

BOUGHT ANCESTORS FOR HERSELF.

How a Wealthy French Widow Acquired a Coveted Title.

The lady was a widow and rich—very rich—as the French novelist says, rich as the French Republic. The gentleman was a widower past 60, extremely, even ridiculously, poor, and the last of a most noble and historical house. History is full of the achievements of his people. Prosperant mentions their exploits in every other page. They were always taking this side or the other, for the king and against the king. When they took a side, they meant it. Out they marched, they and theirs, in full armor. Whichever side they took it always ended in their being captured and decapitated for high treason or else killed in battle. From father to son, from generation to generation, for long centuries, none of them ever went out of the world from an inglorious feather bed. It was always from the grassy field of honor or from a scaffold. A gray beard was unknown in that house, nor had any of them ever experienced the tender emotions of a grandfather.

The lady, besides being a widow and rich, was of ignoble origin, and her late husband had made his money in trade. Reflection upon this point made her unhappy. She was so rich that she thought she ought also to be noble, just to correspond. It is a common confusion of thought. She desired above all things to connect her riches with an ancient name, and she made a proposal to the nobleman. "Marry me," she said. "Give me the right to use your name. In return I will give you as handsome an annuity as you can possibly desire. You shall have the means of living as you please and of obtaining all that you can desire. I will not ask you to live in my house. You shall live where you please. I will only ask that, for appearance sake, you will take your place at my dinners and that you will show up as the lord of the house at my receptions."

"Was arranged in this sense. The lady took and furnished for herself a great hotel. She had the rooms decorated in honor of this and that illustrious ancestor. The arms of the house were everywhere; the portraits, busts and statues of the house were in all the rooms; the pictures represented scenes and episodes in the history of the house. The servants wore the ancient livery—the well known livery of the house. The hotel became a museum of the house, and at dinners and on reception nights the duke himself was always present, grave, dignified and stately, with the look of one who had stepped out of a picture frame 500 years old and had put on the clothes of the nineteenth century, but not its manners. When madam the duchess was not at home, he lived in his own chambers at the club after his own fashion. An excellent bargain, was it not, and one that seems perfectly fair to both parties?"

TURF PHILOSOPHY.

The rules need less changing than enforcing. No man knows the limit of the tendency to revert to ancestral types.

It is the "prize" meetings that draw the hordes that draw the people to the grand stand. The nation richest in horses are the Argentine Republic and Uruguay—in quantity, not quality.

The loss sustained by bad roads in Illinois has been "moderately" figured at $10,000,000 annually. The polo pony should simply be a thoroughbred in miniature, while the weight carrier ought to be a dwarf hackney.

A well posted devotee of St. Anthony says, "I think there should be a law forbidding some men from shoeing horses." He who thinks a 4-year-old is too young to work on account of shedding an occasional tooth cannot have shed his own colt teeth.

If it is true that Harriet Clay was faint hearted, her daughter Harrietta cannot be said to have inherited such characteristics. How do our "pupils teachers" explain this? A rule should be made by all associations that no rider or driver in a race should look backward. No horse that is in the lead is expected to get out of the way for another.

It might be suggested to arrange a set of mirrors in front of the driver to see that he might have the advantage of "looking backward" without the necessity of taking his attention off what is in front of him. The unqualified assertion that speed begets speed is untrue. It is not the demonstrated speed acquired by cultivation that is transmitted, but an inherited capacity that admits the development of speed through training.—Horseman.

Bookien's Arsenic 'a's.
The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chitties, Corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by the Parthen-A'cheul Drug company.

The Chinese Pink.
The Chinese pink was first sent from China to Paris by missionaries in 1705. The double ounce was first noted among seedlings in 1719 in Paris gardens. Of late years the improvement has been rapid, and today there are few more satisfactory or beautiful plants in garden borders than the improved China pink.—Mechan's Monthly.

In Your Tongue
Coated, your throat dry, your eyes dull and inflamed, and do you feel mean generally when you get up in the morning? Your liver and kidneys are not doing their duty. Why don't you take Parks' Euro Cure? If it does not make you feel better it costs you nothing. It cures hot and cold, diabetes and all kidney complaints. Only guaranteed cure. Sold by Parthen-A'cheul Drug Co.

Dreams depend entirely upon the particular way in which special parts of the brain are supplied with blood during sleep, and they have no more importance as prognostications for your life and happiness than any other fact of circulation or any other form of indigestion.

THE ROUND TABLE.

Paul Bourget's book of American impressions will be called "Outre Mer." Darwin loved trashy novels. Professor Froude prefers salmon fishing to writing history.

Miss Lilli Pinzelberg, the sculptor of Berlin, has gone on a visit to the Count and Countess Herbert Blensmark. She intends to model a bust of the countess.

James Whitcomb Riley is reported as saying that the more money he makes the more he wants to write poetry. Possibly this may be explained by the fact that the more poetry he writes the more money he makes.

Miss Mary Wilkins almost invariably writes the last sentence of a story first. Then she works up to that which is the keynote of the whole in her own mind. Several other authors have followed this same plan successfully.

A Small Doctor Bill.
Fifty cents is a small doctor bill, but that is all it will cost you to cure any ordinary case of rheumatism if you use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Try it, and you will be surprised at the prompt relief it affords. The first application will quiet the pain. 50-cent bottles for sale by all druggists.
