CAUGHT ON THE RUN ABOUT TOWN

PEOPLE YOU KNOW AND SOME OF THE THINGS THEY DO AND SAY.

There were scores of people with the gold fever in town yesterday. The announcement in The NUGGET Missoulian yesterday morning of the discovery of a 50-pound nugget in the digging of the new bridge, attracted the attention of a good many people and there were not many of them who connected with the story the fact that yesterday was the first day of April. The result was a stampede to the rooms of the chamber of commerce, where the big nugget was on exhibition. There was hardly an hour of the day when there were not people standing in front of the window where the nugget had been placed, studying with interest the splendid specimen of the painter's art. Charlie Kellogg had done his work well, and the rough boulder which he had gilded looked like a nugget—if you didn't know how a nugget looks. Captain Phillips, among the early visitors to see the treasure and he was disgusted. When he had seen the painted rock he said that it wouldn't fool anybody—he had just looked at it as he was passing. There were many eastern guests at the hotels in the list of early callers, and they viewed the big lump of gold with deep interest. Some of them asked permission to touch it and see how it felt. All were much interested in the fact that they could see the place where the treasure was found. There were some, however, who read the story and recalled their search for blind fish in the cave at the Prescott ranch a year ago, and they refused to become interested in the affair. But there were enough without them, and they lost a lot of fun in absenting themselves from the gold stampede. The incident furnished some pleasant amusement for the day, and while there were many who bit the dust, there were none who did not enjoy the joke.

J. E. Totman came down from the valley yesterday morning and brought with him as much Bitter Root weather as he could carry, distributing it generously, as is his wont, when he got to Missoula. Mr. Totman is one of the choir leaders in the Bitter Root chorus, which has been gaining in volume until now it is drowning the avarit chorus which once sounded through the valley. When Mr. Totman talks about the valley you can hear the birds sing and can smell the new-mown hay; you can hear the music of the waters dashing down the mountain sides, and there is borne to you the fragrance of the orchards in bloom; you see the broad valley and the grand old mountains and you participate in the enthusiasm which the true Bitter Rooter feels in his home. Mr. Totman was in a hurry yesterday, but he had time to tell about the valley, and the result was that there were more people on the train to Hamilton last night than there had been in weeks.

Speaking of the boosters and the Bitter Root always suggests J. O. Read. Just at this time it is interesting to know that Mr. Read has revised his old map of the Bitter Root and has made one which recognizes Missoula. When J. O. first went into the map business he didn't know that Missoula was on earth. Circumstances so transpired as to teach J. O. some geography, and he has never in recent years forgotten that Missoula is where it is. Sometimes he is threatened with a lapse of memory, and then it becomes necessary to send Charles Dallman up the valley for a few days. When Dallman gets up there J. O. remembers—you bet he does. There were a few days at the beginning of this week when J. O. forgot; he also got gay and had a new map drawn. It was a nice map—for those who liked it—but it was not the sort of map that speaks of the brotherly love which exists between the Hamilton folks and those of us who live at this end of the valley. But Dallman got up to Hamilton Wednesday night, and by this time it is a cinch that J. O. can draw a correct map of the valley and can locate Missoula with exactness, even if he is blindfolded. Dallman is an excellent instructor in geography. But J. O. hates to give up that map he made. He had to do it, though, and his present understanding of the relative location of Missoula and Hamilton is very clear.

The Orchard Homes people have had their spring road rally this year and more than a hundred of them under the leadership of John Kack did a good job in getting the Third street extension rounded up. They worked well and the road is in good shape. A little more work with the scraper and grader would help some, and there will be another whirl taken at the job before long. But the work that was done early in the week and last week was effective, and makes the road good clear to the nursery.

Preliminaries were concluded yesterday and the forfeit money was posted for another race between the automobiles HOT ONE. Dr. Oettinger. The race will be run next Monday. This one will be by daylight; Simons won the match which was pulled off at 1 o'clock the other morning in the dark, and the doctor insists that this one shall be run under conditions that are more sane. Simons has agreed to this, and, moreover, has assumed a heavy handicap. He is to stand still on the scratch and Oettinger is to have a flying start; as the latter

TRIP IS BENEFICIAL TO HARRIMAN

RAILROAD MAGNATE RETURNS FROM TOUR OF SOUTH AND WEST, MUCH IMPROVED.

Washington, April 1.—Bronzed by his weeks of sojourn under southern skies and brimming over with vitality, E. H. Harriman reached here late today to all appearances a rejuvenated man, after his long combination vacation and business trip over the network of Harriman railroads in the west, south and in Mexico.

"I have been made to say that we were constructing a line down the west coast of Mexico," he said. "What should have been said was that we already have constructed it. The line is now completed from Nogales, Ariz., on the Mexican line, to Mazatlan, Mexico, and in reality a new country has been discovered by this railway construction. In one tract opened up by irrigation 600,000 acres of the best land are made available for cultivation and opened to a market. American help is needed in the development. Yes, in a directive way. There is plenty of labor, but American initiative and executive ability will count here as elsewhere."

for the democratic party on the tariff, and added that when the time came to vote that party would be found sustaining the principles of taxation that had so long been maintained by it.

Speaking of the inheritance tax proposed in the house bill, he said he would rather tax the living rich by means of an income tax than to tax the dead, "who are only moderately well to do," as proposed in the inheritance tax.

Mr. Aldrich suggested that the matter contemplated in the Bacon resolution would be taken care of by the committee on finance and it was by a viva voce vote referred to that committee.

A meeting of the senate committee on finance to consider the Bacon resolution has been called for 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

OPPOSES REDUCTION ON LEAD

NORTHWEST MINING ASSOCIATION WOULD MAINTAIN TARIFF RATE.

Spokane, April 1.—Members of the Northwest Mining association, representing interests controlling more than 40 per cent of the lead production of the United States, at a special meeting in the assembly rooms of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce adopted resolutions strongly protesting against the passage of a congressional bill reducing the tariff on pig lead. The organization joined forces in the movement with the lead producers in Missouri, also the Western Lead Producers' association, formed by members of the American Mining congress at Salt Lake City with this executive committee: H. L. Day of Idaho, W. D. Hoover and J. F. Calhambert of Colorado and Ernest Bamberger and George W. Riter of Utah. Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to congressional representatives from Washington, Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Alaska, which are represented by active membership in the northwestern association.

Louis C. Jacquish, vice president, presided at the meeting and explained that the tariff bill, which will come up at this session of congress, provides for a reduction of tariff on pig lead from 2-1/8 cents a pound to 1-1/2 cents, making the duty on smelted lead the same as that on lead ore, which, according to the provisions of the bill will remain unchanged. He said in part:

"It is impossible to state the difference the reduction on the tariff would make. The lead producers in the United States have to compete with the cheap labor in the Mexican mines and with the Canadian mines, which receive a bonus on the ore they produce.

"The protective tariff on lead brought into this country is just about sufficient to offset the Canadian subsidy. Removing the tariff means more than a decreased profit for the owners of the mines in this country. The mines on which the margin of profit is least will be forced to cease operation and the mines will fill with water. The machinery and equipment will stand idle and will be destroyed or depreciate in value.

"American miners are perhaps without exception the highest paid laborers in the United States and I believe that any decrease in wages will mean labor trouble and the attraction of the men to other mining camps. Trouble with the men will add to the difficulties of the mineowners, who are now operating at a decreased margin of profit, if with any at all."

L. K. Armstrong, secretary of the association and editor of The Northwest Mining News, said among other things:

"The reduction of the tariff on pig lead 5-8 of a cent would mean that only the argentiferous lead mines could continue operation. Mines producing only lead would find the selling price so low that it will hardly warrant the cost of producing and refining the ore. Only where silver values were high enough to pay the cost of smelting would the lead values of the ore be of any consideration."

James F. McCarthy, manager of the Hecla mine, who with Harry L. Day, manager of the Hercules mine, W. Clayton Miller, general manager of the Federal Mining and Smelting company's properties, and Myron Folsom, counsel for the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine, represented the Coeur d'Alene district at the conference at Salt Lake city last week, said on his arrival in Spokane that the meeting of the Western Lead Producers' association resulted in preparing a memorial to be sent to the western senators and representatives. This gives reasons why the tariff on lead ore and pig lead should not be reduced or taken off. He added:

"The four Idaho companies sending delegates to Salt Lake city represent one-third of the lead production of the United States and in addition there were representatives from less developed districts of Idaho, Colorado and Utah. The Missouri lead fields were not represented, as the lead interests of that state were already carrying on a fight against the passage of the bill decreasing the tariff and did not want to join in the movement instituted by the American Mining congress. The lead-producing mines of the Coeur d'Alene were making a fight also, but we decided that if the American Mining congress took up the fight there would be some advantage in uniting all the interests."

CONCILIATION PLANNED.

New York, April 1.—It was announced here today that efforts to consolidate about 75 of the independent fertilizer companies in the south into a $50,000,000 corporation have been completed. It is expected that articles of incorporation will be filed at Albany shortly. It is understood that J. P. Morgan & Co. will act as fiscal agents of the company.

COUNCIL PLANS TO BEAUTIFY AVENUE

Just as the meeting was about to adjourn, J. W. Reilly appeared in behalf of the people along the bank of the river west of the Bitter Root track and demanded to be shown why no action had been taken in regard to the wing dam in the river. The matter was explained to him that Mr. Peppard had been asked to be excused from signing the contract as the council had delayed so long that he would not have time to finish the work before the spring floods. Mr. Reilly then said that it seemed an injustice to the people who are in danger on the river's edge, and showed the council that unless something was done the people would lose their property, at which the matter was referred to the committee on contracts and estimates, with instructions to see if the next lowest bidder could not be induced to do the work.
