A Glove Contest on Big Indian in Which One of the Men Laid Down.

Charles Eytton, Light Weight Champion of Australia, Looking for a Match.

Butte and Great Falls Organizing Their Teams to Enter the State Base Ball League.

A crowd of thirty disappointed sports rode into town late yesterday afternoon from Big Indian in Jefferson county. They left the city at one p. m. in haste to see a finish fight between Chick Rogers, the champion waltz weight of Montana, and Brocky O'Neill, who at one time in the past, was a good man in the ring. The contest, what there was of it, was very brief and ended by Brocky pulling off the four-ounce gloves and quitting. The fight took place on a gravelly piece of ground on Big Indian. A ring was formed by backing the backs in a circle. Both men appeared in regulation fighting costume. Rogers weighed 150 and was in good condition. O'Neill, who is older than Chick, weighed 135. He was pulled up and not fit to fight. It was plain from the call of time that he was not in it with his youthful opponent. Rogers sent him to the tent twice. After going down the second time O'Neill pulled off his gloves and refused to continue. There was much disgust expressed by the assembled sports. O'Neill managed to land on Rogers a few times but was not effective. Johnnie Doyle and the "Pompadour Kid" were behind Rogers. Ike Hayes and Raddy Owens were in O'Neill's corner and a well-known sporting man, who has often filled the office before, was the referee. To give the crowd something for their money Rodgers and Charles Eytton, the champion lightweight wrestler of Australia, put on the gloves for these rounds. It was a clever scientific exhibition, which alleviated to some extent the feelings of the disappointed sports who stood around in the raw and chilly air.

EYTON'S RECORD.

A Chance for a Marysville Wrestler to Meet a Good Man.

Charles Eytton, who sparred with Chick Rogers yesterday, is looking for a match with some good wrestler. Eytton is a manly, unassuming young man, with an English accent. He is about 22, of medium height, and is not the kind of a man one would pick out as a wrestler. Eytton weighs about 130. He says very little about himself, but lets his record speak for him.

He first started wrestling under Prof. Miller in 1885, and has since been under some well known athletes such as Whedler, Christel and Dunn. He taught wrestling at Miller's academy, Melbourne, until April, 1887, when he wrestled in his first match with Burrows, weight 180 pounds, Greco-Roman style, winning first and third falls. Eytton weighing 128 pounds defeated T. Lawrence, catch-as-catch-can, two straight falls, Lawrence weighing 135 pounds; beat W. Leveritt two straight falls, catch-as-catch-can style. Leveritt weighing 140 pounds won the light-weight championship of the existing building. Melbourne, defeating all comers, including the following: Pano Spadoni, Osborne, Griffiths, Edwards, Hickey and Thorkey. In this contest Eytton never lost a fall. In August of the same year Eytton went to New Zealand and defeated D. Petrie, five falls out of seven, Cumberland, or back hold style.

He next met James Dunn for the championship of New Zealand, the match resulting in a draw. Eytton, in Eytton, breaking his arm in the third bout. This match was in the Greco-Roman style. Eytton next met Bart Osborne in a five-strike match at Christchurch, Eytton winning the Greco-Roman—back hold and catch-as-catch-can styles. In Hobart, Tasmania, he defeated C. N. Page, two straight falls, Greco-Roman style. He then met and defeated H. Jumball for the middle-weight championship of Australia, five falls. Eytton returned to Melbourne and beat Joe J. Horsey, the "Saucy King" in the first and third falls, catch-as-catch-can. He next made a tour of the colonies with Frank P. Slavin, offering $100 to any one who could not throw in fifteen minutes. He met twenty men without once forfeiting his money.

Eytton then came to America and met his first defeat at Tacoma at the hands of Jas. H. Faulkner, the light weight champion of the world, Faulkner winning the first and third falls, catch-as-catch-can. In Portland, Eytton defeated Jack Connors, Wm. Faulkner, John Hammet and Bud Smith. Eytton's latest match was with Clowes, the Ming ocules wrestler at Great Falls, whom he defeated, catch-as-catch-can, winning the first and second falls.

BASE BALL.

Butte and Great Falls Preparing to Join the State League.

The state league will be composed of a team from each of the following cities: Great Falls, Helena, Butte, Bozeman, Anaconda and Missoula. Twenty games will be played at each of these places, or 120 games in all, the team having the highest percentage at the close of the season to be awarded a $500 championship pennant.

Great Falls has decided to incorporate a base ball and athletic association with a capital stock of $10,000 in 2,000 shares of $5 each. The board of trustees named for the first three months are: C. M. Webster, A. E. Dickerman, Henry Prantiss, Jr., W. M. Hemler, H. J. Melli, J. S. Alling, W. H. Gelschhorpe, C. H. Clark and E. A. Ringwald.

The Butte City Athletic club has been perfected by the election of the following officers: President, John F. Cowan; vice president, D. J. Hennessy; secretary and treasurer, A. T. Morgan; directors, J. F. Cowan, John A. Cannon, B. H. Cook and S. W. Davis. The directors have been instructed to prepare and file articles of incorporation. The capital stock will be $5,000, in shares of $5 each. This stock has all been subscribed, one gentleman taking the shares that remained unsold, with the understanding that any who desired to purchase could do so by applying to the board of directors.

Several bids have been received for the erection of the grand stand and fence, and the contract will be awarded to-day. The stand will seat 2,500, and the space beneath will be divided into rooms for the accommodation of the baseball, cricket and other clubs who will use the grounds, also a room for the ladies of the lawn tennis club. There will also be living rooms for Catcher Wilson of the baseball club, who will have charge of the grounds. Work on the building will not be begun immediately, as there is some hitch in regard to the lease. Bids will open in the city hall with Bezzeman July 5. The schedule is arranged that each trip will cover a period of fifteen days.

THE WHEELMAN WON.

A Jury Decides That the Wheelman Has Rights in the Streets. Wheelmen all over the country are banding together in an effort to make it a matter of common knowledge that a bicyclist has his rights when riding. The Helena wheelmen brought public attention to it when they instituted a prosecution against the hackman who rode over one of their members a short time ago and damaged his wheel. A Minneapolis jury last week found a verdict for E. O. McCaddon, a wheelman who was run over on an avenue by C. J. Johnson. The case was fought by the Business Men's Bicycle association and the League of America. It was the first time that the rights of wheelmen to their share of the roadway. It was established that McCaddon was on the right side of the street and Johnson on the wrong side when the accident occurred. The verdict was for $48, the amount of the damage to the wheel, and A. B. Choate, of the wheelman, feels that the principle involved has been decided favorably to the riders of bicycles.

EASTER SUNDAY.

General Observance of the Day in the Churches of Helena. Special services characterized the observance of Easter in most of the churches. At the cathedral a special musical programme was carried out at the high mass. Solos were sung by Mrs. J. K. Teole, Mrs. La Salle, Miss Rosenbaum, Messrs. T. L. Martin, J. T. Walsh, Rufus C. Garland and James B. Walker. Mrs. D. Dick was the organist. At the vesper services the Tenor Solo of "Berceuse" was rendered by a chorus of sixteen voices.

A very fine musical programme was given at St. Peter's Episcopal church by the sacred choir. In the evening the annual school concert and carol service was held, beginning at seven o'clock.

The services at the Christian Unitarian and First Baptist, Congregational and First Presbyterian churches were also marked by special musical programmes. The Easter services at the Christian church last evening, given by the Sunday school, were novel and of a very interesting nature. A large crowd stood upon the platform, which was prettily decorated with flowers and evergreens. Upon either side in gilt letters were appropriate scriptural quotations, while down the center piece in larger letters was the name "Jesus," and upon the base of the whole was inscribed the word "Love." Sweet singing, entertaining recitations and responsive reading made up the programme. Nine little boys and girls in the infant class each recited a verse and presented their teacher with a capital letter, which was placed on top of the cross so as to read, when complete, "He Is Risen."

BIG YEAR FOR STOCKMEN.

An Estimate That Montana Owners Will Realize $5,000,000 From Their "Crop."

The State Stock Growers Association to Meet at Miles City To-morrow.

A Large Attendance Expected—The Action of Wyoming's Governor to Be Considered.

J. H. Landers, inspector of live stock at Minnesota Transfer, Twin City stock yards and South St. Paul, estimates that the run of Montana beefs the coming season will reach 150,000 head. The Montana cattle growers should realize about $5,000,000 from their "crop" this year. The winter losses on range cattle were very light—not more than three per cent in most of the herds. The stock growers of Montana and Wyoming have little to complain of, excepting the present low prices of beefs and the depredations of cattle and horse thieves. There is a hope that the markets will show advances in June and July, as some feeders in the corn-growing districts have sold nearly all of their fat stock.

Inspector Landers' estimate is entitled to much consideration, as he has spent a lifetime on the ranges and has kept track of the Montana cattle movement for several years in his present position. Early in 1891 he estimated that the run of that year would reach 200,000 head, and some well-to-do people thought the figure was too high. The run of 1891 footed up 206,000 head, which, at the low average of $25 each, resulted in sales to the amount of $7,210,000.

Mr. Landers says: "The purchases of stock cattle made in Minnesota for shipment to the northwestern part of this state and to the Dakotas and Montana have been much heavier this season than usual. They promise to keep up for some time. Large shipments have been made from here to Dickinson, N. D., where small ranchmen as well as the large companies are increasing their herds. The shipments of horses to the Dakotas are very heavy this season, and numbered nearly 8,000 head during February, with a large addition in March. The demand is for good heavy horses that are well broken and in condition for farm work."

STOCK GROWERS ASSOCIATION.

The Annual Meeting Commences To-morrow at Miles City.

Miles City will be crowded for the next few days with stockmen from all parts of the state. One of the most important questions to be brought before the association is the action of the governor of Wyoming. The Northwestern Live Stock Journal called attention to this matter some time ago and to the suggestion of Dr. Halloway, state veterinarian of Montana, that a trail four miles in width from Orin Junction north to the present Montana line as the solution of the present quarantines outstanding. This seems to be an easy way out of a very serious dilemma.

The present attitude of our governor cannot be maintained, says the Journal. An attempt to do so will involve the state in legal contests lasting for years and involving large sums of money. We are now taxed almost to death and can stand no additional burdens in that direction. A few hundred dollars will mark out a trail, and if this is done shippers will respect the lines established. If this is not done more than 100,000 cattle will march leisurely across the state its entire width, and the damage will be far greater than that imposed by opening up a trail half way across the state.

Our neighbors have made large purchases in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona cattle in districts where the health of the cattle is unquestioned and whence they have heretofore come freely and without restraint, and they are entitled to some consideration. No one questions the right to full protection on the other hand, no one can rightfully deny entrance to cattle known to be healthy. The opening of a trail will be a matter of common sense, and it will save our people much trouble and many dollars. Open the trail.

If the quarantine regulation of Wyoming is obeyed, stockmen will be compelled to ship from Cheyenne to Orin Junction, Orin Junction to Orin, Orin to St. Paul, and cattle are unloaded and driven around the eastern edge of the Black Hills country, and thence west to their destination in Montana. This makes an additional expense of about $100 a head, besides doubling the distance to drive across the country. If the order is enforced it is claimed it will defeat a good many sales and eat up the profits of several years.
