

THE MINES OF MONTANA.

The Sheridan and Company Mines in Old Madison Coming to the Front.

The Helena Mining and Stock Exchange a Thing of the Past.

The Major Budd—Mines of the Ten Mile District—The Southern Cross—Castle News.

Dave McCranor, an old-timer from Madison County, arrived in town yesterday from Sheridan and brought with him 151 ounces of gold, the result of a twenty days' run on several tons of ore from the Sheridan mine.

Chas. Stewart, also of Sheridan, is in the city. He is operating under lease the Company mine. This property has been idle until this summer, about twenty years.

Some of the best ore ever found in the Cressent is now being extracted from that property. Fully a dozen mines on Ten Mile are now steadily producing the mines in the vicinity of Red Mountain and Rimini being the principal producers.

The O. R. & N. Company. At a meeting of the board of trustees of the O. R. & N. Mining company, in this city, Nov. 10, a resolution was unanimously adopted to the effect that 15,000 shares of the treasury stock of the company be sold at 10 cents per share.

The Mining Exchange. After a prolix and brief career, the gentlemen who organized the Helena Mining and Stock Exchange, held a meeting yesterday and formally dissolved the organization.

The Major Budd. The secretary of this company is now mailing to stockholders the circular letter prepared at the meeting held November 8. The purpose of the circular has been previously stated in these columns, and the consummation of the plan proposed will place the Major Budd on a sound financial footing and the coming year will witness a change for the better.

The Southern Cross. Gold is always a staple article; there is always a market for it and the yellow metal always commands a good price. In speaking of gold mines the other day, John McConnell, formerly superintendent of the Southern Cross, said he regarded it as one of the biggest gold mines he ever saw.

The Mines of Castle Mountain. J. E. King, of Helena, who already has large interests in Castle, is making arrangements to start a bank in the new and thriving mining settlement.

Business in Their Lives Livened Up Yesterday Evening.

A rolling and tumbling of chairs and a great hubbub generally, was the first intimation an officer had of a row in the Coliseum theatre last evening.

Mr. Red was hustled off to jail while Mr. Hensley, who is the husband of the proprietress of the Coliseum, was conveyed to his room. He had a deep cut in the top of his head where it came in contact with his assailant's leather-bound steel cane.

Andy McClure, drunk and begging passage, is one of the last night's entries on the police docket.

NORTHWEST RAILROADS.

A Chat With G. W. Dickinson About Northern Pacific Matters.

The Great Northern Annual Reports—The Pacific Extension.

Montana's Mineral Roads—What President Hill Says—Other News.

G. W. Dickinson, assistant general superintendent of the Northern Pacific, was in Helena yesterday. Asked if there was any truth in the report that the general offices of the company in Helena were to be transferred further west, he replied: "The offices have been practically removed already. I am making Tacoma my headquarters and that is where the chief clerk will be stationed. But it will make very little difference. I am on the road nearly all the time and will be in and out of Helena about the same as formerly."

Mr. Dickinson does not know yet just what time the passenger schedule on the Northern Pacific will be changed. One of the through trains, he says, will be abandoned during the winter months on account of the usual falling off in travel during the mid-winter.

OUT IN PAMPHLET FORM. The Great Northern's Annual Reports and the Information They Contain.

The annual reports of the Great Northern and Manitoba are being distributed in pamphlet form. A condensed financial statement from these reports has already been published, but there is much of general interest which has not.

President Hill's Report. President Hill, in his report to the directors of the Great Northern, says of the lease of the Manitoba and the Pacific coast extension: Pursuant to the conditions of the lease and agreement with the Manitoba, the collateral trust bonds of that company amounting to $3,000,000 principal were paid and canceled during the year.

Montana's Mineral Roads. Charles Hallock, the well known author on field sports and popular natural history, is contributing a series of letters to the New York Times on the resources and developments of Montana along the line of the Great Northern.

A Duluth special says it is reported that the Northern Pacific shops will be removed from Brainerd to a point near the old stockyards on the Omaha, southwest of Superior.

The Great Northern has issued some next November advertising matter. One circular is called "The Woolly West," with a photo-engraving of a sheep scene on the line of the road, representing a band of sheep ready for market.
