INSPECTING ROADS FOR AUTO RACE

GUGGENHEIM IS PASSING OVER HIGHWAYS AND SUGGESTING REPAIRS.

Seattle, Wash., March 21.—The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition automobile race from New York city to the exposition grounds in Seattle bids fair to result in more good roads activity than has all the campaigning of the last half dozen years.

Every county in the state of Washington through which the course of the transcontinental races will run is busy building and repairing its principal highways. The same is to be said of the state of Idaho and word comes from other states on the western end of the route that similar work will be begun once the exact route is indicated.

On invitation from boards of supervisors in Idaho, M. Robert Guggenheim, promoter of the race and donor of the Guggenheim trophy, has started on an auto tour over the western end of the route. With a party of friends he took one of his big touring cars through Snoqualmie passes, out of Seattle, and is now making his way slowly through eastern Washington, carefully inspecting all roads and making suggestions for their repair and for sign boards which will mark the way for the racers. He will go on across the state and through Idaho on the same mission. He plans to end his trip in Green River, Wyo.

A party of Seattle auto drivers will go out from this city to meet the scout cars which will leave New York city and Chicago on March 5 for the purpose of marking the route and arranging the checking stations along the 2,800 miles of raceway.

The offer of $20 made by Mr. Guggenheim for the best design for a trophy to cost $2,000 has resulted in designs and models being sent in from artists all over the country and Canada. The committee having this matter in charge has recently sent out notice that the contract for making the trophy will be given to the maker of the accepted design, if he shall be equipped for the work.

RAILROAD OPPOSES FLOODING

PUGET SOUND COMPANY PROTESTS AGAINST PLAN OF WATER POWER CONCERN.

Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, March 21.—Reports from up the St. Joe river state that the authorities of the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound railroad will enter a protest against the flooding of the river and lake lands by the Washington Water Power company, on the grounds that not only is flooding directly injurious to the railroad, but also that the submerging of 65,000 acres of fertile timothy land will materially reduce the tonnage of the railroad company every year.

The application of the Washington Water Power company through its attorney, A. A. Crane, sought to flood about 6,000 acres on the Coeur d'Alene Indian reservation, but the settlers claim this will reach 20,000 acres. The settlers and the railroad company protest not only against the overflowing of the Indian lands, but also those owned by individuals along the Coeur d'Alene and St. Joe rivers, on the grounds of the complete destruction of the lands, proving a detriment to the county for all time to come, as well as the inadequate prices offered by the water company.

JEROME RESUMES RAIDS OF HIS FORMER DAYS

New York, March 21.—Resuming for the time being his custom of several years ago, District Attorney William Traverser Jerome conducted two raids on alleged gambling houses on the east side of Manhattan last night. It was reported that Mr. Jerome gained fame in former years. The houses entered last night are 123 Second avenue and 38 East Seventh street. Seven men were arrested in the first house but in the second establishment no prisoners were taken.

It is said that Mr. Jerome decided to make the raids because attempts had been made to bribe an attaché of his office to "tip off" the houses after the proprietor had promised some time ago to obey the law. At the Second avenue house pickaxes and crowbars were used to gain entrance. The Second avenue house, it is alleged, is the one that was protected by an electrified door when it was raided some time ago.

GERMANY ANNOUNCES BUILDING OF WARSHIPS

Berlin, March 21.—In view of the assertions made in the British house of commons that Germany in the spring of 1912 would have 17 warships, all of the big-gun type, the navy department authorizes the statement that in the autumn of 1912 Germany will have 13 such vessels. These will be the battleships Nautilus and Westfalen, which will be ready for sea in the autumn of 1909; the battleships Rheinland and Posen and the cruiser Von Der Tann, which will be ready for sea in the spring of 1910; three battleships to replace the Oldenburg, Siegfried and Beowulf and a cruiser to replace the armored cruiser "G." which will be ready in the summer or autumn of 1911, and three battleships to replace the Frithof, Hildebrand and Helmgahl, and a vessel to replace the cruiser "H." which will be ready for sea in the autumn of 1912.

CHARACTER'S VALUE IN SERMON

REV. MR. BAYLEY PREACHES ON THE PARABLE OF THE HIDDEN TREASURE.

Last evening at the First Congregational church Rev. Dwight S. Bayley preached an interesting and helpful sermon on "The Value of Character." The text was taken from Matt. 13:44. "The kingdom of heaven is like unto a treasure hidden in the field, which a man found and hid; and in his joy he goeth and selleth all that he hath and buyeth that field." Mr. Bayley spoke in part as follows: "In this picture the gaze is centered upon the treasure; and he whose mind is led off into consideration of how this treasure was found, how and where it was hid, and whether it was right for the man to buy it secretly by making it appear that he was buying only an ordinary field will miss the point which the Master intended to emphasize. These things are trivial and incidental; they are necessary details to make the story concrete. The treasure was of inestimable value, so that a man with great joy gave up all else that he had in order that he might possess it; and this treasure, Jesus said, was like the kingdom of heaven.

"When value is spoken of men first naturally think of money; and treasure is measured in terms of dollars. Yet wealth is not money. The wealth of a nation may be gauged much more accurately by its wheat and cotton crops; by its libraries and public schools; by its well managed railroads; its free institutions and its comfortable homes; than by the amount of bullion in its national treasury. By the same token it is not stocks and bonds, nor wages nor interest money, that measure the wealth of the individual, but the power to satisfy personal needs, to obtain food when hungry, to secure clothing when cold or naked, to furnish that which shall meet every need of the being, body, mind and soul.

"In a word, the ultimate measure of wealth is the power to give satisfaction. He is most truly rich whose proper needs are most perfectly satisfied; while he who possesses uncounted millions but is unable to find satisfaction or contentment is poor indeed. Now, Jesus says that the kingdom of heaven is like a vast treasure, like unlimited wealth; and the kingdom of heaven is nothing short of Christly character developed by the presence of God in a man's heart. Thus the parable of the hidden treasure is a picture of the supreme value of holy character.

"This means that the Christly character is wealth. It has the power to give perfect satisfaction, to fill the body with fullness, the mind with peace, the soul with joy. It is so great a treasure that to gain it no price would be too great. Money cannot satisfy all human needs; learning cannot; social position cannot; political power cannot. But all human needs can be completely satisfied by the possession of a Christly character.

"Not much research is needed to see that such character satisfies the physical needs of man. While some ungodly men are rich in material possessions, the bulk of the world's money is in the hands of Christian men. An examination of the city populations will show that nearly all the poverty is due to wickedness of some sort. The missionary is always followed by the clothing merchant, for when a heathen savage is Christianized his first desire is for clothes and better houses. The Christly character makes one realize that his body is a temple of the Holy Spirit, and as such he guards it more carefully than another.

"Christly character ministers also to the intellectual desires and needs. The world's great writers and thinkers and scientists have been men of the Christian stamp—most of them personally and aggressively Christians. We do not look to heathen lands for our intellectual men; the man with the character sees beyond the grave and discerns the opportunities of eternity for following up studies begun here. He sees the promise of light on things which are now mysteries. These unchristian man lacks.

"Of course the Christly character satisfies the spiritual needs. Man's spirit was made in the image of God, and to reflect His likeness. Of course he finds joy in the cultivation of a character which is like God. The highest aspirations and the deepest needs of the soul are satisfied by the Christian faith when the world is powerless to minister to them. As the spiritual nature is the immortal nature, and the Christly character is of the spiritual nature, it appears that this is the only kind of wealth that can pass current in the next world as well as in this. It is the only kind of treasure which can be transferred to the heavenly residence.

"Little wonder that the man in the parable sold all that he had and bought the field in which this treasure was. The kingdom of heaven—the treasure of character—is of vastly greater value than all other treasures combined. Paul said: 'I count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord.' Character is cheap at any price. Would that we had the eyes to see as clearly as did the man in the text, so that we would gladly sacrifice all we have in order to gain the treasure of a Christly character, the germ and possibility of which has been hidden in every one of us."
