At a lively meeting of the executive committee of the chamber of commerce last night the principal theme of discussion was the matter of the Bitter Root at the meeting of the irrigation congress in Spokane next month. It is proposed to have at least 100 men go from Missoula and the valley if it can be arranged. Word has been sent to Hamilton asking the chamber of commerce there to co-operate in the plan, but no word has yet been received from there. In the meantime arrangements will be made to obtain a Pullman car for the delegation, and it is expected that the Missoula band will be taken along. At the meeting last night the sentiment was unanimous in favor of sending as large a delegation as possible. J. M. Keith and C. L. F. Kellogg spoke at length on the subject, urging that as many as possible from Missoula attend. The idea of the committee is that the delegation should be 100.

There was joy on the face of everybody yesterday, except the man who had a lot of hay ready to stack. He was not enthusiastic over the proposition, but he took the downpour philosophically and agreed that it was a good thing for the rest of the folks. There will be some sunshine before many days and then the haystacks will climb faster than ever. But the forest fires across the range, which would soon have been on this side, have been checked to the extent that they can be controlled, and that, in itself, is excuse enough for any rainstorm. The shower yesterday morning was entirely unexpected, the weather man got it up without any notice at all and those who were out early yesterday morning will testify that he did a good job. It was the most business-like rain that there has been in these parts since last year, when the weather man went away on his vacation and left the tap turned on. The entire country was well drenched and the man at the helm will steer a little sunshine this way today, or tomorrow, he will find some record-breaking work in the valley in the crop line.

They stood at the Florence corner last night and looked up the avenue along the lengthy line of illuminated signs. There were four of them, and they were strung in the city; they talked enthusiastically of some of the things they had seen here and were particularly interested in the electric signs. "I'll bet you," said one of them, "that there is more electric power represented in those signs on that one street than is used in our whole city at home." Whoever he came from, that young man is the sort of visitor that Missoula likes to have. He is representative of the people, as a whole, who are registering. And it is worth while to have this sort of fellows stop with us, if it is only for a day. They learn something about us and they like us and they go away with good words on their tongues for Missoula and her people. There can be no mistake made in the proper treatment of the strangers who are with us this summer. It is to the lasting credit of the people of the city, especially of the hotel men, that visitors are going home well pleased.

Charles J. Cutler came over from Butte yesterday. Mr. Cutler had a business engagement with Senator Bondar, and also wanted to register. He was particularly warm in his comment upon the conditions which he found here. "I have registered," he said, "not because I have much expectation of winning a homestead, but you know how it is when there is a chance. If there is even a bit of a chance a man likes to take it and he may be the one who wins. And I don't know where I would rather have a home than over in this part of the state. Every time I see Missoula I like it more than I did before and that is saying a good deal. The city is improving at a rate that is pleasing to its friends. It has always been a pretty town, and it is becoming more attractive every day. It is no wonder to me that you folks are enthusiastic over your home here; it is a wonderfully fine place. If I win a home in the reservation, I'll be a closer neighbor of Missoula than I am in Butte."

Tom Pendergrass was up from Plains yesterday visiting with his Missoula friends and attending to business matters here. Talking with a Missoulian man, Mr. Pendergrass said: "Our valley is picking up a good deal this summer. Business is good now and the crops are going to be fine. Haying is pretty nearly finished and there are stacks all over the place. Everything is better down there than it has been for two years and we are looking for a great fall and winter."

The new line of the Northern Pacific between Missoula and Butte has shortened the distance several miles. Recognition of this fact has been taken in the price of tickets between the two places, but the conductors on the passenger trains have, it is said, received no instructions as to pulling mileage, and when they read off the accordion-listed strip of colored paper they tear off just as much as they used to in the days when Garrison was farther away from here than it is now. "I came over from Butte this afternoon," said a friend of the editor, "and when the conductor pulled me aside he took the old length. I asked him about it and he said he had not been officially notified of the shortening of the line and was pulling on the old mileage. He said he believed that it was several miles shorter, but he couldn't pull except according to instructions. It meant more to him than it did to me, so I told him to pull ahead. And he pulled."

George A. Cook, who is in town from Los Angeles this week, was looking around in the rain yesterday discovering the mistakes he had made and he found a lot of them. "There's a couple of 'em," said he, "that I sold to Jim Rhoades. I made a hundred dollars on the deal and thought I was doing a big thing. Jim has since sold them and made a thousand dollars. I wish I had stayed here."

It is said that Smith, who had been ordered out of the city, admitted his guilt.
