OUTGREW THE QUARTERS. Mrs. Fisher's Stock and Patrons Necessitate a Change.

Mrs. Fisher, who has just returned from the eastern markets, will have her millinery opening in her spacious new quarters, 15 South Main street, on Monday, April 11. Owing to the increase of Mrs. Fisher's stock and enlarged number of patrons, her old quarters were of inadequate size to accommodate both, and in consequence the change to more commodious quarters has been made. Her new rooms are handsomely fitted up with large plate glass mirrors in heavy frames of oak, which wood furnishes the trimmings and fixtures of the pleasant apartments. Mrs. Fisher has an immense stock of trimmed goods, having made a careful selection of imported pattern goods from all the largest wholesale houses in New York, that the ladies of Helena may have a variety to select from. She also carries a specialty in mourning goods, and has the agency for the famous "Gouti Meri" kid gloves, which are fitted and warranted when purchased. This new departure will fill a long felt want in Helena and allow many to make their purchases of hand wear in the city who have previously sent east for such articles.

This large millinery emporium also has the agency for the well known Schilling brand of hats, which are made in the city. Mrs. Fisher extends a cordial invitation to all ladies in Helena to visit her opening on Monday and inspect her fine line of millinery.

A Profitable Investment. People are constantly on the alert for a profitable investment, trying to turn an "honest penny."

The investment of a few cents in a jar of Cndaby's Rex beef extract will not bring you wealth directly, in dollars and cents, but will bring you a wealth of comfort.

That means which will bring the greatest happiness permanently is to be most desired and sought after.

The use of beef extract is not a luxury; formerly it was regarded as such. Many good housewives regard it as a necessity.

The wider the circle of acquaintance to whom it may be employed is enlarging as intelligent people are made acquainted with its properties and merits.

Minds are becoming disimbed of the idea that beef extract is a medicine, finding it a highly useful acquisition to the larder of all well regulated households for making beef tea and improving the flavor of soups, stews, gravies, etc.
