Steam 212 Degrees Hot Poured in

Cause of the Explosion Yet Unknown—
An Awful Spectacle Seen in the Engine Room.

(Copyright, 1894, by the Associated Press.)
BOSTON, Feb. 17.—The emperor is sending a large wreath which will be displayed at the funeral of the victims of the Brandenburg disaster. The Brandenburg has been towed into the harbor, and this morning the chief engineer, who has been missing since the explosion, was found dead, and three more injured artificers have died, bringing the total dead to forty-three. The Reichswehr published an official account of the explosion. The account says the accident happened through the breaking away of a fastening apparatus for turning off the steam of the starboard engine, and steam from all the boilers thus found free ingress into the engine room filled with people.

The steam penetrated through the door leading to the port engine room, and thence through the stairways into the upper rooms, continuing its work of destruction. Almost every person busily at work in those rooms must have met with instant death, as steam was pouring from the boilers at a temperature of 212 degrees. Nothing is yet known of the cause of the breakage. The admiralty department has dispatched their chief constructor to Kiel with instructions to ascertain the cause of the disaster. The emperor has sent the following telegram to Capt. Hindeman: "The heroic death which the victims met in the faithful performance of duty insures them forever a place of honor in the memory of their countrymen and in the annals of the German navy. With firm trust in God, we must submit to the working of his inscrutable will and look to the future to be consoled. I will cause a tablet to be placed in the garbion of the church at Kiel, in memory of the killed."

A dispatch from Kiel to-night says the engine on board states that at the moment of the explosion 7,500 horse power was indicated on the gauges, and that the pressure was so much as 10,000 horse power had been reached. A new copper tube was inserted before the disastrous trip by the Vulkan company, but the vessel, who had the greatest interest in showing the capacity of the engines at their best, because the vessel had not yet been taken over by the government.

The spectacle in the engine room after the disaster was horrifying. The dead were heaped one upon another, devoid of clothing, and the bodies were in a mass, which form was to be seen at their mouths.

Prince Arsenberg, reporter of the budget committee, declared that the committee had a right to the attention of the central administration was responsible for the recent African troubles, and most in the future exercise greater judgment in the choice of colonial officials. He also declared that the administration had made a savage and senseless attack upon the administration of East Africa, and denounced the retrograde civilization mission colonialists.

Upon resuming debate to-day members were astonished to find upon the table of the house specimens of whips made out of thongs of hide, and the idea of a whip was castigation, which, according to Hebel, were used by German officials in East Africa to lash unfortunate laborers.

Hebel urged that Germany abandon her possessions in southern Africa, and be content with retaining her own possessions. In reply to the criticism of the German leaders for non-success. After long discussion the second reading of the East Africa estimates.

A great convention of the Farmers' league, represented by 5,000 delegates, met to-night in the city hall. The address announced von Caprivi's tariff policy in the strongest terms. There was no conservative member of the reichstag among the speakers and the address was a direct attack upon Caprivi's tariff policy.

The league held an overflow meeting to-night, at which 3,000 persons were present. The speaker was the president of the league, who made a speech in which he declared that the league was not a party, but a movement, and that it was not to be a party, but a movement, and that it was not to be a party, but a movement.

YELLOW JACK AT RIO.

The Death Rate Among Large War
Ships.

Copyright, 1894, by the Associated Press.
RIO on JANUARY, Feb. 17.—There were forty-five deaths yesterday from yellow fever, and fifteen with other fevers. The United States cruiser New York has gone to sea suddenly. It is suspected she is tainted with fever. The Detroit left here a week ago for Rio de Janeiro, and she had no fever on board. There are only seven to eight war ships here and there is little doubt.

There is little doubt of the truth in the sensational report that one of the rebel warships recently fired on a steam launch belonging to the United States cruiser Newark. The long infection of the Rio harbor and America is due to lack of ammunition for the guns, and also to the fact that the weakness of the government forces at Rio was such that these ships could not depend upon them for protection in carrying out the plan of operations in Rio harbor. The plan was therefore abandoned, and the two rebel warships left for Pernambuco and Bahia awaiting the arrival of ammunition from New York. The Nietherby and America have now received ammunition and are in good fighting trim.

BURNED ALIVE, Feb. 17.—Advices received to-day from Rio state that the insurgent squadron here, composed of some 1,000 men, five thousand five hundred from the southern part of Brazil have entered the state of Sao Paulo and are marching in the direction of the city. They have had several skirmishes with government troops, and in each instance have defeated them. Police have sent artillery, infantry and volunteer companies to defend the front of the state of Rio de Janeiro. The inhabitants of Rio are loudly demanding the cessation of hostilities and the restoration of peace.

Progress of Work on the Tariff
Bill by the Senate Committee.

New Jersey Tariff Beggers Persistent and Unceasing in Their Pleading.

New Yorkers Afraid the President Will Go Outside of the State for a Justice.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The senate sub-committee on the tariff sat in the senate room until 11 o'clock, and then repaired to the room of the senate committee on finance, where the meeting continued with all the democratic members of the committee except Vanneburg present. The committee is making bareheaded efforts to get the bill in shape for presentation to the full committee at the regular meeting Tuesday next. Secretary Carlisle met with members of the sub-committee for an hour this morning, discussing the administrative features of the bill, and comparing figures as to the amount of revenue necessary and the best means of raising it. The committee is of the opinion that if the bill can be made to insure $400,000,000 at present that the same can be made to serve the purpose.

Carlisle has also been consulted as to the proposed change in the whisky tax and the best method of making it. He has been advised that there shall be no extension of the bonded period, unless also a corresponding increase of tax, because of the revenue requirements of the government and necessity for an immediate increase. Senators interested in securing an extension of the bonded period are firm in the belief that the committee will report favorably in this respect. They also believe there will be an increase of tax which will meet Carlisle's objections.

McPherson sat with the committee and continued his efforts to secure certain changes in behalf of the manufacturing interests of New Jersey. There has not been a day during the week that there have not been delegations from that state urging changes in the bill. To-day there were representatives of tobacco, leather, pottery, stained glass, fire brick, thread and iron and steel in the city.

Democratic members of the senate finance committee took up the sugar schedule only to decide to postpone further consideration until next Monday, for the purpose of permitting the advocates of duty another opportunity to be heard.

The New York delegation in congress is meeting to-day to discuss the rejection of Peckham for the supreme court bench, and already three prominent New York men are being actively canvassed. The New York delegation is showing a marked disposition over Horribler and Peckham to result in sending the appointment outside of New York state, but it is known that the Democratic party members of the senate are not in favor of this course.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATIONS.

Superintendent Has Prepared a Circular in Regard to Them.

At the recent meeting of the State Teachers' association in Butte the county superintendent in attendance adopted a resolution that four regular teachers' examinations be held during the year; that these be held on the last Friday of February, April, August and November in each county of the state, and that a uniform set of questions be used in all counties. For the information of those contemplating teaching and all other interested, state superintendent E. A. Stearns has prepared the following circular:

"The county superintendent may examine an applicant to fill a vacancy that occurs between the dates of the regular examinations. First grade certificates shall continue in force three years, and shall be granted to persons who have had twelve months successful experience in teaching, and who shall make general average in their examination of not less than 75 per cent nor less than 70 per cent in any one subject. Second grade certificates shall continue in force two years, and be issued to persons whose general average in examination is not less than 75 per cent, nor less than 70 per cent in any one subject. Third grade certificates shall be issued to those who make a general average of not less than 75 per cent, and in no case shall any person receive a third grade certificate who makes less than 60 per cent in any one branch. Pen and ink must be used in the examination. The examination shall be kept on file during the term of office of the county superintendent. The examination papers of applicants are for information of the county superintendent and are not public records. The grades made should be mailed to each applicant within a week. Should an applicant fail to pass 60 per cent in any branch it should be equivalent to a failure in all and he should not be permitted to write again until the next regular examination and then he should write upon all subjects. Besides scholars, only law (sec. 1900) contemplates that applicants to whom are intrusted the highest interests of the state, the education of its youth, shall be of good moral character, ability to govern and aptness to teach. The county superintendent is his own judge as to how fairly he will give the applicant reasons for the refusal of a certificate."

WILLIAM BLACK'S RECORD.

The Ex-Convict From Montana Now in Trouble at Wardner.

A special from Wardner, Idaho, announced that William Black, who was recently pardoned out of the Montana penitentiary, is in trouble again. Black was convicted of assault to kill, in Silver Bow county, Sept. 24, 1902, and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. He was pardoned out Aug. 25 last, after having served a little over eleven months. It was reported that Black was suffering from the effects of a wound that would soon and his life and that he had been in the prison hospital since coming to Silver Bow county. Black's friends would furnish the money to take him beyond the borders of Montana, and that he was being held for and did not become a burden on any county of this or any other state. Black accepted these conditions and eight business men of Butte, Idaho, guaranteed that if he should be released they would see that the conditions were observed. Gov. Rickards, in granting the pardon under this condition, stated that he was not making any liberating convict unless for offenses of the magnitude of Black's, he was convinced that he was not a danger to the public and that he was a man of good character and that he was a man of good character and that he was a man of good character.

Black was arrested at Wardner, Idaho, on Thursday night and taken to the county jail. He was held for a few days and then released. He was arrested again on Saturday night and taken to the county jail. He was held for a few days and then released. He was arrested again on Sunday night and taken to the county jail.
