The readers of the HUSBANDMAN gain much valuable information from its columns every week.

The creamer is an indispensable necessity to the farmer who keeps but a few cows and cannot afford a dairy house.

There are hundreds of farmers who make butter on a small scale who do not understand the first principles of butter making.

Louis Heitman writing from St. Paul under a recent date, says that the snow was twelve inches deep and that the country was looking very dreary.

Among the relic hunters who visited the Rocky Mountains during the past season from the great cities, was one in search of the 'horns' of a mountain lion.

The viewers appointed to survey the road to Townsend will perform their duty as soon as the weather will admit. They will, however, first view the Livingston road.

The first load of freight arrived from Livingston last week. The freighter reports the road free from hills, and says if a few bridges were put in it would be a good freight road.

A. E. Keyes has taken charge of the little saloon up town again. Mr. Rader having retired. He will keep a full stock of wines, liquors, cigars, nuts, candies, and a choice variety of fresh fruits.

Owing to its being impossible for some of the members of the new company to be present, the meeting of the Springs association has been postponed until to-morrow, when it is hoped every member will be present.

As an advertising medium the Rocky Mountain Husbandman has no superior in Montana. An advertisement in its columns seldom fails to achieve its purpose, and is therefore worth many times over what it costs.

We would call the attention of those who contemplate building to the card of Philip Gehrett, plaster, stone and brick mason, to be found in this issue. Mr. Gehrett is a reliable workman and completes his contracts with dispatch, and in a good workmanlike manner.

Information is wanted of the whereabouts of a bay mare branded S across an S on left thigh. She is accustomed to running on Smith river. Information leading to her recovery will be suitably rewarded at this office.

We would call the attention of horse men to the advertisement of Glen-Moore Stock Farm, in this issue. Mr. Moore is a thorough horse man, and is taking great pride in breeding. He has good horses and knows how to breed them. Give him a call.

Monday a week since the coach that left Martinsdale for Benton lost its way, owing to the snow storm, and after much wandering came to an unoccupied sheep cabin and coral, where the night was passed. The driver had oats for his team, but he and Frank Severance, a passenger, were twenty-four hours without a meal. Mr. McGregor's ranch was reached next day and the night spent there, the storm not letting up.

Edwin Swope, who arrived a few days ago from Santa Clara, Cal., has purchased the co-partnership interest of J. A. Woodson in the firm of Woodson & Smith, blacksmiths at this place, and the firm will hereafter be styled and known as Swope & Smith. Mr. Swope is a young man, comes well recommended and will be a valuable acquisition to our town. The new firm have, we learn, leased the shop and lot next above the HUSBANDMAN office for one year and commence business anew on Monday next.

Eighteen inches of snow fell on the Musselshell during the recent storm.

The public school is having a vacation of a couple of weeks. When it opens again Mrs. Gibson will assist Miss Nichols.

R. S. Price is putting up a warehouse in connection with his store building.

From what we can learn the snow storm a week since was general all over Montana and throughout the States.

Mrs. Levett, of Ubet, is visiting Miss Flora Black at her home near the Springs.

The Grand Jury of Madison county request that the order suspending Judge Conger be revoked.

Miss Flora Black requests us to express thanks to many of our people for kindnesses received at their hands during her severe affliction.

David Marks, who has recently taken the position of traveling man for the Helena Independent, is in town. He is a very popular young man, and has been doing a flourishing business since his arrival here. We wish him continued success.

Max Waterman, one of Benton's prosperous attorneys at law, arrived Monday last. On his way up he paid a visit to Maiden, and while there organized a lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen—of which he is Lodge Deputy—with twenty-six charter members.

Leigh Freeman's latest is called the Union-Freeman. It is a large eight-page sheet with patent inside. According to its headlines it was established a good many years ago and has about 8,000 circulation. Mr. Freeman states that it is now owned by a stock company, and will soon have a new editor.

Dr. Parberry has just received a letter from Sam Snider, who is now in California, informing him of the purchase of 5,000 sheep which he will drive into Montana this summer. The sheep are all yearling ewes, the pick of a large band. This addition gives the doctor the ownership of the largest number of sheep of any one man in Meagher county.

We would call attention to W. G. Bailey's advertisement in this issue. Mr. Bailey has one of the largest jewelry establishments in Montana. His large stock is of the best manufactured, and prices are such as to warrant persons in purchasing here instead of sending east. The customer in buying of Mr. Bailey knows what he is getting. This being the case it always pays to patronize the local dealers. When you go to Helena don't fail to give him a call.

A. W. Sias, the present manager of the Springs hotel and Secretary of the Association, will probably be re-elected again and continued in charge of the hotel. He is an excellent landlord, thoroughly understands every department of the business from office to kitchen, while Mrs. Sias presides over the social department with queen-like ease, and fully succeeds without apparent endeavor in making every one about her, and especially the lady guests of the house, happy, and we believe the company will be acting wisely in continuing them in charge of the property.

The Butte Miner of last week contains a long article in regard to the Chicago & Montana Cattle Co., in which it presumes that the company exists only in Chicago. This is an injustice as there is sure enough a company which styles itself the Chicago & Montana Cattle Co. on the waters of the Lower Musselshell. As to how many cattle they possess we are not informed, neither are we informed as to the responsibility of its members. We understand, however, that the members have sure enough corralled a large section of very inviting country, which command a large range. Major Reed, of the Judith, formerly in partnership with James Bowles, is a member of the company, and we believe one the managers.

It is not without a feeling of sincere regret that we chronicle the death of Mrs. Abbie H. Black, which occurred at her home near the Springs, Sunday morning last. Mrs. Black has been suffering with a cancer for the past twelve months, and as the malady developed with marked rapidity her friends were prepared for the event, although up to within a half an hour of her death she was quite cheerful. Though her illness was brief, she suffered intensely, but she bore it with great fortitude and was so patient in everything that the members of the family were not until within a few days of her death made acquainted with her true condition, and she was so cheerful that they could not even then realize that she was so rapidly approaching death. She came to Montana about two years ago from Belfast, Maine, accompanied by her daughter, and has resided at and near this place since last July. She was 52 years of age and usually looked hale and hearty, and but for the cancer, which made its appearance in February, a year ago, would doubtless have lived to a ripe old age. She was very kind-hearted and made many warm friends in her Montana home, to whom her death will be sad intelligence. To the bereaved daughter, now alone in the world, we extend condolence.

Irvin Hunter, an old resident of Gallatin valley, while in the field sowing grain one day last week, was shot and killed by the Lay brothers. The difficulty arose from a dispute about land. The shooting is regarded as malicious.

James Mauldin's announcement in this issue will be interesting to our many readers. He now offers to sell his celebrated Percheron-Norman stallions, Louis Philippe and Mingo. These stallions are too well and favorably known to need any special mention from us, and we predict that he will have no trouble in finding buyers.

Our enterprising townsman, B. R. Sherman, arrived from his trip East on Tuesday last. While there he purchased a large assortment of wagons, harness, etc., and within two weeks from this date will have a full line of wagons, buggies, and wagon and buggy harness for sale here. His purchases are all of the best class of goods manufactured and expressly adapted to our mountain roads. Mr. Sherman thoroughly understands these requirements and has made his selections accordingly. If you want anything in his line give him a call.
