

Doings of Society.

THIS week's social affairs have been of an unusually diversified character. The Masons dedicated their new temple, enjoyment at Columbia Gardens and the woman's suffrage movement engaged the attention of not a few. With the coming of autumn the theaters opened their season. Many of our young guests went back to school or college, several visitors left Butte, and altogether there have been many comings and goings. Nevertheless society has not been at a standstill, and we have to record quite a few dinners, luncheons, teas and smaller functions.

This inviting room was profusely decorated with flowers, the large table having on it diagonally a double sheaf of sweet peas, La France roses, daisies, asters, and ferns, tied in the center with large full bow of pink taffeta. Suspended from the chandelier over the center was a globe of same flowers. On the sideboard and other suitable places were bunches of these pretty sweet blossom with pink taffeta bows, while the parlor, reception room and hall were brilliant with the colorings of asters and ferns.

OLD-FASHIONED SUPPER

Surprises Guests of Mrs. Sam Johnstone of West Broadway.

Mrs. Sam Johnstone of West Broadway gave an old-fashioned supper Tuesday evening to a few of her old friends and some of later acquisition, in honor of Mrs. J. K. Clark.

Covers were laid for 17. One large table was set with old but ever-popular blue dishes, showing up an antiquated silver castor that had been out of service for years. The honored guest used a blue plate 150 years old and a teacup and saucer made in the latter part of the eighteenth century. The table was decorated with bowls of garden sweet peas and old-fashioned pinks.

The supper was a surprise, inasmuch as everything was placed on the table at one time, instead of being served in courses. First and foremost was the delicious spring chicken with old-fashioned cream sauce, fried potatoes, pickled eggs and beets, real cottage cheese, cold slaw, hot biscuits, pyramid cake frosted and trimmed with candies, old-fashioned pound cake, spice cake, custard float and other good things.

MISS ANNA WALL,

Who is Coming to Butte From Her New York Home to Visit at the Home of Mrs. James T. Finlen.

with fruit shrub as a mild tippie, coffee and chocolate. All these appetizing dishes were admirably cooked under the immediate supervision of the fair hostess and made a unique display of toothsome morsels that was peculiarly satisfying.

Mrs. Johnstone was assisted in serving her guests by the Misses Allie Lowry and Kittie Sullivan, dressed in white lawn gowns and dainty white aprons.

In contrast with the large table was a smaller one, a round table seating five. This was strictly modern and up-to-date in all its appointments, graced with richly cut-glass fine silver and choice china. Supper concluded Mrs. E. Lawler of St. Paul gave an impersonation of Modjeska's Juliet in the balcony scene, displaying therein wonderful talent, her gestures, voice and method being a perfect representation of the great actress in her leading play of "Romeo and Juliet."

Those invited were: Mesdames J. K. Clark, J. W. Forbis, J. F. Forbis, D. J. Hennessy, W. W. Dixon, E. Lawler, J. M. White, W. B. Hamilton, J. K. Heslet, T. Lavelle, Fay Harrington, F. Boucher, M. Eight Tablefuls of Guests Sit Down in Home of Mrs. D. J. Hennessy.

The players sat down to eight tables, and when the Chinese gong sounded for the finish and ties cut off, James Finlen was declared the winner of the first prize for gentlemen, a lovely jardiniere vase of richly colored Bohemian glass; Dr. I. Freund took the second, a scintillating cut-glass decanter of unique form. Mrs. John S. Harris secured the first prize for ladies, a rich specimen of English Intarsio ware, a quaintly shaped Egyptian jug. Mrs. James Finlen won the second, a handsome Royal Bonn vase.

Refreshments were served and the winning quartet congratulated by Mr. and Mrs. John Forbis, Mr. and Mrs. James Forbis, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lavelle, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McHarris, Mr. and Mrs. John S. BAPTIST LADIES' AID

Meet at Home of Mrs. Nofstinger and Elect Officers.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church met at Mrs. J. E. Nofstinger's on West Granite street Thursday afternoon for a business and social meeting. Eighteen were in attendance to re-elect Mrs. C. M. Prentice president. Miss Nettie Vaughn, who has served as treasurer for six years, was also re-elected. The new officers are Mrs. Bickenbach, vice president, and Mrs. J. H. Maloney, secretary.

Business finished, luncheon was served and interesting subjects discussed, among them the return of Miss Thora Thompson, a missionary from Burmah, India. This lady will arrive on Monday and be the guest of Mrs. C. M. Prentice on North Crystal street while in Butte. A reception will be tendered her by the members of the Baptist church at the home of Mrs. George Landers, No. 437 Colorado street, Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock.

AT THE THORNTON

Mrs. W. W. Dixon Gives Luncheon in Honor of Mrs. J. K. Clark.

One of the most charming events of the season was the pink luncheon given on Wednesday by Mrs. W. W. Dixon in the private dining-room at the Thornton in honor of Mrs. J. K. Clark of Portland, Ore., and Mrs. E. Lawler of St. Paul. The floral decorations were pink sweet peas, bride roses and maidenhair ferns, a pretty combination particularly attractive. Unusual attention had evidently been given to every detail.

An innovation was the placing of small incandescent lights on the table, shading them with sweet peas and other flowers. The place-cards were hand-painted dancing girls, which were treasured as souvenirs of the occasion.

Those invited were: Mesdames J. K. Clark, E. Lawler, I. Freund, J. K. Heslet, J. V. Long, H. I. Wilson, J. W. Forbis, T. J. Murray, J. B. Kremer, F. Holbrook, S. Johnstone, F. Wilson, J. E. Dawson, J. S. Harris, H. V. Winchell, A. J. Davis and Miss F. Thornton.

MISS NELL LLOYD,

Excelsior street entertained at dinner Monday evening in honor of Father Thompson of Boulder. The table was handsomely decorated with La France roses, while the snow white table damask and napkins had similar roses prettily embroidered by the deft fingers of an artist.

All the delicacies of the season were dished up in elegant style, and the dinner, with conversation showing the brilliant attainments of the honored guest, was greatly enjoyed.

Those dining were: Father Thompson, Messrs. M. J. Murray, Beard of Rochester, N. Y.; Father Ahern, Mrs. I. Donnelly, the Misses Leona Mullin, Julia and Annie Ward and the host and hostess.

CAROLINA GOVERNORS

Would Have Enjoyed This Little Dinner Given by Arthur Mueller.

Arthur Mueller of South Washington street gave a stag dinner at the Butte hotel Sunday evening in honor of Arthur Atkins of Annapolis. Pink roses decorated the table, each guest having a boutonniere of the same sweet flower. The dinner passed off swimmingly and there wasn't a dry moment from the time soup was served to the wind-up with coffee and cigars.

Enjoying this feast of good things were Messrs. Arthur Atkins, Beryl Atkins, John Corette, James Trembath, Russell Matlock and the host.

IN HONOR OF MISS KERN

Miss Kate McCarthy Takes a Merry Party to Columbia Gardens.

Miss Kate McCarthy gave a party Tuesday evening at Columbia Gardens, in honor of Miss Grace F. Kern of St. Paul. After enjoying dancing in the pavilion the guests returned to the home of Mrs. Harrison of East Copper street.

NAMES OF BOOKS

Represented by Guests of Mrs. Passmore at a Novel Entertainment.

Mrs. Charles S. Passmore of West Granite street had a book party yesterday afternoon. Forty of her friends were invited and told to represent some popular novel, either by their dress or some design or ornament on their person. Thirty women carried out this book idea, some of them exceedingly well. Prizes were given to the two who should correctly guess the greatest number of impersonations, consequently the quizzing some received was laughable.

One lady carried two dolls—a nurse and a baby—the latter's name was Sis. The baby could do nothing but cry, so "Crisis" was the book in mind.

Another had a picture of the two chairs used by the king and queen of England during the coronation. She was "Seats of the Mighty."

Another showed three pictures representing the patient donkey, a hoe and a package of tea. Her book was "Don Quixote." Not bad, eh?

"Hard Cash" was illustrated by two silver dollars.

"Dante's Inferno" was a large "D" in an "O" made of ferns.

"When Knighthood Was in Flower" was a nightcap made in the shape of a hood and trimmed with flowers.
