

50 North Main.

T. H. CLEWELL

50 North Main.

CLOSING OUT SALE

DOLLS

DOLLS

DOLLS

TOYS

TOYS

TOYS

I will close out the whole of my immense stock of Dolls and Toys at Cost. The Sale Will Commence Tomorrow Morning at 9 O'clock.

T. H. CLEWELL, 50 NORTH MAIN

TWAS TIME FOR DANCING

Was Friday Night, and the Cotillon Club Improved It Most Heartily.

Entre Nous Club Dissolved, but Reorganized as the Thirty-Three Club.

Under Any Name Its Parties Are Always Enjoyable—Fun at a "Bee"

The Cotillon club has reorganized, and on Friday evening gave the first dance this season in Electric hall.

Miss Laura King was attired in a handsome gown of white crepe, with front draped in diamonds lace, on trains and décolleté.

Miss Violet Cullen wore a white silk gown, trimmed with embroidered chiffon, on trains and décolleté.

Miss Pearl Davenport wore a handsome dress of pink faille Francaise, and pink crepe, trimmed with pearl passementerie.

Miss Louise Blaine, a becoming toilet of black net over silk, trimmed with turquoise and jet trimming, on V neck and elbow sleeves.

Miss Ella Blaine wore a gown of peach colored silk, trimmed with brown velvet, V neck and elbow sleeves.

Miss Belle Shavano wore a handsome toilet of white crepe, made with baby waist, demi-train, round neck and elbow sleeves; shoes and gloves were of white kid; bouquet of white roses.

Miss Kate Roberts wore a becoming dress of gray crepe trimmed with gray chiffon and silver, with shoes to match.

Miss Nellie Lehman wore a handsome toilet of Nile green silk with Nile green crepe draperies, and garnished with ribbons of the same shade, on low in the neck and sleeves, with tan gloves.

Miss Carpenter wore a poppy red silk trimmed about the round neck with red silk poppies, short sleeves and red gloves.

Mrs. Will Wallace looked very pretty in a gown of pale green crepe trimmed with Valenciennes lace, and romantics of ribbon of the same shade as the dress, round neck and short sleeves, with gloves and shoes to match the toilet.

Mrs. E. W. Knight, jr., wore a becoming gown of pale blue silk, an train, trimmed with forget-me-nots, with tan gloves and blue slippers.

Mrs. Sam Kennett, a costume of green cloth trimmed with pale green and gold braiding, with bonnet to match.

The gentlemen present were: Messrs. E.

W. Knight, Jr., Will Wallace, Jr., A. K. Barbour, Hervey Barbour, Don Davenport, Sam Kennett, Prosser, George Child, Walter Kelley, Eugene Braden, Braden, Craig, Wilson, R. A. Harlow, Norman Holter, Thornburgh and Harry Walker.

The Entre Nous club has dissolved and henceforth will be known as the Thirty-Three club, that being the number of gentlemen forming the club. The first dance since their reorganization was held in the Helena Business College hall on Friday evening. The music was furnished by Prof. Peterson's orchestra, the floor was in a fine condition and the dancers there for a good time, and they had it. At 11 o'clock elegant refreshments were served, being furnished by Will Cannon as a complimentary to the club, as he leaves for New York on Saturday to be absent some time. The dancing was kept up till after 1 o'clock, when they adjourned to meet again next week. Those who took part in the parties were: Misses Silverman, Grace Curtis, Annie Reing, Edna Hodges, Mae Hinds, Adah Roberts, Katie Alberta, Lizzy Swenson, Frankie Jurgens, Abigail, Quirk, Alta and Fannie Child, Martin Baird, Eliza Hector, Mae Curtis, Sadie Dickens, Nellie and Bessie Blake, Bessie and Clara Kirkendall, Belle Kiet, Eliza Moran, Bessie Barton, Florence McIntire, Wallace Mathers, Gertrude Martin, Jennie Tonn, Glendora Burton, Messrs. Will Cannon, Jesse Ricker, Claude Wilson, Will Campion, Harry, Charles and Fred Yeager, Frank Bradley, Ed Clarke, Chas. Dahler, E. K. Pruitt, Wm. Curtis, A. B. Klein, Schmidt, H. H. Sterling, Clifford Hillman, Walter Sanford, Hark Jessen, Gilman Bullard, Charles Davis, Clarence Silvan, Miss Silverman, Andrew Freetz, Charles Reing, Stephen Murphy, Albert Henry, Wm. Shepard, Ben Tonn, C. Hodges, Jr., H. McNerney, Thomas Osborn, Melvil Potter and Will Murphy.

There is really more fun in belonging to the "Bee" than in being a "Shrine". A jollier crowd never before assembled in Helena than was the "Bee," which met with Mrs. Frez on Tuesday afternoon at her home on Ewing street. The ladies, equipped with needles and thimbles, went early in the afternoon to help the hostess along with her winter sewing. The hundreds of the ladies were invited to supper, and a few others were favored with a like invitation. An elegant repast was served and most enjoyably enjoyed by all. At the head of the table sat W. C. Child, making a most unsuccessful endeavor to lend dignity to the occasion. Rev. Kelsey was in a most amiable mood, as were also the other gentlemen of the party. One lady declared she had really not eaten as much in three meals as she did that evening. After the dinner some toasts were proposed but owing to the diffidence of some of those called upon they were not responded to. One of the jolliest members of the party undertook to teach some toasts to help the hostess along. The hostess art how to tread the dizzy mazes of a dance. Suffice it to say she was successful in her efforts. Those who sat down to supper were: Messdames Mann, Widmer, Wallace Brown, W. C. Child, Handley, Hladson, Kelsey, Boardman, Harris, Hoskins, Misses Knowles and Cleveland; Messrs. Mart Widmer, Wallace Brown, Rev. Kelsey, W. C. Child, Col. Handley, Hladson, Boardman, Evans, Frez and Master Tommie Boardman.

One of the most enjoyable events ever given by the young society people of this city was a surprise party tendered to Miss Handley and Alta Child, at their home on Tuesday evening. Dancing was the main feature of the evening's entertainment. The music was furnished by Professor Peterson's orchestra and was very good in every respect. Among those present were: Misses Ashby, Quirk, Jurgens, Rector, Bessie and Nellie Blake, Barton, Tommie, Martin, Alta and Fannie Child, Miss Mathers, of Butte, Curtis, Kirkendall, Lehman, Baird, Dickens, Haskell, Sanders; Messrs. Sheppard, Cannon, Kirschmaldt, Frez, Pruitt, Wilson, Adley, Tonn, Campion, Curtis, Ricker, Fred Harry and Charles Yeager, Hodges, Clifford, Hillman, Henry, Thompson, Dahler, Styles, English, Murphy and Rinda.

Rev. Kelsey and wife entertained the Congregational sociable at the parsonage on Thursday evening. The names of the entertainers is a sufficient guarantee of the success of the evening. Both the Rev. and Mrs. Kelsey are a host in themselves and a guest at their home always goes away feeling he has had a thoroughly good time. A number of vocal and instrumental solos, and two recitations by Mrs. Fannie Carter lent much to the enjoyment of the evening. The children were given a portion of the house for their and made merry in a variety of ways. Social converse was the main feature of the evening. Ice cream and cake was served in abundance and greatly appreciated. A large number were present.

A very pleasant party was given by Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Davidson on Thursday evening at their home on Ewing street in honor of their niece, Miss Ella Davidson of Butte, who has been visiting friends and relatives in this city. Cards were played until 11 o'clock, when an elegant lunch was served, after which dancing began and was kept up until a late hour. After thanking the hostess for the delightful evening the guests took their departure. Among those present were: Messdames E. D. Neill, jr., Ednell, Misses Vera Ray, Ella Davidson and Belle Ray; Messrs. E. D. Neill, jr., Frank Levy, Richard Barden, Snowwood Wheaton, N. N. Davidson and F. D. Parker.

Barl Becker, of Forsyth, is spending a few days in Helena.

H. A. Harlow will spend the holidays in Chicago with his people.

H. B. Lyman left for Eaton Rapids, Mich., on Friday evening.

Dr. Whitefoot, of Bozeman, made a business trip to Helena last week.

Miss May Flanagan, of Fort Benton, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. T. C. Power.

Attorney H. G. McIntyre is rejoicing over the advent of a son into his household.

Charles M. Webster, of Great Falls, called on friends in Helena last week.

J. A. Birdley, of Helena, left Tuesday for St. Louis to absent for a short time.

Mrs. Wm. F. Wheeler will spend a few weeks with her daughter in Great Falls.

Mrs. Wallace Brown left last week for California to be absent two or three months.

Miss Friedlich gave a card party to a few of her friends on Wednesday evening.

A. B. Cooke, of Missoula, has been spending several days in this city among friends.

D. Whipple and wife spent a few days of last week in Bozeman visiting among friends.

Mrs. J. H. Meicher, of White's gulch, is in the city the guest of her niece, Mrs. Staring.

Edginger, of Butte, will spend the holidays in this city as the guest of Mrs. Barnett.

Miss Tessie Healy, of Livingston, visited her friend, Miss Mabel Kinzel, of Helena, last week.

John Herkin, public administrator of Jefferson county, made Helena a brief visit last week.

Mrs. R. A. Biglow, of Townsend, has been visiting friends in this city for the past week.

Attorney John Miller went to Great Falls last week on business connected with his profession.

R. C. Gates, who has been in Chicago on a business trip for several days, returned home last week.

Hon. Granville Stuart and wife arrived in the city last week, and will remain here for a short time.

Eugene Cullley left for his home in Ohio last week. If rumor is correct he will return with a bride.

B. H. Tatum, who has been seriously ill for several weeks, is much better and is so he can do a little.

Miss Alice Fallon, after spending several weeks with her brother in Walla Walla, Wash., returned to this city last week, and will spend some time with friends and relatives here before returning to her home in the east.

J. J. Stradling and daughter left for the coast last Wednesday. They will spend the winter in Los Angeles.

Hon. Samuel Word left Thursday for Philadelphia, to spend a short time in that city of brotherly love.

L. C. Stebbins, of the Montana Central, has returned from a business trip through Washington and Idaho.

Gov. Toole and wife and little son left Saturday evening for Washington, to be absent about three weeks.

Mrs. A. C. Logan, who has been seriously ill with congestion of the lungs for the past ten days, is slowly recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, of the Hotel Broadwater, left Thursday for the east to spend the remainder of the winter.

T. P. Sterling and daughter left Wednesday for Los Angeles, in which city they expect to pass the remainder of the winter.

Mr. Alderson and wife, of Bozeman, spent a few days of the past week in this city the guest of their daughter, Mrs. M. A. Russell.

T. J. Todd, of Fort Benton, arrived in Helena last Wednesday and will remain in town several days visiting relatives and friends.

The Misses Thornton, who have been spending some weeks in this city the guests of Mrs. J. T. Murphy, left for Butte on Tuesday.

N. H. Webster and wife left for California Wednesday evening. They will visit Mexico and other southern points before returning.

The mother of Mr. A. R. Cooke, who is staying with Mrs. Osterhout, has been seriously ill with a cold, but is on a fair way to recovery.

Mrs. John A. Barta, of Boulder, who has been spending the past two weeks visiting friends in the city, returned to her home on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Hunter, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Dickson, of Taxson, for a number of weeks, returned to her home in this city last week.

R. H. Langley, general freight and ticket agent of the Montana Central railway, left last Monday for Chicago to be absent ten days or two weeks.

Mrs. Fannie A. Lyman, of this city, left last Tuesday over the Union Pacific for Eaton Rapids, Michigan, to spend the winter among friends in that city.

Mrs. C. W. Pomeroy and daughter, Miss Sally, of Fort Benton, mother and sister of Mrs. T. L. Martin, will spend the winter with her, 716 Harrison avenue.

Mrs. E. Mitchell and little son, who have been spending the past three months visiting relatives in Keota, Iowa, returned to their home in this city yesterday.

Col. O. P. Chisholm and V. E. Tall, Jr., of Helena, are in the city last week for the purpose of obtaining the results of a shipment of a sent home to be smoked.

Mrs. B. H. Groshon and son, of this city, will leave soon for the Pacific coast, to spend the winter in a land of everlasting sun and perpetual blooming flowers.

Mrs. David Marks and little son leave tomorrow for California, where Mrs. Mark expects to spend the remainder of the winter with her parents in San Francisco.

Gay S. Platt, son of G. H. Platt, left Thursday for California, to spend the winter in a pliant climate. His health demands a change of scene and occupation.

Mrs. G. F. Marsh and Mrs. E. D. Aiken, who have been visiting with Mrs. W. T. Boardman, of this city, for several days, returned to their home in Butte, Tuesday.

Miss Maud Dunseth, who has been attending the Helena Business college in this city for the past term, returned to her home in Anaconda last week to spend the holidays.

Mrs. J. B. Southward and two children, of Steale, N. D., arrived in Helena last Tuesday. They will spend the winter in this city with the family of O. A. Southmeyer.

The following is from the Boulder Age: "Seth I. Green, a Connecticut gentleman, who is bringing considerable eastern capital into Jefferson county for investment in the mines, visited Boulder for a couple of days during the past week, and improved the opportunity to indulge in some baths at the Boulder hot springs."

W. F. Parker, who is superintending the work of a mining company near Thompson Falls, came down from the mines last Wednesday and will remain till after the holidays.

The second meeting of the Teachers' Reading circle was held at the high school last evening. The attendance was good and much interest was shown.

not hide their nests from him, nor the wild creatures escape him. He had a tame buzzard that sometimes followed him about in his rambles. He set traps for flying squirrels and turned them as soon as his hands touched them. He handled snakes fearlessly, and his feats with them were astounding to the town lad until Joe discovered that the serpents were not of the poisonous species. In handling highland moccasins and spreading adders Jim Polk confined his feet to seizing them by their tails as they ran, and snapping their heads off. Whenever he killed one in this way he always hung it on a bush or tree, in order, he said, to bring rain. When it failed to rain his explanation was that as a snake never lies until after sundown, no matter how early in the morning it may be killed, it laid twisted and writhed until it fell from the limb or hung on which it was hung. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were walking through the woods, they saw a pair of hawks flying in a circle, and Jim-Polk motioned to Joe to hide under a hawthorn bush. Then, doubling his handkerchief before his mouth, he began to make a curious noise—a series of guttural exclamations that sounded like "ho-hoo!-ho-hoo!" He was imitating the cry of the swamp owl, which Joe Maxwell had never heard. The imitation must have been perfect, for immediately there was a great commotion in the woods. Jim-Polk had many gifts and acquisitions that interested Joe Maxwell. Once when the two lads were