

TOO GOOD A TIME DURING ELECTION

FELLOWS WHO CELEBRATED VICTORY OF FAVORITE CANDIDATES ARE SORRY NOW.

FOR SPRAINS AND OTHER ILLS ARE VERY COMMON

You See, Lots of Them Had a Little of the Red Liquor in the Course of the Jollification and Are Hobbling About on Crutches as a Result—But Then It Comes Only Once in Two Years.

"We doctors have a good many post election cases to attend to," said Dr. S. E. Schwartz today. "There's one thing curious about the election results from a surgical standpoint this time.

"Of course, there are a whole lot of wounds, cuts, bruises and so on to dress, but the one thing I've noted as in the ascendancy is the great number of broken limbs and sprained ankles.

"Sprained ankles are really fashionable just now and I don't know how to account for so many unless it be the unexpected slip-ups in some directions. I suppose the boys got careless in their jollifications and slid around too much. I have in mind one case in particular, where a loser fell all over himself and after he was placed safely in bed, where he had time to check up between grunts, found he balanced all right and actually came out with a suit of clothes and a hat to the good after losing most of his cash bets.

Charges Radically.

"But that's a digression. What I started to say was that with numerous sprains the treatment of them has changed radically. The old-fashioned way to treat a sprain was to turn up the limb with astringent liniments, put on plaster of paris casts and in general torture the patient until he was ready to accept a putative as a relief.

"That's all changed now. Ice bags continually applied have taken the place of liniments and are more effectual and permanent. Instead of plaster casts and the torture incident to them we now use strong adhesive plasters scientifically applied so as to hold and brace the joint much more effectually than the casts did and without the additional pain. Adhesive plasters are now made so that they will not irritate the skin or flesh and they stick closer than a four-year-old doctor's bill.

"In a majority of sprains now a man is able to be out in a few days. Six weeks is a limit for the worst sort of cases. Most of the subjects you see with canes or crutches are braced with adhesive plasters and have only been laid up for a few days."

THINKS THE CITY SHOULD PAY BILLS

DAMAGE SUIT OF MRS. SARAH A. PRYOR AGAINST WALKERVILLE UP BEFORE JUDGE HARNEY.

SLIPPED FROM SIDEWALK AND INJURES HER LIMB

Said to Be Hurt for Life and Asks Some $5,000 as a Balm—How It All Came About and What Was Said Pro and Con in the Case This Morning in the District Court of This State.

Judge Harney's court consumed itself with a consideration of the case of Sarah A. Pryor against the city of Walkerville this morning. It seems that on February 6, 1899, as Mrs. Pryor was returning from church in the evening, she slipped and fell, thereby sustaining a severe fracture of the right leg. According to her complaint, the sidewalk on Main street in Walkerville where Mrs. Pryor fell was defective and she was precipitated into the road some feet below. The accident occurred near the Kundell house and as there was no light she was unable to see where she was going. Mrs. Pryor seeks to recover damages to the extent of $5,000 as she has sustained permanent injuries.

Immediately after her injury Mrs. Pryor was taken to St. James' hospital where she was confined for several months. At the time she was given medical attention by Dr. McNevin, who testified in the case this morning that she would be deprived of a free use of her right leg for the rest of her life. During the direct examination of Dr. McNevin, Attorney Cotter, for the plaintiff, offered a bill for $150 which had been rendered by the doctor for medical services.

Attorney O'Donnell Objected. He proposed to present the bill as evidence; but Attorney O'Donnell, representing the city of Walkerville, objected as the bill contained no indications that it had ever been paid and Mr. O'Donnell held that a bill could not be admitted as evidence for damages when the party could show no damages until the bill had been settled.

Dr. McNevin informed the court that a portion of the bill had been paid and that Mrs. Pryor held receipts for the same. In the light of this explanation, Judge Harney overruled O'Donnell's objection. D. H. Sidley, who assisted Mrs. Pryor to her home after her fall, was one of the witnesses, and he explained the peculiar circumstances under which the accident occurred.

They Were Growing Warm.

When Mrs. Pryor took the stand in her own behalf she told the court that she had no record of her birth; but she believed herself to be about 50 years old. When her counsel, Mr. Cotter, was asking Mrs. Pryor if she returned home from church by the way of Main street, Attorney O'Donnell once more took exception to his opponent's methods of procedure and objected to the question on the ground that the question was leading and prompted the witness to give the exact answer that he wanted. He suggested to Mr. Cotter that he ask the question by simply inquiring which street she took in order to reach her home.

"Thank you, Mr. O'Donnell, for instructing me how to examine my own witness," said Mr. Cotter with considerable sarcasm. O'Donnell wanted to reply, but Judge Harney cut short a very interesting little debate that was ensuing by calling the men to order.

MRS. ELIZABETH PASCO VICTIM TO CONSUMPTION

The deceased was 26 years of age and was popular with the social set in which she moved. Her husband, John Pasco, came to Butte more than 15 years ago and has since been a steady worker in the mining industry here.

MONDAY LIST IS LIMITED INDEED

CROP OF OFFENDERS IS SO SMALL THAT AN AIR OF MELANCHOLY PERVADES POLICE COURT.

Sunday was a quiet day in Butte. This fact was evidenced by the small number of offenders who lined up in the police court this morning when Judge Boyle had tapped for order.

It's easy to tell when "the business is poor," as Sol Levy puts it. When such is the case Sol wears a long face, the spectators are few in proportion to the number of the prisoners and there is a general air of melancholy about police headquarters.

William Cumberlick had been arrested for stealing a bottle of whiskey from the Council saloon at the corner of Arizona and Park streets. William gave a bond in the sum of $25 when brought to jail, and as he did not put in his appearance at police court this bond was forfeited. He paid dear for his whiskey.

It is seldom that a woman is charged with carrying concealed weapons, but Nellie Valani was called up to answer for that offense. The arresting officer testified that Nellie was drunk last night and that when he started to arrest her she jerked away and drew a small pistol from her apron pocket. Judge Boyle set the case for tomorrow afternoon.

H. Higgins had evidently seen better days. His features are good and he has a manner that shows refinement, but that didn't acquit him of the charge of vagrancy. He was presented with a five-dollar fine and he went back to jail to serve it out as though nothing had happened.

If you have a bad cold you need a good reliable medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to loosen and relieve it and to allay the irritation and inflammation of the throat and lungs.
