

IN CLUBDOM

THE Homer club met on Monday with Mrs. E. C. Atwater of South Butte. Manager J. R. Wharton having placed a special car at the disposal of the members, they took the ride in a body. Later in the afternoon the same special brought them back to town. The day was cold and the temperature down near the flat was colder, but an open grate with a big blazing fire soon made the members comfortable and happy, taking up current events with the utmost enthusiasm and making suggestions of interesting topics for consideration in the future.

Mrs. Geoffrey Lauzier, now a resident of Missoula, read a most interesting paper on "Alexander I." Mrs. McCrackin had for the subject of her paper "The Invasion of Russia by Napoleon." This was listened to with keen attention and elicited many favorable comments from the members present.

Mrs. Cunningham, who has traveled extensively in Russia, gave a graphic description of "Russian Palaces." Her pen pictures or word paintings of the several rooms in these magnificent buildings and the fountains in the grounds surround-of oil in Pennsylvania and the wonderful process that caused the birth of the Standard Oil company. Miss Yancy told of "The City of Plains," John Alexander Dowey's creation, how he founded on the shores of Lake Michigan a beautiful city designed to house a million persons. Miss Alexander of Chicago was a guest of the club.

Mrs. Gilbert, their president, will entertain the members at her home on next Tuesday night.

The Woman's Club.

The Woman's club met on Wednesday afternoon at Elks' hall. Miss Lucy Kemper entertained the members with her paper on "William Henry Hunt, England's Finest Water Colorist."

Mrs. T. A. Grigg gave an interesting talk about an old school companion, George Harris, the Canadian artist, who was recently knighted by King Edward of England and awarded a medal for meritorious work. Charlottetown, the capital of Prince Edward's island, is the home of this newly made knight. On December 17 the Rev. Duncan, one of the leading literary lights of the state, will speak at

A Pretty Wedding.

One of the pleasant events of the week was the marriage of Mr. Stephen Davis and Miss Sarah Jane Wathing at the home of the bride's parents on West La Plata street, Rev. John Hosking officiating. Mr. A. S. Reynolds supported the groom and Miss Florence Davis was the maid of honor. The father gave away the bride and the host of friends showered their congratulations and tokens of esteem. Everything helped to make it one of the prettiest weddings that have been in Centerville for some time.

ing them certainly reminded one of the Arabian Nights stories, wherein everything is of the most gorgeous description, baffling all attempts of the poet, artist or enthusiast to give even a faint idea of their beauty. Hearing Mrs. Cunningham tell from her own life of the wonders she saw during her visit to that far-off country proved most enchanting, vastly superior in every point to any descriptions that have been or can be written, and the members thoroughly appreciated it.

Next week the Homer club will meet at the home of Mrs. Cunningham on West Park street.

Saturday Nighters.

The Saturday Night club was entertained in the rooms of Dr. Grace Cahoon in the Owsley block, when current events took up much of the time and attention of the members and gave food for thought and intellectual recreation.

The wonderful possibilities and peculiar phenomena of liquid air caused not a little discussion. What is generally known of this subject bears but a small relation to what will be known later. It is a comparatively new discovery, the benefit of which has as yet barely been felt.

The subject of railroad wrecks and kindred topics furnished fuel for a heated debate as the scope of the arguments took in almost every thing from a fall from a bike or automobile collision to the casualties resulting from tidal waves and volcanic eruptions. Another deep subject that received attention was psychology, but the results of investigations are not matters of record. Concentration of thought and giving a description of what the eyes have for a few minutes examined created quite an excitement because of the confusion that remained in the minds of many. Miss Ethel Wood of South Crystal street will have the honor of entertaining the club at its next meeting.

Butte Boys.

The Butte Boys' club met this week with Colin Christie on South Washington street. The topics of the evening were "Ancient Architecture," "The Uses of Glass," "Skating," "Peary's Expedition" and "The Philippines."

Remembering that Christmas is coming and the holiday season is near, the boys decided that the club adjourn on December 16 to give the members an opportunity to properly enjoy the festivities of Christmas and New Year's day. The club will resume its duties on January 2, when the new officers for the coming year will be elected. The club will meet next week at the home of Floyd Noyes, No. 1108 Farrell street.

West Side Shakespeare.

The West Side Shakespeare club met on Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Fosselman of West Copper street. The several members present read the third act of "Coriolanus." At its conclusion question followed question and discussion followed argument.

Then "Magazine Reviews" claimed the attention of the club. Mrs. Cutting had charge of that part of the program. An article in Munsey's entitled "Mosaic Art" was reviewed by Mrs. Nuckolls, who brought out many things interesting as well as instructive. Mrs. B. Plummer read Elbert Hubbard's problem, "To Hold and Conserve What Civilization Has Gained," as printed in the Cosmopolitan. Mrs. Woodbury spoke of the "Junior Republic in Maryland," and Mrs. Dickson made a talk on "The Confessions of a Wife," reading the Century's review of that new book.

Miss Robinson dipped into oil, referring to McClure's article on the first discovery
