"JEW JESS" LESTER HAS GOOD FRIENDS

TESTIMONY TO SHOW THAT $100 WAS OFFERED TO WILLIAMS TO LEAVE THE CITY.

JUDGE BOYLE TAKES HAND IN EVIDENCE

Did Not Prosecute Lester Woman When She Was First Accused Because She is Only One of Many Thieves in the Red-Light District and He Feared to Do Her an Injustice.

"So you can't read nor write?" said Attorney Donlon to G. A. Williams, the chief witness against Jessie Lester, better known as "Jew Jess," in police court this morning. "Well, that is an unfortunate condition for such a nice young man as you are, to be in."

This little pleasantry on the part of Donlon came up when he asked Williams if he knew anything about an affidavit which he, Williams, was supposed to have sworn to in regard to the Lester affair. Williams denied all knowledge of the affidavit, whereupon "Foxy" McGillicuddy produced the document. When shown to Williams he admitted having signed it, although he had just previously denied any knowledge of its existence. But he said that he did not know its contents at the time of signing.

Promised to Return Money.

Williams claimed that he put his name to the affidavit on the promise that the money which "Jew Jess" is said to have touched him for would be returned to him. In the document he agreed not to prosecute the Lester woman any further unless compelled to under duress of law. In telling the story of the affidavit Williams said that after he had signed it the fact dawned upon him that he had better learn its contents, and being unable to read himself he went over to the Palace saloon, where the bartender interpreted it for him.

Judge Boyle testified that the matter had been presented to him in the presence of Chief Reynolds. Williams stated that Boyle had said that one story was about as good as the other, after hearing both sides of the matter from Williams and the Lester woman.

It is further said that he told Williams that he had no case against the woman. Williams testified that Boyle asked him if he would call the matter square if the money were returned, and Williams agreed to this. Then Boyle asked if he would be willing to pay the court costs. Boyle said they would amount to $6.50, and Williams also agreed to this.

Judge Boyle was asked to explain why he had not prosecuted the Lester woman when the matter was presented to him and he explained that there was a lot of miscellaneous thieving on "the row" and since it was said that Williams had been in some of the other joints, it would not be improbable that he had been touched there. So giving Jess the benefit of the doubt he agreed to dismiss the matter if she would restore the money. Jess said that she knew who had the money and that there was honor among the "demi-monde" so she was sure the money would be forthcoming. And it was.

Offered Money to Leave Town.

Judge McClernan here interrupted and asked how there could be any costs if Williams had no case. This is one of the questions that remained unanswered. But the truth is that when the $50 were returned to Williams it was minus $6.50 for court costs.

It was further testified by Williams that friends of the Lester woman offered him $100 to leave town so that he could not appear against her. During the examination of Williams, Jessie was very much interested and she showed her contempt for the "shorn lamb" by making faces at his accusations. Several times she incurred the displeasure of her attorney, Mr. Donlon, by taking exceptions to the questions that he asked. The case was continued and will come up late this afternoon. Attorney Lynch is prosecuting the case for the state.

MADISON COUNTY WILL GO SAFELY

ALBRIGHT OF VIRGINIA CITY SAYS REPUBLICAN MAJORITY IS NOW ASSURED.

"Of course I am going to be elected," said Jake Albright of Virginia City, the republican nominee for state senator of Madison county, at the Thornton today.

"The Heinze interests in Madison county are being looked after by Ben Fine," continued Mr. Albright, "and we could ask nothing better. It is hardly likely that there will be three tickets in the field in our county and the fight will be between the republicans and democrats. The Heinze influences over our way is hardly worth mentioning. The man of destiny has no following with us. Ben Fine is his only exponent and—well Ben is out of the game."

Mr. Albright had many nice things to say about the democratic ticket and his opponent, Mr. Stewart, but still insisted that the republicans would be generally successful in old Madison.

"When normal conditions prevail," said Mr. Albright, "Madison county has a republican majority, and I believe that the republicans are united this year as they have never been before."

Mr. Albright is a merchant in Virginia City and is admitted by everyone to be one of the most popular men in Madison county. He has lived there for 18 years and is beyond question booked for a comfortable seat in the Montana senate.

HEINZE LUNATIC IN THE BASTILE

FLIGHTY INDIVIDUAL WHO INSISTS IN EPOUSING THE CAUSE OF FAUGUSTUS.

KEEPS JAIL AWAKE WITH HIS RHETORICAL FLIGHTS

Denounces Clark and Denominates the People Miserable Plebians, Whom He, a Moses, Has Come to Lead Out of the Wilderness—Said to Be Carver Dickinson of Great Falls.

Few prisoners enjoyed the soothing embrace of Morpheus last night at the county jail because of the incessant howling of Carver Dickinson, a victim of delirium tremens, who believed himself F. Aug. Heinze. Dickinson came from Bozeman in a box car last night after reveling in the orgies of Heinze and his band of political pirates and his condition was so serious that a brakeman was obliged to send for an officer to take charge of the man.

There is nothing in his effects to show his identity other than a letter addressed to him to Great Falls, where it is thought he must reside. His wearing apparel is not at all tattered and his language bespeaks the fact that he is an individual of some education.

Dickinson is as anarchistic in his utterances as Emma Goldman and his peculiar scrubby beard and pallid countenance give him a strong Svengali effect when he soars into rhetorical flights of oratory.

They Lost Their Rest.

After he had spent the night tearing the cause of Senator Clark into shreds and denouncing him for what he called his alleged perfidy at the convention, Dickinson retreated to a corner of his cell about 6 o'clock this morning and hugged the bars until about 1 o'clock, when he suddenly broke loose from his sphinx-like moorings. The role of Heinze as portrayed by this belated slave to a lost cause did not meet with a storm of applause from the inmates of the jail who would have flung worse than cabbage heads at the poor unfortunate if they had them handy. Then again his fiery eloquence was not at all complimentary to his overvalued auditors.

"You miserable plebians," he said, his eyes showing that look of assumed wisdom which the spellbinder flashes when he wants his audience to think that he is the only precious gem that sparkles, "as long as you wait upon the favors of the man who is at the head of the alleged democratic party, you will be tied to all that represents villainy. Heed me, your tribune, the Moses who has come to save you from the machinations of those people who are trying to rob you of your independence."

Anarchist and Aristocrat.

"Listen, my friends, to the scion of an ancient family whose members have wandered yea these many years over the face of the globe."

It was the last straw for the prisoners who were compelled to listen to the reincarnation of Heinze, and they immediately rushed about his cell and scared him into keeping quiet.

Dickinson's condition is considered serious as he is suffering from the effects of "kill-me-quick" that would precipitate as much trouble as a nest of wildcats, and he also shows the terrible consequences of inhaling the intoxicating fumes of Heinze hot air.

LEWIS AND CLARK CONVENTION OPENS

ATTENDANCE IN HELENA IS UNUSUALLY LARGE—TEMPORARY ORGANIZATION.

[SPECIAL TO INTER MOUNTAIN.]

Helena, Sept. 25.—Harry Yaeger, treasurer of the republican county central committee, this afternoon called the republican county convention to order. Max Jacobs was appointed temporary chairman and Louis Israel temporary secretary.

Up to a late hour little business had been transacted, the convention awaiting the report of the committee on credentials. The attendance is unusually large and the enthusiasm unbounded.

Boy Accidentally Kills Himself.

WOMAN DIES IN DENTIST'S CHAIR

MRS. JAMES VINCENT PASSES AWAY UNDER ANAESTHETIC WHILE HAVING TOOTH PULLED.

WEAK HEART SUCCEUMS TO A POWERFUL DRUG

Physicians Unwittingly Gave Her Anaesthetic Too Strong for Affected Organ to Bear—Husband is a Miner at the Gagnon—Drs. John McIntyre and E. J. Johnson Were Treating Her.

While under the influence of chloroform, administered to her by Dr. John McIntyre, Mrs. James Vincent of No. 123 West Woolman street, died this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the dental office of Dr. E. T. Johnson, Room 3, in the Owsley block.

Shortly after 9 o'clock Mrs. Vincent left home. She had an engagement with Dr. Johnson at 9:15, who was to do some dental work on her teeth. On arriving at the office Dr. Johnson made an examination of Mrs. Vincent's teeth, and it was finally agreed to extract them all.

As the operation would necessarily have been exceedingly painful, the dentist suggested that Mrs. Vincent allow a physician to administer an anaesthetic. Mrs. Vincent consented, and Dr. John McIntyre, whose office is also in the Owsley block, was called in. He administered chloroform and in a short time Mrs. Vincent was wholly under its influence.

Gasped and Died.

Dr. Johnson then took out 13 teeth and was about to extract others when both the dentist and physician noticed that the patient's respiration was not right. Mrs. Vincent wore a high, stiff collar, and thinking this was the cause of the trouble, Dr. McIntyre was about to unfasten it when Mrs. Vincent gasped and a second later breathed her last.

Coroner Johnson was sent for and after viewing the remains ordered them removed to Richards' undertaking establishment. An inquest will be held tomorrow evening.

Both Dr. McIntyre and Dr. Johnson were seen shortly after the patient's death.

"I am unable to say what caused Mrs. Vincent's death," said Dr. Johnson. "I was doing some dental work in her mouth. She was under the influence of chloroform, and while in the midst of the operation she suddenly died."

She Had a Weak Heart.

Dr. McIntyre said: "I am satisfied now that Mrs. Vincent had a weak heart. I gave her only an ordinary dose of chloroform, and had her heart been normally strong it would not have affected her as it did. I am very sorry, but it was one of those things that we never know when to expect."

Mrs. Vincent was the wife of James Vincent, a miner working at the Gagnon. When notified of his wife's death, Vincent was frantic with grief. He rushed to the Owsley block and demanded to know why the doctors had killed his wife. He was finally quieted and went away as one in a dream.

Mrs. Vincent was 32 years of age and leaves no children.

HADSEL'S RECORD SAID TO BE LONG

POLICE HAVE INFORMATION TO EFFECT THAT ALLEGED FORGER IS AN OLD VETERAN.

TRAVELS UNDER MANY NAMES, IT IS SAID

Believed to Be Member of Gang Once Operating Under Leadership of Famous Penman Now Dying in Eastern Pen—Breen Will File Charges of Forgery and Prior Conviction.

M. N. Hadsel, who is detained in the county jail charged with forging a check for $500, has evidently operated in many parts of the country before he came to Montana. Letters were received this morning by County Attorney Breen from Washington, where Hadsel was arrested for grand larceny, also Utah, Pennsylvania and Minnesota. According to the correspondence from these various states, Hadsel has a number of aliases. He has gone under the name of Marcellus N. Nelson, H. V. Van Damme and Stavoia.

Hadsel was brought back to this state about 10 days ago on a requisition from Washington. A short time before he left for the Northwest he is alleged to have secured $400 on a forged check which he gave Dr. Kelley, chief surgeon of the Yellek doctors, a local medical firm.

The county attorney is contemplating filing information charging Hadsel with both forgery and prior conviction.

May Be an Old Hand.

It is thought by some of the officials in the sheriff's office that Hadsel was a member of the gang which was led by W. T. Moore, who is now dying in an Indiana prison. Moore himself was a terror to the banking firms of every city in the country, and at one time passed a bogus draft on J. E. Morgan.

It is estimated that he and his confederates secured nearly $50,000 by their skill in forging both checks and drafts.

CLUBBED TO DEATH BY FRENZIED MOB

VIOLENCE BREAKS LOOSE AGAIN IN PENNSYLVANIA COAL FIELDS, WHERE TROOPS ARE OUT.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Scranton, Pa., Sept. 25.—James Wenzel was clubbed to death today near the Grassy Island colliery within less than a mile of where the Thirteenth regiment is in camp. Wenzel was formerly secretary of the Grassy Island local union of the United Mine Workers. He returned to work a few weeks ago and thereby gained the enmity of the other members.

Colonel Waters, commanding the Thirtieth regiment, sent two companies to Forest City today. Everything was found to be quiet there and one company returned to camp at Oliphant.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 25.—The big breaker at Williamstown was opened yesterday and 200 wagons of coal were handled. No interference was attempted by the strikers. The breaker at Lykens will be started tomorrow and run out the coal mined this week. Both buildings will be strongly guarded. There are over 350 men at work in the mines in the Lykens region which is the lower end of Schuylkill county.

Lebanon, Pa., Sept. 25.—President Sternberg of the American Iron and Steel company today expressed his satisfaction with the situation at that plant, which is now in operation. There was no shooting at the colored iron workers inside the stockade during the night by outsiders, the presence of the military having a quieting effect.

Anxiously Awaiting The Turn

In serious illness there comes a time when the friends anxiously await a turn for better or worse. It is a satisfaction at such times to the physician and to those who know the character of our Prescription Work, to know that the medicine was prepared by us. Early in our Pharmaceutical career we learned to look upon each individual Prescription as important, and as possibly being the means of saving the life of the person to whom the medicine was to be administered. That habit has made us perfect ourselves in Prescription Compounding. No doubt this fact has had much to do in building up our large Prescription trade. We invite yours.
