The first prize, an Austrian pottery vase, was won by Mrs. Charles Schatzlein; the second, a piece of cut-glass, covered with silver filagree netting, was taken by Mrs. F. W. McCrimmon. The tions of Mrs. Greenwood's afternoon party were increased by the illumination of Chinese lanterns, giving quite an Oriental feature to the brilliant scene.

In Clubdom

SUMMER is over! Cool evenings and colder nights admonish us that while autumn is said to have but just commenced, we may at any time feel the rigors of winter.

What of the summer that has gone? How has the club woman improved her leisure time? Some went from this to other states, meeting women like themselves interested in women's work, wielding an influence for good. Some communed with nature, penetrating mountain fastnesses, studying botany, geology or mineralogy. Some took pleasure trips with perhaps no particular object in view save that of personal enjoyment.

Beyond the influence of the clubs with which they were associated last season, each member has gone her own way, untrammelled and unrestricted. Now comes the time when, after returning from their summer haunts, they have to meet their fellow members and prepare in right good earnest for the coming winter. In some way or other the mind of each woman will have improved and broadened by contact with those of others during the vacation season, and in this way, with the exchange of ideas, be better prepared to solve the intricate questions and delve with renewed spirit into abstract problems or whatever may come up for discussion or consideration.

Meeting of Woman's Club.

The Woman's club of Butte was the first to resume its weekly meetings. Wednesday afternoon this club met in Elks' hall, on North Main street, where a business meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. W. W. Cheely. After completing the duties of that meeting, Mrs. C. Copenhaver charmingly sang the "Slumber Song," and for an encore gave "Somebody." Mrs. Coup was accompanied. This musical diversion coming to a close, Mrs. Cheely, the president, made her opening address to the club members.

As one woman expressed it, remarks made by Mrs. Cheely seemed like an inspiration. She held her listeners spell-bound. The words fell in good soil and much good work will be the result.

Mrs. T. W. Buzza, as delegate from the Woman's clubs of the Butte City Federation of Women's clubs, presented this report:

"No meetings of the city federations have been held since March 13, there being no business ordered by the clubs holding membership therein. The president was ill and absent from the city part of the summer. The vice president has left the state."

On Sanitary Measures.

After conference and preparatory to federation meetings with the new members the delegates of last year reported as follows:

"From the committee on sanitary measures: At the time ordered it was impossible to find the health officer to ask for help in various matters of complaint. Soon after several waste boxes were placed in central locations, on trial, with the view of increasing their number and extending the limits of disposal if the public used the boxes satisfactorily. The anti-expectoration ordinance is not enforced by the police as it should be, nor have clubwomen made the complaints as promised, nor sought to have the law enforced in cases they have observed. However, men are more inclined than formerly to walk to the curbs before expectorating.

From the committee on red light district: "Many favorable and commendatory letters were received in reply to those sent to various societies and organizations, and numerous citizens also promised hearty and active co-operation in creating a strong public sentiment toward removing this district to a less conspicuous locality, and controlling and stopping the vulgar scenes and lewd actions on streets frequented by the school children. Some of these promises have been kept. The committee feels justified in reporting a public sentiment very considerably aroused.

Look to the Men.

"Necessarily it is to business men, property owners and the city government that women must look for measures of protection and redress. The city council has ordered certain restrictions and removals which friends of the movement do not consider sufficiently sweeping, but if proper and prompt obedience is vigorously exacted by those in authority, which includes the police, a commendable measure of improvement in conditions must be manifested."

From the committee on the abuse of Chinese: "Immediately after the appointment of a committee to investigate the complaints made to women's clubs, with a view of ascertaining the actual conditions as well as to recommend a remedy therefor, the courts took such wise and decided action toward correcting the evil that the further instructions of the federation to invite the co-operation of the city superintendent of schools, teachers and parents were withdrawn and further action was considered unnecessary."

The Atlas Club.

The Atlas club was the second to resume its duties. This club met with Mrs. Charles Passmore on West Granite street Friday afternoon, when the president, Mrs. Green Majors, greeted the club members with a short address. After the business meeting a social afternoon was spent in reminiscence of summer vacation.

The Saturday Night club meets tonight in the studio of Miss Cox, to assume literary duties and to formulate plans for the coming season.

The first meeting of the Homer club will be held next Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. J. Hennessy on North Excelsior avenue. A business and social session will be the features that will start the club on its progressive work.

Sousa organized a baseball club among the principal and chorus of the organization, he being the pitcher. He relates that whenever his club was fortunate to win a game, it usually cost him the greater part of his week's salary, as he was accustomed to insist upon testifying to his delight in the victory by entertaining the vanquished.

Sousa maintains a baseball club in the ranks of his famous band, having completely uniformed and equipped the team at his expense. The Sousa band baseball club has played the national game all over Europe as well as in America, and has a record of about 75 per cent of victories. Mr. Sousa's playing days are over, however, but he never fails to attend all the games played by his club, and sometimes of Nancy Brown and Mary Green, has written the score.

Rose Coghlan opened her season in Buffalo on September 22. Mr. Jules Murry presented her in "Forget-Me-Not." "Miss Moulton" will also be played with Miss Coghlan, of course, in the title part.

Kathryn Kidder has passed under the management of Jules Murry. He has signed a contract calling for the services of the star for a number of seasons. He will present her in a new play for which he is now negotiating with a well known firm of dramatists. The tour of the Kidder company will begin in November or December.

ESTHER RUJAERO

Talented Authoress and Actress Who is to Appear in the Grand in Her Own Play.

When the contest gets very exciting, he is almost tempted to take off his coat and get back into the game.

A Tennis Fiend.

Lawn tennis early numbered the "March King" among its devotees and his strong arm and keen eye enabled him to play an excellent game in the courts. The next sport to claim his attention was bicycling, and for several years the entire Sousa family were familiar figures on the bicycle paths adjacent to New York. Presumably, the automobile will be the next to attract his interest, but up to the present time, his only exception to the horseless was when King Edward VII placed his private motor car at the disposal of Mr. Sousa when he took his hand to Sandringham for a royal concert.

Boxing and bag punching are also included in the composer's scheme of exercises. A few years ago, when recovering from the enervating effects of typhoid pneumonia, his physician recommended horseback riding and Sousa took up equestrianism with the same keenness of zest that has marked his indulgence of other forms of athletics.

On a Prancing Charger.

When in New York he rises every morning and knows all the bridle paths of Central park, and when on a tour he takes horseback exercise in every city where the exigencies of his railway schedules do not require an early departure from town. Mr. Sousa directs two concerts every day and that means that he indulges in continuous calisthenics for at least four hours out of every 24.

This is really the hardest kind of physical exercise and has given Mr. Sousa remarkable chest and arm development. Indeed, two years ago, upon comparison, Sousa's right arm is found to be larger than that of Bob Fitzsimmons.

JOHN DREW'S NEW PLAY.

Interesting Plot of "The Mummy and the Humming Bird."

"The Mummy and the Hummingbird" is the title of the play in which John Drew is to shine this year. An odd character in it is an organ grinder, an Italian, who has come in that guise to London to seek revenge on the man that robbed him of his wife. One cold winter night he is nearly frozen, and is taken in by a scientist, who warns him and engages him as valet.

In that employment he saves his employer's wife from an elopement with the man whom he has venefolly pursued from Italy. The title is intended for a description of the scientist (the Mummy) and his frivolous wife (the Humming Bird).

Green Room Gossip

The original, the most typical and the most successful of all Swedish-American dialect plays, "Yon Yonson," will shortly be seen here at the Grand.

"Lost River," which began its season September 19, has since then been doing the phenomenal business in its history. Its Kansas City engagement opened on September 21 to $1,865, the record of the house.

"Captain Careless" is the name of the latest output of R. Melville Baker, author of "Foxy Grandpa." It is a musical comedy in two acts. Clifton Crawford, author Artificial Fuel.

Down in Stamford, Conn., the farmers are gathering up the horse chestnuts and drying them for fuel. Any kind of acorns or nuts or pine needles will make good fuel, as they contain a highly combustible combination of oil and woody fibre. Mixed with corn cobs, or corn stalks, or twisted ropes of straw, the dried nuts would give body to the heat, and the mixture would constitute a most valuable fuel. The forests and fields of Minnesota can, with a little enterprise, be made to yield a large amount of coal and wood substitute.
