HELENA, MONT., OCT. 7, 1890.

Montanians abroad will always find THE DAILY INDEPENDENT on file at their favorite hotels.

The McKinley bill is from beginning to end an exclusively party scheme, deliberately, inflexibly and irresistibly forced upon the country by a disciplined and terrorized congressional majority.

THE MORE HASTE. The territorial canvassing board, which met on October 31st, adjourned without day on November 4th.

That copy was the signal for their adjournment in hot haste. It fell like a thunderbolt among the conspirators.

For this indecent haste no honest or honorable reason, no reason other than we have advanced, can be given.

The voters of Montana have not forgotten this record of these men. They are well aware that the republican party of the state has in its platform endorsed their action.

The colored gentleman was promptly on hand. He was the end-man of this republican farce, and he got through his share of the performance in great style.

fringed the expectations that had been formed of him by his fellow conspirators. Upon its face that proclamation bears every mark of haste.

The farce, which had been staged at so much expense, and for which the best of republican star talent had been engaged regardless of cost, was doomed to have an unexpected and disappointing finale.

The St. Louis Republic thus puts the situation in a nutshell: "Since, in the contest for the speakership, western republicans were crushed down by the power of the corporations of the north-east, the interests of the west have been trampled."

The man who writes John Wanamaker's advertisements gives the snap away. Here is his latest:

Tinware is advancing in cost, and very soon the manufacturers will have their way and you and we will have to pay very much more.

Yet John Wanamaker belongs to a party that preaches the doctrine that the higher you put the tariff the cheaper you make the article.

The election of this year will settle for all time the question whether canvassing boards have the right to reject votes at their discretion.

The republican members of the house can point with pride to the fact that they have established a precedent which will hereafter serve to prevent democrats from sitting in their seats without being counted.

Our democratic friends in other counties may rest assured that Lewis and Clarke will give a good account of herself on election day.

APPROPOS of Mr. Harrison's visit to St. Louis the Republic pays him the rather doubtful compliment of telling him that he will be the greatest attraction in his way that the city has seen since Tom Thumb last visited it.

THE news that Commodore Power is hurrying home to manage the republican canvass will fire the republican heart.

ED. CARDWELL should have 250 majority in Jefferson county. As a state senator he will faithfully represent the people and will not consort with state stealers.

MADISON county will send Buford to the state senate by a good majority. The voters of that county know a good man when they see him.

THIS is a lucky day to register. Get your name enrolled to-day and Dixon will be elected.

PUT Choteau county in the Dixon column to begin with.

WHAT AN ADVERTISEMENT SHOULD BE. ITS USE AND ABUSE.

As this is intended for the prospective purchaser, not for the instruction of the advertiser, we shall limit our remarks to a few questions and answers suitable to our purpose.

That judicious advertising pays is a fact no longer doubted by the wide-awake merchant. But what is judicious advertising?

An advertisement that is not a statement of plain facts—that lacks the impress of unvarnished truth—that borders on the realm of fiction—such an advertisement is not only soon detected but as certainly avoided—no matter how adroitly the advertiser seeks the ear of the public.

To gain the confidence of the public, simply to advertise will not suffice; the merchant must keep faith with his customers; he must do what he advertises, and have what he advertises. Such advertisements are sought out by the reader in the hope that it may contain an announcement of a special bargain offered, or to ascertain the price of something he contemplates purchasing.

We do not pay out our money for printers' ink because it is a custom—we calculate its effect, and estimate the outlay to a proportionate gain.

THE EARLY DEMAND FOR Fall Overcoats

Has caused us to open our new goods much earlier than usual. The lines we offer this season are more extensive, more varied, and handsomer than ever. The new conceits in style, finish and general elegance, are calculated to make eager and early purchasers. The box coat will be the favorite. We have them in all grades and kinds of fabric. Ulsters and cape coats will come in for their share of popularity.

OUR CHILDREN'S DEPT.

Here the mother can satisfy her fastidious tastes or her economical inclinations. Chevoits and worsteds predominate. Our school suits cannot be excelled in durability, nor surpassed in neatness and design. In short, we are prepared for the wants of all classes of purchasers.
