The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Missoula Trust and Security bank has led to a NEW HEAD change in the presidency of that institution, F. D. Whistler retiring and Frank Cannon succeeding him as the executive head of the organization. John W. Hicklin has been re-elected cashier and Dr. G. T. McCullough succeeds himself as vice president. There is no change in the directorate of the bank, the two members whose terms expired having been retained by the stockholders. Mr. Cannon, the new president, has made many business and personal friends since he came to the city from eastern Montana, where he had been closely identified with the stock and banking interests of Glendive. He spent some time in Missoula before deciding to locate here; when he had thoroughly investigated local conditions, he purchased an interest in the bank of which he is now the president, and at once arranged to close up his affairs in Dawson county. Since coming here with his family, Mr. Cannon has been actively connected with the business management of the institution and his election to the presidency is a natural sequence. Cashier Hicklin, who is re-elected, is one of the popular men of the city and will be warmly congratulated by his friends; he is in every way entitled to the recognition.

Another stockholders' meeting was held yesterday and the organization of the Kennedy Creek Coal company was announced yesterday morning. The stockholders selected the following directors for the initial term: John Scott, Thomas C. Marshall, Davis Graham, E. A. Deming, all of Missoula, and C. E. Edwards of St. Paul. At the subsequent meeting of the directors, officers were elected. Davis Graham is president; John Scott, vice president and manager; Frank Thomas, secretary; E. A. Deming treasurer. The development of the company's properties on Kennedy creek was thoroughly discussed and it was decided that the work which Mr. Scott has done up to date has been along the right lines and that the wisest course is to continue the policy that he has laid down. Speaking of the matter yesterday afternoon, Mr. Scott said: "We are much encouraged with the showing that we have made up to this time. There is every indication that we have a fine body of good coal. The preliminary exploration that we have made has developed nothing that is not highly encouraging. The big diamond drill outfit that we have ordered will be on the ground in a short time and there will be no time lost in thoroughly exploring the coal deposit. The showing made by the drill will determine where we will sink our shaft and as soon as this is decided upon, we will go to work to get out coal."

Major Morgan was in town from the agency yesterday on official business and found time to call hurriedly upon some of his friends. Concerning affairs on the reservation, Major Morgan said: "We are having a quiet winter. The Indians are making up their minds that the reservation opening is a certainty and they are now anxious to have it over with and get the new conditions operative. There is not more than the usual trouble, all of which is petty in its nature, and every day brings out something that is illustrative of the fact that the Indian is a queer mixture of childishness and wisdom. Conditions are excellent on the reserve. We are having as much snow as you are down here and the thaw has made the whole reservation a soggy mess. At the agency the snow was waist deep before the thaw and we have been deep to get rid of some of it. As yet there has been no injury to the stock as a result of the storm and there is not likely to be any."

Joe Lepke is in town from Anaconda and late yesterday afternoon he made himself known; by sunset he was ready to reply in kind to the greetings that came from his Missoula friends, but he was a little slow in getting started. The reason of it was that Joe is not used to staying up late at night and his train was so late Wednesday night that he didn't get to bed till after midnight; he had to sleep late yesterday and he was weary when he got up. The long ride down from Anaconda and the change in altitude made him tired and he didn't get over it until the lights were turned on last night and he met some of the Eagles. He was steered up against the Chinese new-year celebration and the boys tried to make him believe that the long string of fireworks was set off in his honor. But he wasn't that sleepy and he didn't care much for the Monksolian society anyway. When he came back from Chinatown, he met a bunch from Anaconda and then he recovered from his homesickness and it may be possible to keep him here another day or two. He likes the country here but he doesn't like to be so far away from home. A good solution of this difficulty was suggested last night when the boys asked him why he didn't come down here to live and then he would have home and climate together. The idea seemed to strike him favorably and it may be that he will come. He is a good man and he makes good cigars and it is too bad that he should waste his talents at an altitude of more than 5,000 feet when he could be living in Red Apple land. Last night the unanimous vote was that he should come; but he may veto it today.

Arthur W. Williams, who has been for a long time connected with The Missoulian's mechanical department, is about to launch a new enterprise in the city which gives promise of filling a long-felt want. gaged in business as a grocer for years. The new firm has secured a lease on the Bennett hall and will have possession February 15. The hall will be equipped with 10 billiard and pool tables and will be arranged so as to provide a quiet and thoroughly respectable amusement resort for young men. The equipment will all be new and will be the best that can be obtained. The Missoulian regrets very much to lose Mr. Williams, whose connection with the paper has been much appreciated, and his present associates wish him abundant success. Speaking last night of his new venture, Mr. Williams said: "We hope to make our billiard rooms a popular place. There will be no liquors on the premises and young boys will be refused admission at night. We feel that the city is now large enough to support such a place and we shall exert ourselves to make it worthy of the city's liberal patronage. Mr. Johnston is an experienced business man and I am pleased that I have interested him in the proposition. We are to have possession of the hall on the 15th of next month and the place will be ready as soon as possible."

FRENCHTOWN'S FAIR TO CLOSE SATURDAY

The ladies who have in charge the Frenchtown fair, which is being held to raise funds for the erection of a public hall in the prosperous town down the valley, write to The Missoulian to say that they will not conclude their entertainment until Saturday night this week. The extension of the fair from last week was made necessary by the storm which kept many from attending who desired an opportunity to participate in the festivities and to contribute to the worthy fund. The managers of the fair request The Missoulian to extend their thanks to their many friends who have assisted them in their enterprise, and to express the hope that all of them will be present at the closing session Saturday night. On Saturday night there will be another distribution of gifts and the dramatic entertainment "The Comic Scene" will be repeated for the benefit of those who missed the first performance and at the request of many of those who had the pleasure of witnessing the initial presentation. The whole fair will close with a dance at the Western hotel and the ladies deserve a generous patronage for their efforts have entitled them to complete success.

SEEKING INFORMATION.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 21.—The Chinese government has instructed its ministers at Washington, London, Paris and Tokio to make inquiries into the system and management of steamship business of the four countries, with a view to the establishment of a national steamship line financed by the government and people of China and aided by subsidies similar to the Japanese state-aided steamship line. It is proposed to establish service first on Chinese rivers and then on the Chinese coast, followed by a transpacific line.

PROMINENT FIGURE IN COEUR D'ALENE TROUBLE ACCUSED OF ATTEMPTED MURDER.

INDICATIONS ARE THAT SEVENTY OR MORE PERISHED IN LAKE FIRE.

Special to The Daily Missoulian.

Wallace, Jan. 21.—Bitter memories of a decade ago when the Coeur d'Alene was under martial law and when Gardner was the site of the big bull pen in which miners were confined, will be brought to mind next week when the "Queen of the Dynamiters" of 10 years ago will be on trial in the district court of Shoshone county.

The title, "Queen of the Dynamiters," was given Mrs. Emma Goldsmith when the labor trouble was at its height and when mills were being destroyed and life endangered by the use of explosives by bands of miners. Mrs. Goldsmith was prominently identified with nearly all of the big dynamite raids and is said to have frequently been the dominant power in causing the raids. She has not appeared before the public since the terrible days of a decade ago until recently when she was arrested for shooting at a party of surveyors who were engaged in surveying a route for a spur track to the Snowwater mine. The woman objected to having the railroad built across her property.

Although the surveyors claim a bullet grazed the clothes of one of the party, Mrs. Goldsmith says in her own defense that she was shooting in the air. She is charged with shooting with intent to commit murder and it found guilty may get a severe sentence.

STOCKMEN ARRESTED.

Belle Fourche, S. D., Jan. 21.—From confessions said to have been secured from the leaders, following the arrest of nine prominent stockmen of Crook county, Wyoming, sensational revelations are expected. The men under arrest are Charles Isaac, Andrew and Samuel McKeen, D. W. Mosbarger, George Martin, Stanley Baugh, J. C. Mulholland, Terry Immersted and A. O. Squires. They are charged with being members of a secret band of stockmen organized to drive out a sheep company.

MANY WITNESSES TESTIFY.

Special to The Daily Missoulian.

Helena, Jan. 21.—Many witnesses were introduced today by the government in the trial of the alleged train robber Frankhauser. They were almost without exception trainmen who were in the holdup, and they told how the affair occurred. None of them saw the features of Frankhauser during the holdup, but they testified he had the same general appearance as one of the men in the crime.

OTTO KNOCKED OUT.

New York, Jan. 21.—Leach Cross knocked out Young Otto in the fifth round of the chief event scheduled to go 10 rounds. The winner of tonight's bout has been promised a match with Packer McFarland.
