CAUGHT ON THE RUN ABOUT TOWN

One of the interested visitors in town yesterday was Henry Buck of Stevensville, who came down the valley to take part in the cornerstoning ceremony of the Masons. Mr. Buck first saw Missoula away back in 1871; there was not as much of it as there is now; the site was here and the rounded form of Mount Jumbo, then unchristened, was exactly where it is today; the canyon and Mount Sentinel were in their respective positions, but the valley was just a valley and nothing more. Whenever Mr. Buck comes to Missoula these days, he notes the contrast between then and now. Yesterday he commented upon the activity in the city and its growth. "Every time I come down to Missoula," said he, "I see some new buildings somewhere. It seems as if they spring up in a very short time, and although I come down rather frequently, I am having a hard time finding the old landmarks. It is good to see such good buildings going up, and it is good to see the city stretching out the way it is. When we came through here first we had no thought of such a city here; we just hiked along to the Bitter Root. We found a mighty fine country, and we have been contented there ever since, but we are still interested in Missoula, and we feel that we have a sort of claim to honorary citizenship here. The valley is keeping pace with you, we are growing right along, too, and you will be surprised yourselves when you come up to see us. The spring is a little slow this year, but things are looking mighty fine to us."

Commodore Paulds was another of the Bitter Root delegation yesterday. He is taking life easy these days, enjoying the rest that he earned during the long years that he stood upon the quarter deck of the good ship Tribune and guided its course. The commodore, however, has not lost interest in newspaper offices, and he is always a visitor at The Missoulian's shop when he comes to town. He called yesterday afternoon and looked over things to see if they were all right. His verdict was satisfactory to the folks in the office, and he went away leaving them very happy. Speaking of the Bitter Root, the commodore said: "The spring is a little late with us, but things are doing well; I think the foliage is a little more advanced down here than it is with us. But we are very busy, just the same. At Stevensville we are getting in our new municipal water system, which will give us something we have long needed and will help out the town amazingly. The whole valley is developing rapidly, and a man has to keep moving up and down to know what has been going on. I have never seen such rapid and substantial development as is taking place with us this season. We are climbing to the top, and are going to stay there when we get there."

BARGAIN

JURY BLAMES NO ONE FOR DEATH

MEN CALLED TO INVESTIGATE DEATH OF G. W. HELM DON'T FIX RESPONSIBILITY.

The coroner's jury in the case of G. W. Helm, the brakeman who was struck and fatally injured by No. 7 at McQuarrie last Monday, early this morning brought in a verdict "that the said G. W. Helm came to his death by being struck by No. 7, while he was crossing the track, and no blame is attached to anyone."

The inquest was called to order at 8 o'clock last night and the principal testimony, that of Road Foreman Rogers, in charge of the work train on which Helm was employed, was heard, as well as that of E. A. Murphy, the conductor of the train. Since Engineer J. O. Mills, who was on No. 7 at the time of the accident, had not shown up, as the missing witness put in his appearance. The testimony of these witnesses seemed to place the blame upon the track of the man who was killed, if on anyone, and the jury evidently saw it that way, for after deliberating for some time its members brought in the verdict as stated above.

The jury was composed of George Caruthers, George Mead, Bromley Williams, Jack Chevallier, Pete McDonald and Ralph Melnyk.

ANOTHER BOOSTER.

He stood upon the quarter deck of the good ship Tribune and guided its course. The commodore, however, has not lost interest in newspaper offices, and he is always a visitor at The Missoulian's shop when he comes to town. He called yesterday afternoon and looked over things to see if they were all right. His verdict was satisfactory to the folks in the office, and he went away leaving them very happy. I have never seen such rapid and substantial development as is taking place with us this season. We are climbing to the top, and are going to stay there when we get there."

ROSS HAS A REASON.

He left from his home yesterday and brought an explanation of the score of last Sunday, which his Missoula friends have been anxious to get. It will be remembered that the score was reported to be 10 to 6 in favor of Iron Mountain, in his view of the record of Iron Mountain, and a man has to keep moving up and down to know what has been going on. I have never seen such rapid and substantial development as is taking place with us this season. We are climbing to the top, and are going to stay there when we get there."

W. M. Montgomery of Anaconda is a visitor here yesterday and commented upon Missoula's ANACONDA tin and life. "The ADVANCES, own looks good," said he. "The growth is remarkable. I have been over the river this afternoon, and the way the town is reaching out is surprising. In Butte and Anaconda business is good; there are a good many people there at work and, although there is not much building, the mercantile business is fine and both towns are enjoying a good season. In Anaconda, especially, the spring finds things in good shape. Conditions are improving there, and we are looking forward to a good year."

OFFICERS AT FORT TO BE TRANSFERRED

Orders have been received at Fort Missoula which will detach several officers at the post from duty at that fort and send them to other points for a time.

Captain L. C. Duncan, post surgeon, has been ordered to the Philippine Islands, and will depart for the islands in June. The captain requested that he be sent back to the Philippines, and the order of transfer was issued in response to that request. Captain Duncan, it will be remembered, was the complaining witness against Lieutenant Parkman when the latter was recently tried by court-martial on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and refusing to obey his superior.

Captain Halstead has been ordered to the army school at Fort Leavenworth for a year's term and will depart for that post in July.

Lieutenant Nauborgne has been assigned to duty at the signal service school at Fort Leavenworth, and will go there in June.

Lieutenant Gordon, who has been relieved of college duty in Texas, will return to his regiment at Fort Missoula next month. He was formerly stationed at the local post.

Fisk and the life of the organization is to be 40 years, while the capital stock is placed at $25,000. DIXON WAIVES OF OPENING of little value to the settler to go upon their homesteads under the ditches, which will be constructed during the next three years, and not be able to go ahead with cultivation and settlement. The latter matter is under the control of the reclamation service, however, and has not yet been definitely concluded.

"The general plan of the land office officials now is to have the drawing for these lands under the ditches, which will be constructed during the next three years and which will not be ready for settlement next April, to have them opened for settlement as the ditches are completed.

"The fixing of the actual drawing point at Coeur d'Alene City will in no way interfere with the importance of Kalispell and Missoula as registration points. The matter of the actual drawing has been largely over-estimated by the local people and, in reality, is only a side-issue to the general opening. The commissioner's objection is adverse to making any registration point at any place where there is not a United States land office. I understand there are several applications for registration points from other towns, but they feel that they cannot legitimately establish a registration point except at a land office.

ITALIANS ARE SOAKED CENTURY BY JUSTICE

Yesterday morning before Justice of the Peace Small the two Italians captured by Deputy Game Warden Prohman while setting fish in a slough below Grass Valley were fined $50 each, after having admitted their guilt. The two men were taken back to the county jail to await such time as their friends can raise the $100 necessary to purchase liberty. It is understood that strenuous bantering is now under way at the Italian camp near which the arrests were made and that the century will be forthcoming today. Yesterday's proceedings unraveled the names of the two violators of the game laws as Ella Rosca and Tom Tutella.
