action of the chairman of the county central committee in appointing new members in place of what the delegate was pleased to call the "bolters." The chairman was further empowered to fill all vacancies which might occur in the list of delegates to the Bozeman convention. Adjournment was then taken subject to the call of the chair. Samuel Arthur, the mining man of Granite is registered at the Butte.

UNIQUE DECISION THE FIRST JURY RENDERED

Suit of Silas F. King Against J. H. Maloney et al Is Again Up Before Judge Clancy's Court. Judge Clancy was occupied yesterday afternoon with arguments in the motion for a new trial in the mining suit of Silas F. King against J. H. Maloney and others, the owners of the Plymouth mine. The suit has been in the courts for years and at one time a jury found for the defendants who had entered a counterclaim fixing the damages at $28,400. It subsequently developed that the jurors arrived at this amount by adding their respective estimates and attempting to strike an average by dividing the sum by 12. After hearing a number of affidavits on either side, Judge Clancy took the case under advisement, promising to render a decision Saturday morning.
