

KENNETH J. M'RAE IS MAN FOR LEGISLATURE

KENNETH J. McRAE.

Nominee for the Legislature on the Republican Ticket.

Kenneth J. McRae, republican nominee for the legislature, has for some years been one of Butte's prominent business men. He was engaged in the real estate business for some time and is known as an energetic and honorable man. He well understands the business and political conditions of Silver Bow county and of the state of Montana and can be depended upon to represent the interests of the whole people if elected, as he certainly will be. He is such a man as any community might well be proud of and if the people of Silver Bow county choose to accord him the privilege and honor of representing them in the lower house at the state capital they can rest assured that their confidence will not be misplaced.

ALL SOUTH BUTTE TURNS OUT

Enthusiastic Reception Given Republican Candidates at Rally in A. O. U. W. Hall Last Night—What Was Said.

A large audience gathered at A. O. U. W. hall in South Butte last evening to hear the doctrine of republicanism from eloquent lips.

The crowd contained several ladies and was large enough to fill the large hall, and the enthusiasm which was shown proves that the people of the southern part of the city are fully prepared to do their full duty on election day.

The speakers were each given a personal tribute, but their speeches drew loud and continued applause for other reasons than that of individual popularity. The political declarations were what the listeners were anxious for.

Barney Lindsay Led Out. Barney Lindsay, a well known and popular working man, was the first speaker, and he was followed by the equally well known and just as popular E. B. Howell, who delivered a speech very different from the usual campaign talk. He devoted himself to praise instead of attack. He gave his time to explaining conditions and telling how good the republican candidates were, and how correct republican principles are, rather than denouncing the unfitness of their opponents.

D. J. Charles was the chairman and the Montana State band discoursed its sweet strains between the different addresses. One of the features of the evening was the playing of a cornet solo by E. Stranahan, the leader of the band, and one of the republican candidates for the legislature. He played "Way Down Upon the Swannee River," and it was much appreciated by the audience, which seemed on tiptoe to applaud upon the slightest provocation.

They Were All Cheered. C. N. Davidson, Carroll G. Dolman, M. E. LeBlanc, Fred H. Kohl and James Tachell made brief talks, which were well received. Barney Lindsay was the first to address the audience. He announced that he was a laboring man. He made a very effective and eloquent address, well received by the audience. Mr. Lindsay was followed by E. B. Howell in one of the best and most logical speeches ever heard in this campaign.

Mr. Howell referred to the greatness of America and the inestimable privilege of American citizenship. "We have the best government the world has ever seen. It is not perfect. With the coming of a new century there has come new political problems for solution. One of these is the question of the trusts. A dog afflicted with the hydrophobia will fall into a fit, it is said, at the mere sight of water. So there are people whom the mere mention of the word 'trust' will drive into a kind of frenzy. But somebody must deal with them."

History of the Trusts. The speaker then went into the history of the origin of trusts, and attributed them to the invention of the steam engine that permitted the growth of great manufacturing plants managed by single men, to the invention of the railways and electric telegraph, the arteries and nerves of commerce, which made the whole nation into one community, as it were. "We have trusts in Montana," the speaker continued, "and it is an important question to know how to deal with them. He pointed out that Mr. Heinze is not in a position to consistently pose as an enemy of the trust, since he himself has just been organizing one.

"On December 6, 1901, the Nipper Consolidated Copper company was organized under the laws of the state of New York, with a capital of $3,750,000. On April 24, 1902, three persons, one of whom was Mr. Heinze, filed in the office of the county clerk of Silver Bow county, the articles of incorporation of three separate corporations. One of these was the Belmont Mining company, with a capital of $1,000,000. The second was the Cora Rock Island Mining company, with a capital of $2,000,000. The third was the Minnie Healy Mining company, with a capital of $3,000. Later on a trust corporation was organized under the laws of the state of New Jersey, with a capital of $80,000,000, for the purpose of swallowing up, octopus-like, these little corporations. I am not condemning Mr. Heinze for forming a trust if he chooses to do so, but he is hardly in the position to play the part of the modern St. George that is to drive the dragon of the Amalgamated company out of Montana.

There Is Nothing In It. "We who have no grievance against the Amalgamated company and who are not interested in Mr. Heinze's fortunes have nothing whatever to gain by waging unprovoked war against the Amalgamated. Supposing that Mr. Heinze were to succeed in capturing the legislature and could make laws that would make it unprofitable for the Amalgamated company to longer operate in Montana, or, to suppose an extreme case, that would destroy the property rights of the Amalgamated company in the state, how would he be benefited? We would simply thereby destroy our own prosperity.

"The republican party takes the position that the official power of the state should not be exercised in behalf of either of these contending factions, or in behalf of any private interest. In the last analysis the legislature exercises judicial functions. Its power should be exercised impartially and so as to benefit the whole people and build up the prosperity of the whole state."

Roosevelt Loudly Cheered. The speaker eulogized President Roosevelt and said that he was on the right track in advocating the control of the trusts. It is not the party that promises most, and promises Utopias, that affords the most hope for laboring men, but it is the party that has in its ranks the greatest proposition of honest men and that promises possibilities.

For this reason the speaker predicted that in the next campaign President Roosevelt would be the leader of the republican party, and that President Mitchell and members of the Mine Workers' union and laboring men generally will be found following him in the ranks.

WANTED TO LEAVE THE COUNTY HOTEL

MR. TUCKER'S GUEST IS TIRED OF THE QUARTERS AND WANTS TO JOIN POLITICIANS.

"Billie Lemon" is the name he was booked under at the county jail when brought in last Monday.

At that time "Billie" was suffering from an overdose of jim jams, according to the jail docket.

"Billie" did well for a few days and made friends with Jailer George Tucker, who finally placed the prisoner up in the witness department in the belief that he would continue to improve and regain his health and mental soundness.

"Billie" did all right until this morning, when he took a notion that he wanted a drink. He informed the jailer that he had decided to go down to the bar instead of having his drinks served in the room, and that if he wasn't allowed to mix with the other politicians he would leave the hotel.

A refusal to accommodate the guest resulted in his going stark crazy, and when Jailer Tucker opened the door of the cell "Billie" mistook him for a hotel clerk and immediately "climbed his frame."

The jailer, although taken by surprise, put up a stout fight and speedily convinced "Billie" of the difference between a hotel clerk and a jailer.

"Billie" was restored to the cell and later devoted himself to picking up pins which an imaginary chambermaid had carelessly left about the sumptuously furnished apartment, and giving notice of his intention to leave the tavern as soon as his week was up.

Lemon will most likely be examined and tried for insanity, as his case has evidently passed the alcoholic stage.

POOLEY HAS HIS POODLE

Somebody Had Stolen His Pet and Pawed for Filthy Lucre.

Thomas Pooley has recovered the possession of his bulldog which has been missing for the past few days. It was found by Deputy Sheriffs Probstel and Geary yesterday that the dog was in "soak" in a North Main street saloon by Dave Murray, who managed to get $5 for the dog.

Dave located the canine for the officers and was given his liberty on the promise that he would cease pawing bull dogs.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them.
