At the meeting, last night, of the executive committee of the chamber of commerce, it was decided to call a mass meeting for Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the rooms of the chamber to learn the sentiment of the business men and others as to holding a celebration of the Fourth. The matter was pretty thoroughly discussed last night, but the committee did not wish to assume the responsibility of a decision. There were all of the usual arguments put forward in support of a celebration, and they were, of course, unanswerable. Everybody would like to have a celebration if somebody else will manage it; but there appears to be a dearth of managers in the local ranks, everybody last night expressing a desire to serve as a private. In opposition to a celebration the statement was made that Missoula is so crowded this year that there would be poor accommodations, at best, for people coming here to participate in the celebration; the hotels were unable, even now, to properly accommodate their patrons with rooms; in July, the indications are, there will be even more transients in the city than at present. Under such circumstances, it was argued last night, there would be no chance for a Fourth parade to have places to sleep. But there were others who felt that this difficulty could be overcome and the matter will be decided Thursday night.

Over across the river there is an Indian camp of considerable size, representing the entourage of Chief Plenty-Horses. PLAY BALL OF CHIEF PLENTY-HORSES, YOU KIDS. There are about 48 young bucks and as many small boys in the camp, and they are spending much of their leisure time—while in all of the time—in playing baseball. Some of the youngsters are proficient at the game, and the old chief is proud of their skill. He outs the team all the time that he can get anybody to listen to him. Yesterday he made the suggestion that it would be a good chance for the boys of Missoula to learn the fine points of the game by going against his idols, and to start things going, Chief Plenty-Horses issued a challenge to any team of boys in Montana, the members to be not more than 15 years old. On account of the fact that his camp is at present in Missoula, and the further fact that he expects to stay here for a while, the chief would much prefer that the challenge be accepted by some Missoula team. The chief promises a good game, and says it will be worth seeing. Any acceptance of the challenge may be sent to The Missoulian's sporting editor, and arrangements as to dates and terms will be made later. Plenty-Horses is very much in earnest, and says he will stick around for a while and see if the game cannot be arranged. Apparently the Indians are practicing regularly and getting into fine form, and if there are any white boys who are not more than 15 years old who think they can take the measure of the Indians here is an opportunity for them to play the great American game with the real thing in Americans.

Harry Sommers, general superintendent of the Bell Telephone company in this district, is in the city from his headquarters in Salt Lake. Mr. Sommers' arrival was made notable yesterday by the issuance of a brand new telephone directory, which was distributed to the Missoula patrons of the company. This much-needed issue was not, however, necessary to insure a cordial welcome to the visiting telephone man, for there are always many people in Missoula who are glad to see him. "Missoula looks good," said Mr. Sommers last night to a Missoulian man, "but it does not alarm me to see your crowds, for we are pretty busy in Salt Lake these days. However, it keeps me from getting homesick, as I do in some of the towns that I visit, for it seems natural to see the throngs of people moving about your streets. I have been interested in watching the growth of Missoula during the past few years; I note some new change every time I come here, and every one is for the better. In Salt Lake we are having a remarkable period of development. There is building everywhere, and so much of it that it is impossible to keep track of it all. Unless you have seen the city lately you would not know it at all."

Local Milwaukee officers were notified yesterday that the first shipment of steel for the new bridge was started west EN ROUTE. from the mills of the Toledo-Massillon Bridge company last Saturday, only two days later than scheduled. The steel is routed all the way from Chicago over the lines of the Milwaukee, and it is the first through shipment to be made to Missoula over the new line. It is expected that the steel will come through to Butte in about 10 days. In all there will be 100 carloads of

FOUR SENIORS SPEAK AT SCHOOL

LAST OF THE GRADUATES FROM THE COUNTY SCHOOL DELIVER ORATIONS.

The last four of the 19 seniors who graduate this spring from the Missoula high school delivered their graduating essays at the high school building yesterday afternoon. All of the essays were of a very high class. Miss Fess Hollenbeck was the first speaker of the afternoon and she took as her subject "Alexander Pope." She dwelt at length on the life and character of the great writer and on his work in general, doing the whole in a finished and interesting manner. Miss Hollenbeck was followed by Miss Lella McDonald, whose subject was "Sargent and His Work." The picturesque life and the famous paintings of the celebrated artist were well told and the essay closed with a short discourse on his character and his work in general. "Das Nibelungenlied" was the subject of Miss Marie Lebkuecher's oration and in it she described the characters and theme of the famous German opera. The program was closed by Carl Cameron, who delivered a masterly and finished talk on "Man and Warfare." The essay was one of the best which have been heard this year and treated the subject of the relation of man to warfare in general very thoroughly. This is the last work of the class in this line and they will now begin to prepare for the class day exercises which are to be held next Friday.

HOBO IS INJURED.

Edward Saniers, apparently a tramp and evidently very well under the influence of Montana whiskey, was brought to Missoula yesterday with his right foot cut off just below the instep. He was taken to the Sisters' hospital. From all that could be learned from him, befuddled as he was by liquor, he was hurt while trying to board the train, which brought him to the city, just as it was pulling out of Bonner. His condition is not regarded as serious and aside from the loss of his toes he will probably emerge from the adventure in good shape.

TICKET SALE BEGINS.

This morning at 9 o'clock at the box office of the Barnols theater the ticket sale will open for "A Missoulian's Night's Dream," to be presented Saturday night by the Ben Greig Players and the Russian Symphony orchestra. Judging from the interest shown in the coming production, which is to be one of the most elaborate that has ever been staged in Missoula, the advance sale should be large.

MRS. BLANCHE MURRY DIES ON ELM STREET

Mrs. Blanche Murry, a young widow, died yesterday at the home of her cousin, Ben Runyon, 908 Elm street, death being caused by a complication of diseases. Mrs. Murry was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Targue, but had been making her home with her cousin, Ben Runyon, since she came to this state, three months ago. She leaves three children, all boys, the oldest being 17 years old. The others are 12 and 5 years, respectively. The oldest son is employed at Seattle. Full arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made, although it has been decided that the services will be held Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Murry was 35 years of age.

"FOR BABY'S SAKE" IS PLEASING SHOW

Donahue's Players put on another good show at the Barnols theater last night and more than pleased their patrons. The play, a comedy melodrama, "For Baby's Sake," received an elegant presentation at the hands of these clever actors. The vaudeville which was introduced between the acts was indeed clever. Claire O'Donnell received an ovation at the conclusion of her violin solos and the Oretts children, assisted by their father, made another of the big hits of the evening. Tonight the company will present for the first time in Missoula the four-act comedy drama, "The Plunger, or the Dangers of a Great City." This play had a remarkable run in New York and Manager Donahue is the only one who has a right to produce it in western territory. It was announced that the big feature play of "Salome" would be presented before the company terminates its engagement here.

The antarctic circle was first crossed by Europeans by the James Ross expedition, January 17, 1773.
