BAPTISTS ARE READY FOR MEETINGS

DISTRICT ASSOCIATION HAS PREPARED PROGRAM FOR GATHERING HERE THIS WEEK.

Beginning on Wednesday afternoon the district Baptist association will begin its annual series of meetings in the Baptist church of this city. Delegates from Helena, Stevensville, Corvallis, Hamilton and Darby will be in attendance and the meeting promises to be rich in good results. Throughout the series evangelistic services will be held in the church by Rev. Joe P. Jacobs of Kansas City, Mo. Rev. Mr. Jacobs will begin the work on Tuesday evening and will preach on four consecutive evenings. State Missionary Rev. P. A. Agar and Sunday School Missionary Rev. L. G. Clark and the pastors of the various churches in the district will participate in the deliberations of the district gathering. Among the prominent outside celebrities connected with the Baptist denomination who will be here to take part in the meetings will be: Rev. C. A. Woody, D. D., of Portland; Rev. C. A. Clark, D. D., of Spokane, and Rev. Frank Peterson, D. D., of Minneapolis. All of these noted divines will deliver addresses. Following is a complete program of the meetings:

Wednesday Afternoon. Organization and Business. An Upper Room Service. Rev. T. L. Lewis

Wednesday Evening. Evangelistic Service. Rev. Joe P. Jacobs. Men's Brief Meeting in Lecture Room. Dr. Woody

Thursday Morning. Church Problems. Finance. Rev. Wakeham, R. H. Slater. Discipline. Revs. McComb, McNamee

Thursday Afternoon. Address. James Edmunds. Address. Mrs. Agar. Northern Baptist Convention and Portland Meetings. Dr. C. A. Woody

Thursday Evening. An Upper Room Service. Rev. N. Wakeham. Address. Rev. J. F. McNamee. Sermon. Rev. Joe P. Jacobs

Friday Morning. Business. Practical Problems. The Need for the Gospel in Montana. Rev. Thomas Howland. How to Meet that Need. Rev. N. Wakeham. Address. James Edmunds

Friday Evening. Evangelistic Service. Rev. Joe P. Jacobs

THE WEATHER

Yesterday's weather was far from bad, although it could have been much better. A rather unusual feature was the high minimum temperature. The observations:

Table with weather data: Maximum 57, Minimum 44, Thermometer at 6 a. m. 46, Barometer at 6 a. m. 26.79, Thermometer at 6 p. m. 54, Barometer at 6 p. m. 26.76. Wind from the southwest and a trace of precipitation.

"I'd Rather Die, Doctor, than have my feet cut off," said M. L. Bingham, of Princeton, Ill., "but you'll die from gangrene (which had eaten away eight toes) if you don't," said all doctors. Instead he used Bucklen's Arnica Salve till wholly cured. Its cures of Eczema, Fever Sores, Bolls, Burns and Piles astound the world. 25c at G. Freishelmer's.

ODD FELLOWS HEAR SERMON

REV. W. H. BAGBY PREACHES ON SUBJECT OF "THE CHURCH AND THE LODGE."

At the Christian church on Sunday morning, before a large congregation, composed in part of members of the local lodge of Odd Fellows, Rev. W. H. Bagby delivered an interesting sermon on "The Church and the Lodge." Taking for his text Mark 9:23-24, he spoke in part as follows: "Sitting one August evening on the veranda of a hotel on Catalina island, looking out to sea across the beautiful little bay of Avalon, I saw a large schooner moving southward under full sail. Asked whether it was bound for the proprietor of the hotel replied that it was a large lumber vessel from Seattle on its homeward voyage. After unloading its cargo at San Pedro it was sailing 1,000 miles out of its way to get into the Japan current, which would bear it directly to its port of destination. It was simply taking advantage of all that would help it to easily and quickly reach its destination. "When Jesus Christ started 'the old ship of Zion' on her world voyage He did it with the idea that she would take advantage of every wind and current that would help her on to her port of final destination. That she might feel free to do this, He set her the example of His personal ministry. He welcomed the help of every influence and of every force that made for the furtherance of the great ends He came to the world to accomplish. He did not ask to know whether those who were casting out demons were of His company. He cared only to know that they were casting out demons. The disciples were more jealous of their exclusive right to cast out demons than zealous to have them cast out. Not so was Jesus. Not so should the church be. "The history of Christianity is in a small measure, the record of a struggle for the mastery between the attitude of Jesus and that of His disciples toward this very question. In their view the church was to be the exclusive agency for good in the world. In His view it was to be the principal agency for good in the world. In their view the principal thing was to jealously guard the exclusive right of the church to cast out demons. In His view the principal thing was to have the demons cast out. Their view threw the church absolutely upon her own resources, while His view allowed her to avail herself of every help within her reach. Their unwise view was that if they do not cooperate with us, they should not be allowed to cast out demons—that it is better that men should remain possessed of demons than that they should be freed from them by any other hand than ours. His sane view was that it is better that men should be freed from demons by any hand rather than that they should remain possessed of them; and that any man who is doing any part of the work that we are trying to perform, is with us whether he is of us or not, and should be encouraged, not hindered.

Not Ideal. "When Jesus entered upon the work of launching his movement in the world he found conditions far from ideal. To accomplish anything He had to utilize everything that He had in the slightest degree in the direction in which He wished the world to move. If He found a spark of good in any heart He tried to fan it into a flame. He never had any but kind words of encouragement for any man or woman whose face was turned in the right direction, no matter how far they might be from His ideal. If Jesus had not taken men where He found them, and utilized the measure of good he found in them, He could never have started His church. "A saved world living in physical filth and squalor, and sunken in intellectual poverty is an unimaginable thing. Sanitation and education are antecedents essential to salvation in the large meaning of the term. The agencies that bring about these antecedent results are hand-maidens of the church—they are with the church if not of it. The man who would abolish all soap factories, baths and schools not run by the church would be wholly out of harmony with Jesus, who welcomed the help of every influence that made for the uplift of humanity and the glory of God. "A saved world that does not believe in friendship, love and truth is a thing that is as impossible of realization as of realization. There is but one attitude in which the church can afford to be toward any influence that tends to promote these, and that is an attitude of friendliness. The fact that men make the fatal mistake of stopping short of the church in the lodge does not prove that the lodge is the enemy of the church. If it can be shown that the good that flows from the lodge is largely in excess of the evil that flows from it, its vindication is complete. And there is no reason that can be found in the lodge itself why this should not be so. If individuals stumble over the lodge, it is their fault and not the fault of the lodge. The lodge member that thinks a secular order is a good place to serve the Lord in makes no more fatal mistake than the church member who thinks that so sacred an institution is a bad enough place to serve the devil in. It cannot be urged that the church is a bad thing because individual members of it fall into this fatal error. The liberty for which our fathers fought, bled and died, and for which we would fight, bleed and die, has been made the occasion of immeasurable evil; but it was not the fault of liberty. It was the fault of those who did not know how to use it. To a vastly larger number it has been an unspeakable blessing. The ocean annually swallows up multitudes of lives and millions of property, but it is not the fault of the ocean. On the whole the sea is a blessing, as are also the sun, the atmosphere, electricity, and many other things which take toll of all in the interest of which they exist.

Two Things. "There are two things which Jesus never did, and which I think He would not have us do today. He never discouraged any man outside his following from the performance of any worthy work. He always encouraged such, on the theory that it is better for the man and for the world that he should be engaged in doing good than to be idle and doing evil. He never encouraged any man to think that he could be as good and do as much outside the church as he could do in it. Jesus does not command the outsider who is doing good because his position is satisfactory, but because it is helpful and hopeful. In every way the man inside the church has the advantage of the man outside it. The position means vastly more to him, and can be made to mean vastly more to the world. The church holds something that every man needs and that no secular order affords, or can ever hope to afford—spiritual life and growth. It has friendship, fellowship, sympathy, care in trouble and sickness and a grave in death to offer; but it offers no new nature here nor any heaven hereafter. Along with a thousand other secular agencies the fraternal order is helping to bring about social conditions that must prevail before the kingdom of God in its fullness can come; and because it is doing this it deserves and should receive the encouragement of all good people; but it can no more be to a man what the church is meant to be to him than can a Greek letter fraternity or social club, though in its benefits it is far superior to either of these. There is just as much warmth in a piece of granite as there is in a diamond. Thermometry is not a quality of either. Yet both are valuable for the qualities they do possess. The lodge is a good thing, but it is not a church. Fraternal orders have done much and are doing much to make this a better world; but the church has a function that belongs to it alone—to minister to the souls of men. Polonium is a radio-active substance, but it emits only alpha-rays, while radium emits alpha, beta and gamma-rays. In the lodge is found temporal good only, while in the church both temporal and spiritual good are found.

MRS. A. ANDERSON, 402 BROADWAY, BUTTE

WAS ALMOST A NERVOUS WRECK WHEN SHE CONSULTED DR. DODD—IS NOW WELL.

"I can never say enough in praise of Dr. Dodd. Since my baby was born I have been in terrible health; was not well a day; seldom free from headache. My eyes were sensitive to light, watering and weak, and I was terribly nervous. "Only a few weeks ago I consulted Dr. Dodd at his office, and he made a careful examination of my eyes. He analyzed my case, told me my symptoms, and explained the cause of my bad health. "I began at once to follow his advice. After a few days I noticed I woke in the morning feeling refreshed. My household duties I performed with less effort, my headache ceased altogether, I grew stronger from day to day until now, instead of feeling tired and played out all the time, as I had felt for years, I am surprised at how much I am able to accomplish with apparently no exertion at all. I know of several other ladies who are just as enthusiastic over Dr. Dodd's method of treatment as I am. Mrs. Alfred Anderson, 402 East Broadway, Butte." Dr. Dodd has permission from more than 50 citizens of Missoula to refer anyone to them; some have asked him to publish their testimonials in the hope that others might benefit thereby. This he may do later, but in no case will he publish the name of a patient without their permission. Having arranged to stay here until May 2, many who had been unable to see him will have an opportunity of doing so. He will continue to make free examinations at his office, Missoula hotel.
