THEY FEAR THE POLITICAL GAME

Ex-Governor J. E. Rickards, Returned from a Trip To the East, Says Investors Have a High Opinion of Montana, But Fear to Risk Their Money Here, on Account of Condition of Politics.

EX-GOVERNOR J. E. RICKARDS,

Whose Trip Through the East Leads Him to Believe That the Republican is the Only Rule.

Former Governor J. E. Rickards has just returned from an extended trip through the East, where he went for business purposes. While away Governor Rickards spent a considerable amount of time in New York, Washington and Chicago. Everywhere he met representative business men who were enthusiastic over the prosperous condition of business in every line of industrial production, and all expressed themselves as confident that the condition was certain to continue indefinitely, if President Roosevelt is permitted to carry out his policy of government.

While in the East Governor Rickards was frequently asked about the campaign in Montana, and from all indications he says that our local difficulties are attracting considerable attention. However, Montana's notoriety is not to her benefit, for capital is not as ready to be invested here as it ought to be, and Governor Rickards says that this state of affairs is due to the unsettled political conditions, for men of means do not care to put their money into uncertainties for the reason that they are opposed to entering politics later on in order to defend their holdings.

Prosperity is General.
 Speaking to an Inter Mountain representative this morning on his Eastern trip, the Hon. J. E. Rickards said:
 "I found every indication of general prosperity throughout the Eastern states. At this season of the year money is always a little tight, owing to the fact that the country banks have been drawing on their reserves in the centers of population, for the purpose of moving the crops. This condition takes the money away from the big cities for the time being, but it is certain to come back in a very short time, and the centers are only deprived of use of the money for a short time.

"This is only an incident to trade, and is worthy of mention alone from the fact that the unthinking might be led to believe that the tightness of the money market was owing to some disturbed condition.

"But, as already said, at this season of the year it is always expected, and was referred to by many gentlemen with whom I had occasion to discuss the matter as indicative of the general prosperity of the country at large. It hears out the assertion that there have been immense crops that are now ready for moving, and that means that the farmers will soon have a good cash balance to their credit.

Confidence in Roosevelt.
 "I found everywhere great confidence in President Roosevelt, and great admiration for the manner in which he is conducting the affairs of the nation. The Eastern press, so far as I was able to learn, and I may say that I read every editorial page of the metropolitan newspapers of every shade of political conviction, had nothing but words of praise for the president in bringing about a settlement of the coal strike.

"There is no denying the fact that up to the time that President Roosevelt interested himself in the matter there was a good deal of nervousness lest this strike might be prolonged indefinitely and seriously affect all lines of business.

"About the time I left New York it was noticeable that wherever there was a convention or annual gathering of men, strong resolutions of approval of the president's course were adopted. It is worthy of mention in this connection that only a few days after the appointment of the arbitration committee by President Roosevelt, a national meeting of Hibernians, I think it was in the city of Boston, adopted a strong set of resolutions approving of the president's action and extending to him their sincere thanks for his efforts in attempting to effect a settlement of the coal strike. I mention this incident because of the fact that ordinarily a large majority of the members of such associations as this is made up of democrats. This shows that the people everywhere are rising above partisanship and voting thanks to Roosevelt.

He Has Their Affection.
 "This plainly indicates the hold that President Roosevelt has on the confidence and affections of the people without regard to past party affiliation and political alignment.

"I cannot refrain from injecting a side remark at this point that in this particular instance, President Roosevelt is the first national executive who in his official capacity has shown sympathy for organized labor per se. And quite naturally as a republican, I feel a pardonable pride that it was a republican who grappled with the perplexing problem growing out of the strike and succeeded in bringing about a satisfactory settlement.

"You ask me what is the feeling in money centers toward Montana. I regret exceedingly to say that we are not in high favor among investors. As a case in point, in conversation with a man of large affairs who represents almost unlimited capital, he said to me: 'We are afraid to invest in Montana.' In answer to my question, why, he said: 'Some of my acquaintances and associates are interested in mining operations in Silver Bow county and their experiences have been very unsatisfactory. I have made up my mind that I will never invest a dollar in Montana until there is a different state of affairs out there.'

Afraid of Political Bugaboo.
 "We don't want to feel that after having made an investment it is necessary to enter the political arena to defend our holdings, as has been the experience of many."

"I assume," said Governor Rickards, "that this is not an isolated case. I am hopeful, however, that the outcome of the election will prove to the outside world that our people generally have come back to a realization of the importance of conducting future campaigns along lines marked out by the two great political parties.

"I could not be expected to say less than that I have got great faith in the people of Montana and I believe that the normal politics of our state is republican. I have not been able to participate in the campaign as I should have liked to and cannot even now take a hand in the finish on account of serious illness in my family. From reports that come to me almost daily, I cordially believe that the republicans will carry a sweeping victory at the polls next Tuesday."

IRISH PATRIOTS GREETED BY PHILADELPHIA FRIENDS

Fund of $8,000 Raised for the Defense Fund at a Meeting Addressed by Three Noted Workers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
 Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—Advocates of Irish Liberty filled the Academy of Music and Horticultural hall last night and extended a welcome to the Irish parliamentary envoys, John E. Redmond, Edmund Blake, Michael Davitt and John Dillon. About $8,000 in subscriptions was raised for the United Irish League defense fund. Governor Stone was chairman of the meeting, and in taking the chair expressed deep sympathy with Ireland. John E. Redmond said that not for a quarter of a century has the struggle between the Irish nation and English government been so acute in Ireland as it is at this moment.

CARROLL G. DOLMAN FRIEND OF THE POOR

CARROLL G. DOLMAN,

Candidate for the Legislature for Silver Bow County on the Republican Ticket.

Among the strong, popular and able young men who are candidates on the republican ticket for the legislature in Silver Bow county is Carroll G. Dolman. He is a native of the state and not only understands the conditions and needs of the people, but has the disposition, nerve and energy to take the initiative in any reforms that meets the approval of his best judgment. He is a fluent speaker and just the kind of man who would make an able and conscientious representative of all classes of people.

 Labor can have no better advocate in the lower house than Mr. Dolman, and if he is elected he intends to effect, if possible, certain needed changes in the law which will insure more equitable treatment for the poor man as a litigant before justices of the peace.
 He is now engaged in the practice of law and is meeting with exceptional success.

MAJESTIC STRAINS OF GRAND OLD LAY

WHILE SOFTLY FINGERING MOZART'S "LAST REQUIEM" ON HIS BELOVED KEYS, ORGANIST DIES.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
 Trenton, N. J., Oct. 28.—Unfailing was the remarkable presentation of death that came to aged John Demmer, organist for 30 years at the Cathedral here. Heading the premonition he had called for and received the sacraments of the church. He was sitting at the organ in his room where he had practiced for years, when his white-crowned head dropped on his chest and his hands fell from the keys, leaving unfinished the strains of the requiem he was playing.
 The presentment came to Demmer last Friday, and he told several persons that he would die before the close of the next day. After Father Kilfillan had administered the last rites the old organist said to him:
 "Father, for 30 years I played the organ in the cathedral. You are the only priest who has graced its altar who has not heard my music. While I have not sat at my organ since I left the hospital last spring I am going to do so now."
 Demmer crossed the room wearily to the old-fashioned organ and touched the keys with infinite tenderness. Then he paused and Father Kilfillan heard him murmur:

 "It is for you, father, I am going to play."
 The old man began Mozart's "Last Requiem." His eyes were cast upward as he played. The priest approached softly and stood by his side. True was the touch of the old organist, and Father Kilfillan, with bowed head, was awed by the solemn music.
 The requiem was hardly finished when the organist's hands dropped from the keys and his head fell forward. Father Kilfillan knelt by his side and supported him. Paralysis had stricken the old musician. Assistance was summoned and he was carried to his bed. Five hours later he died.

FOR SHOOTING A STRIKER

Soldier in the Pennsylvania National Guard is Promoted.
 Shenandoah, Pa., Oct. 28.—On the recommendation of Major General Hunter, Colonel Rutledge last night promoted Arthur Wadsworth from a private to sergeant.
 Wadsworth shot and killed William Durham while on guard duty. Durham did not heed the order to halt given by Wadsworth, and the latter believed he was about to attack the home of a non-union miner.
 The major general says he deprecates the killing of Durham, but the promotion of Wadsworth is a reward for the faithful performance of duty.

SMUGGLING IN THE CHINKS

United States Officials Believe It Is Being Extensively Done.
 [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
 El Paso, Texas, Oct. 28.—What appears to be a gigantic smuggling conspiracy for conveying contraband Chinamen from Mexico to California has just come to light here. For the past six months, a half-dozen United States marshals and secret service men have been working on the case, but the facts only became public yesterday.
 The Chinamen were stowed away in box cars of outgoing freight cars, and carried as far west as the California line.

Mrs. Lucy Parish Dead.
 Kalispell, Oct. 28.—Lucy Parrish, aged 69 years, died at her home at Big Fork yesterday.

It is not possible for the proprietors to publish more than a very few of the numerous letters received in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and telling of its remarkable cures. They come from people in every walk in life and from every state in the Union. The following from Mr. T. W. Greathouse of Prattsburg, Pa., speaks for itself: "I would have been dead now but for the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It cured me of chronic diarrhoea after seven years of suffering. I can never say too much in praise of that remedy."
