MARAUDING ANIMALS KILLED BY HUNTER

The month of May was a disastrous one for many of the bears on the Bitter Root national forest, as four of the representatives of the Bruin family were caught in traps and killed by James D. Vance. On account of the depredations to stock on the east fork of the Bitter Root river the forest officials saw fit to hire an expert hunter to exterminate the animals and Mr. Vance immediately commenced operations. He provided himself with a number of bear traps and set them out for the animals. On account of the late spring the meat which was used as bait in the traps became frozen and odorless and failed to attract the attention of the bears. But when the warm weather arrived all was changed and the animals soon began to get busy, with the result that the four were caught and killed. There are many more of the beasts in that region, and this month is expected to see many more slain.

MORE OF THE BRIDGE WASHED OUT

FLOODS TEAR AWAY PORTION OF TEMPORARY STRUCTURE OVER SOUTH CHANNEL.

In the midst of the noon rush, when most of the business men and women wished most to use the temporary bridge, and while many of them were on the structure, although none were on the dangerous portion, the south part of the crossing, with a roar and crackling of breaking and straining timbers, broke loose from the rest of the structure and was carried bodily down stream by the raging river. It was a good thing to watch, but not to be near.

So now the long detour around by the Van Buren street bridge must be made by both vehicles and pedestrians. From the appearance and reports of the bridge, it is a promise of something to happen to the Cedar street crossing of the Battlesnake creek, which is a raging torrent, although not yet up to its mark of last year. The piling of that bridge is pretty well underworn by the water, and is rather weak and shaky. A watchman was stationed there yesterday to prevent the passage of more than one team at a time, as it is not thought wise to take any chances of the structure giving way.

Narrow Escape.

The watchman was kept busy yesterday, as many of the drivers could not understand the reason why they should be made to take their turn in crossing. However, most of them took matters coolly and in good part. It was at this locality that Arthur Graham, brother of Sheriff Graham, had a narrow escape from drowning. Graham was in a hurry to cross the creek, and as there were a number of conveyances waiting their turn to get over, which meant quite a delay, he drove up above the bridge and attempted to ford the stream, which is swift and full of rocks. He was driving a horse hitched to a light buggy, which was too light to be breast the stream, and the whole outfit was carried down the creek. Graham managed to save himself, but for a while the horse's condition was precarious in the extreme; it was washed, gamely fighting to keep its feet, for a couple of hundred feet down the stream, the buggy sliding and screeching and finally capsizing. When near the bridge the watchman ran to the bank of the creek and threw his arm around the neck of the struggling horse and led it to a place of safety, while the buggy is still lying on the edge of the water with one wheel very much to the bad.

Light Endangered.

The Graham incident furnished about all the excitement in this vicinity, but for a while there was a chance that the south side would be without light in the evening. When the bridge was washed out from the south channel it carried away with it one of the electric line poles, and the light service was out of commission for a short time. But that trouble was soon over. Also during the afternoon a Northern Pacific electric working near Bonner broke the line from the main tower house to Missoula, thus throwing the power off completely. In 15 minutes after being notified of the mishap the steam substation in this city was supplying all the necessary power for the city, thus causing but little inconvenience. The break was repaired within six hours. It was rumored for a while that the telephone service to the south side had been cut off, but this proved to be a canard. Trouble of that nature is considered impossible, as the telephone wires were just within the last few days transferred to the big concrete piers of the new Higgins avenue bridge, thus placing them out of all possible danger. The gap in the temporary bridge over the south channel will be closed when there is a chance that high water will not again interfere.

COUNCIL EXAMINES BOND BIDS

CHICAGO MAN IS SUCCESSFUL BIDDER FOR STEVENSVILLE WATER WORKS ISSUE.

Stevensville, June 4.—The bids for the water works bonds were examined by the council last evening at a special meeting and after thoroughly examining them it was moved and carried that the bid of C. H. Coffin of Chicago be accepted. There was a clause in the motion, however, that he file his certified check with the clerk without delay. Mr. Coffin's bid was for $25,281 at 6 per cent interest and he is to furnish the lithographed bonds and pay the attorney's fee for examining the bonds and records to see that they are legally issued. There was but one other bid, that of S. A. Keen & Co., also of Chicago. The latter's bid was for $25,900 at 6 per cent, less $500 for attorney's fees and cost of examining the bonds and records. His bid was accompanied by the certified check for $1,000, but as the other man's bid was considered the best it was decided to give him a chance to file his check with the clerk.

In addition to the bond issue the council purchased 1,500 feet of hose at $1 per foot, two Bureka nozzles, two flexible play pipes and two hose carts. Another ordinance was also discussed which will probably be enacted at the regular meeting of the council next week, regulating pool rooms. It is the opinion of some of the aldermen that the pool rooms should close at 11 o'clock at night during the week with the exception of Saturday nights and then at 12 o'clock, but others think there should be an ordinance prohibiting minors from frequenting them.

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." WALLACE NEWS NOTES

Special to The Daily Missoulian. Wallace, Idaho, June 4.—With several carloads of rich steel galena ore lying stacked on the dump since 1887 and no shipments being made because of lack of transportation and because of litigation, the Jack White property will soon take a front rank among the north side shippers. Senator Lee Mantle of Butte has instructed the local manager to arrange for shipping the ore over the Idaho Northern and to proceed with the development of the property which has been idle many years. Senator Mantle is the owner of the Jack White.

Mrs. C. P. Clements has proven herself the champion fisherman of the season among Wallace people by making a catch of 22 black bass in Lake Mendocino in one day, none of the bass weighing less than three pounds, while the total weight of the catch was 76 pounds. Mrs. Clements twice fell into the lake in her eagerness to land a particularly large bass. The record for Montana trout among local fishermen is held by Bert Reese, who landed a one and a half pound trout from the North Park river.

The tunnel being driven through the Hunter mine No. 2 tunnel into the American Commander ground is making good headway despite the extreme hardness of the rock. To tap the vein the tunnel will have to be run 500 feet.

Ed Webber, employed at the Hecla mine, will lose the sight of one eye as the result of an apparently trivial accident. A bit of rock struck him in the eye, lacerating the optic nerve and causing a blood clot to form which local physicians say cannot be removed.

Norman Ebbelley, a mining broker, is the inventor of a device for use in connection with bicycles or motorcycles that is being rapidly adopted by local cyclists. The idea is unpatented. It consists of a stand enabling the rider to leave his machine standing wherever he dismounts from it. The stand is a light bar of iron which is fastened to the rear stays and is kept out of the way by a springs when the machine is in use.

A vast unprospected area lies north of Eagle city in the Murray district which has practically never been touched by miners. Many strong copper bearing ledges have been slightly exposed by the action of the elements according to W. M. Myers, a mining engineer who returned from a trip into the region.
