NEW YORK—165 Sixth Av.
HELENA—Sixth and Main.

Four thousand square feet of floor space in the new store will be devoted to Dolls, Toys and Holiday Goods. No such quantity of these goods has ever been displayed in Montana before. The stock is absolutely complete in every line—was especially selected with reference to the needs of Montana people—was bought direct from European and American factories—and will be sold at lower prices than even we have ever named before for similar goods.

The Dry Goods department—occupying the remaining 2,000 square feet of the store—will be in the future one of the leading features of our business. We will have at all times the newest goods to be obtained in the market—anticipating any other concern in styles—and the prices will be our sort of prices.

May have skating very soon—and our stock of Barney & Berry's skates came yesterday—came too late to give you exact prices—but they're new ones. No need to tell you anything of the quality of the Barney & Berry skate. Might not be amiss to tell you that the sled stock will meet any demand on it.

DELIGHTFUL RECEPTIONS GIVEN.

Helena Society Celebrate Monday and Tuesday at Two Large Gatherings—Many Visitors in Town.

An entertainment which has attracted considerable attention in large cities, but which had never before taken place in Helena, occurred Friday and Saturday evening last at the auditorium. It was appropriately termed a "chrysanthemum show," and the proceeds were for St. Peter's parish. The chrysanthemums came from Mrs. Wells' greenhouse and certainly reflect much credit upon that lady's floral culture. Her chrysanthemums are now as celebrated as her roses are, which are known all over the state, no social gathering in this city being complete without them. Florists estimate about 175 varieties of the chrysanthemum, and it seemed as though in this beautiful collection all the varieties had been gathered together. White ones were most plentiful, with large and small petals, curling in and curling out, and some very tall ones on the floor, even then towering above the visitor. Scattered down the length of the hall were other tables, draped in white, and holding large jardinières of the same flower. In one corner was a large table filled with cut blossoms, which commanded a ready sale. There were also tables for refreshments, gotten up in the daintiest manner, one with pink candles, pink flowers and young ladies gowned in pink to wait upon it. Another draped in pale green, over which a pale green-crocheted banquet lamp threw a delicate glow. There were tables of fancy work prettily arranged; there were piano lamps here and there, and screens to divide one space from another. One corner was particularly noticeable; a number of screens enclosed it, it was warmly carpeted, there were couches with soft inviting cushions, where one might rest while taking refreshments, a table daintily set forth with crystal, china, and shining napery, and to complete the charming picture, a bevy of pretty girls in charming gowns, to serve. Surely the exchequer must have been overflowing. All these scenes, taken in connection with the decoration of the room which had not been removed from Monday's jubilee, made a very charming picture, calculated to charm every cent out of one's pocket.

All this was in the after part of the evening. The first part was given to music and drama. Mr. Hirschfeld gave some selections in his own inimitable style. Messrs. Bailey and Zoetkier of the Mandolin club were obliged to respond to enthusiastic applause, and Misses Roberts and Raleigh gave a sprightly piano duet. The stage setting and "Songs of Seven" were the same as noticed in these columns last week at Mrs. Davis' home; Mrs. James Walker, Miss Belle Davis and little Katherine Tibbets gaining fresh laurels in their graceful representations. Mrs. Walker has a sympathetic voice, well adapted to sympathetic parts. The entertainment yesterday afternoon was for the babies and they were out in force, each one sweeter and prettier than the other. Last evening the entertainment was repeated, with some changes in the musical programme. Mesdames Foote, Babcock and May appearing in solos, duet, and trio. Both evenings were well attended, and were a source of pleasure to all.

Besides being a day for general rejoicing, Monday was a pleasant day for many of the city's society ladies, who were bidden to an elegant reception by Mrs. Brunell, at her pretty home on Harrison avenue. The decorations on this occasion were all that good taste could devise, and were, as is noticeable in all of Helena's society gatherings, a marked feature of the fete. The chief flower was the chrysanthemum; in the hall and front parlor, yellow and white, relieved by palms, olive in pot, and umbrella palm, being much admired. In the back parlor, the chrysanthemums were dark, with a background of smilax, gracefully draped about the mantel and chandeliers. In the dining room, the culmination of color, conversation and conviviality was reached. Here the colors were green and white. A white centerpiece of drawn work over green silk, graced the table, and held a large cut glass bowl of white chrysanthemums; smaller cut glass bowls of the same flowers were at the corners, with bows of delicate green ribbon. Green shades at the chandeliers softly tinted the room, and the refreshments were as much as possible partook of these colors. Crisp green lettuce leaves with the delicate white bread, scalloped oysters, coffee, cakes, with green and white ice cream made a dainty feast. Mrs. Brunell's gown was of tan crepe, trimmed in Persian embroidery. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Hunt, in black lace over silk; Mrs. Perkins, in black satin, brocaded in yellow half moons; and Mrs. Bickett, in a gown of white and gold, with a green and white gown, and Miss Jurgens, in pale green, who waited upon the ladies as they arrived. The other guests were: Mesdames Atwater, Babcock, Brewer, Bell, Booker, Baker, Craven, Medini, Cory, Carpenter, B. P. Carpenter, Craig, Ester, Edgerton, Fowles, Greenfield, Gates, Hindson, Howell, Harrison, Holter, Harwood, Jefferis, Kleinschmidt, Harrah, Crowell, Mason, Miner, Lockwood, Lyman, E. B. Lyman, J. May, Phelps, Welmecary, Stebbins, Rumsey, Snell, Schermerhorn, Shannon, Hewins, Stadler, Tracy, Prescott, Bullard, Pozanski, Styles, Jurgens, Lockey, Davis, J. Luke, E. Luke, Spaulding, Gunn, Bickford, McConnell, Larsen, Swinehart, Fletcher, Perry, Carmichael, Blake, Brown, J. Curtin, G. May, Pleasants, Loose, P. Kennett, Fuller, Porter, Hickman, Gage, and Figgot, of Great Falls; Mrs. Brooks, Cory, Carpenter, Dickenson, Howell, Kerr, Rumsey, Shannon, Barbour, Lockey, Vassar, Harrison, Hickman.

Tuesday afternoon and evening Hon. Thomas Cruise kept "open house" to all of Montana. And it really seemed as if all of Montana availed themselves of the privilege and took this occasion to go in and congratulate the ex-governor upon the magnificent part he played in the late contest. Everybody was welcome. Judges, bankers, laborers, mechanics, society leaders, humble reporters, clerks and stenographers—all were there, and all were received with the utmost cordiality, and treated to the New at the New York Dry Goods Store. A Newmarket with Golf cape attached. This, ladies, is the latest novelty in this winter's productions of stylish wraps. The New York store, remember, is equal to any emergency. Strikes and disorders and troublesome times at the manufacturers never means its surrender. Cloaks and jackets are coming like a house on fire. But this detachable Newmarket is something new. The Golf cape that is attached to the garment can be removed and worn separately, thus in itself becoming a general dress wrap. The removal of the cape and hood does not lessen the pretty appearance of the Newmarket; on the contrary it becomes useful for storm and winter wear. We want you to look at our great south window, wherein we this week exhibit a glorious line of winter wraps. Many colors of this Newmarket will be placed on view. We are confident that you will agree with us that nothing the season's fashions have brought us quite equals this in point of elegance and style. On the third page, where our "ad." appears, we make mention of a line of new chevots that came the last few days. These goods are positively sold for 60c to 75c in the best establishments of New York city. We tapped the importer and captured a case which we are going to offer you for 40c and 50c. They are lovely rich goods, and we consider them the biggest bargain of the season.

Last week's silk removal sale was an exciting success, extravagantly exciting, owing to so many strangers being in the city. "What a darling of a table," they would exclaim. How eager they seemed for the grand bargains offered here. Ladies, we are obliged to continue this remnant sale of silks another week. We can't help it. The remnants are numerous; the demand is great.
