HELP FOR STUDENTS

"We are reaching the point in our preparations for the year's work," said President Dunaway of the state university last night, "when we want help from the people of Missoula in one or two directions. First, we would like to receive information from business men and others as to positions which are open to students of the university who are compelled to do some work to enable them to carry on their studies at the university. We know from past experience that there are a good many of these places and it would help us out considerably if we could learn where they are and what they are. We are receiving inquiries just now from a good many young men and women who are confronted with the necessity of funds to supplement the means with which they come to school. It is a very practical form of help and it will be appreciated, from whatever source it comes. I would also be pleased to learn from residents of the city who can accommodate young men students as boarders, how many they can take care of and a statement of the terms; this will help much."

THE OLD ABUSE

It is safe to say that ninety-nine out of every hundred people who heard yesterday's address were pleased with the talk of Harry Parsons. It was the theme of much pleasant comment all the afternoon and until the lights were turned on last night it was not known that Mr. Parsons' address was all "tommy-rot." It was, however, all "tommy-rot" except those portions of it that were worse than that—this was the assurance given last night by a socialist orator who held forth on one of the street corners, taking the address of Mr. Parsons as her theme and tearing it to pieces to her own satisfaction, although the dissection seemed to please nobody else in particular. This was the impression gained by a sojourn in the little crowd which surrounded the speaker. Once the orator at the street corner got some applause; that was when she told her hearers that there was no chance for them to mix with the capitalists because the capitalists were afraid that the lumberjacks and the miners had "inhabited" in their clothes that would get into the pockets of the millionaires. That was a fair sample of the talk.

SOME DUCKS

Charlie Scaries, Jack Ward and some more of the old-timers who used to shoot ducks when the earth was young, came down the Big Blackfoot yesterday with as fine a bag of game as has been seen this season. They had been up in the old-time places where the ducks used to be plenty, and they found the birds there as of yore. They also found that the years of stress through which they have passed have in no way spoiled their aim, and they were able to make the same old showing when the tally was counted. There were plenty of ducks and they were all fine. "We had a good trip," said Mr. Scaries yesterday afternoon, "and fine sport. The old gun shot just as she used to and the ducks didn't fly too high. The weather was good for hunting and, all in all, it was like a chapter out of ancient history. We had a busy time."

SOME MORE

Dan Wickor was the pilot of another successful shooting party that went up the Blackfoot for two or three days; they didn't go in an automobile. "We had a dead-ax wagon," said Dan last night, "with the tires so loose that we had to get out at every stream and pour water on them with our hats to keep them from dropping off. But we got there and didn't have to use any help, either." It required a pretty big wagon to bring in all the birds and fish that the party caught; there was a lot of it and trout and ducks were alike high-class. Dan says they shoot ducks a good deal higher in the air than they used to. "There was a lot of high shooting," said he, "and I got the fever a bit myself, but Charlie Dallman and his crowd have it worse than any of them. We watched them shoot on day; the minute a duck shows up, no matter if it is flying half a mile high and looks as small as a turtle dove, they all bang away at the bird. Every duck that shows up gets the salute of 25 shells and there are not many of them that fail to recognize the salute."

THEY HAD TO WIN

In the tug-of-war the policemen came near to losing their reputation as pull-ers. The hod carriers had them almost over the line at one time. The game looked bad for a time; when it was at its worst and it seemed as if the knights of the hod would win in a walk, Officer Theriault looked into Night Chief McDonald's face as it lay perspiring beside his shoulder and said, "Gee, Pete, we got to win this or The Missoulian will roast us hard." Pete saw the point and he and Theriault made a beave that turned the tide and won the match.

The barbecue was not altogether a success; some hitch in the proceedings upset the plans and Whitey Watson was disconsolate. He was cheered up, however, by the sympathetic expressions of his friends and was feeling quite chipper until he was told that the socialist orator on the street corner had roasted him hotter than the fire roasted the steers. When Whitey heard that he went to his room and refused himself to all callers. It was too much.

CITY COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT

MANY IMPORTANT MATTERS TO BE CONSIDERED BY MISSOULA ALDERMEN.

Many matters, new and unfinished, await the action of the city council at its regular meeting tonight, and it is believed that a large proportion of them will be disposed of, or at least considered. The everlasting plumbing ordinance may be brought up tonight, as will the garbage ordinance and the suggestion of the city treasurer in the matter of dance halls. The ordinance providing for registers in hotels and lodging houses is also on the tapis. There is a new addition to the city to be considered; it is the Dan Paul addition, and the plat is to be submitted for approval. In addition to the matters already mentioned here are a number of petitions for hydrants, sidewalks, arc lights, fruit stands and things of that nature. It promises to be a busy session.

CHARGE OF CATTLE STEALING.

A man by the name of Napoleon Glode was arrested in the Grand theater last night by Officer Eklor and turned over to the sheriff. He is alleged to be one of a gang of men who have been stealing cattle from a man named Harris at Huson. Harris was expected in the city early this morning to push the charge.

RAILROAD PUMPMAN DIES AT HOSPITAL

J. F. Lawrence, a man aged 63 years, died late Sunday night at the Northern Pacific hospital, from the effects of cancer. He had for the past eight years been employed as a pumpman at Bearmouth, and was well known by the Northern Pacific railroad employees. He leaves three sons and a daughter, Mrs. Grace Black, who resides at Livingston. Mrs. Black was at her father's bedside when death occurred, as was a son, who left for Livingston yesterday morning to make arrangements for the funeral. Mr. Lawrence was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic and of the Masonic order, the latter of which will have charge of the funeral. The remains will be taken to Livingston this morning on No. 4.

SPENCER'S

COOK IS GLAD OF PEARY'S SUCCESS

Copenhagen the more completely is his standing established. The correspondent of the Associated Press heard him cross-examined by competent questioners half a dozen times. His replies were so quick, so pointed and detailed that if he is a romancer, he is one of the greatest in history. The demand for admission to Dr. Cook's lecture before the Geographical society tomorrow and a banquet afterward has placed a premium upon the seats. The fortunate ones who possessed tickets or the municipality bought Saturday last received bids as high as $300 for a single admission card. Cook's success in the shop windows and all the local newspapers are featuring pictures showing the explorer before and after his session with the barbers and tailors on Saturday. All the members of the royal family have requested autographed portraits, which Dr. Maurice F. Egan, the American minister took to them today.

Wish Frustrated.

The explorer had luncheon with the American minister, but their wish to spend a quiet hour together was frustrated because of the persistent approaches of autograph-hunters, mostly English tourist ladies.

One of the women insisted on knowing exactly what Dr. Cook was eating and she jotted down the menu solemnly and carefully in a note book. Dr. Cook and Mr. Egan will pass Thursday as the guests of the premier Count Holstein Ledebor, at the historic castle at Roskilde, a few miles from the city.

FASHION NOTES.

A Paris perfume shop is offering a dainty conceit that will make the most delicate Christmas gift to the woman who loves delicate perfumes. "Les 3 Muses" is printed in gold lettering on the outside of the pretty box. Inside are three tiny bottles with cut-glass stoppers, each bottle being triangular in shape and the three triangles fitting into a perfect circle. The three perfumes are labeled, respectively, Poeece, Dance and Music, and a drop of each is to be used on one's handkerchief.

Resting the Spirit in Summer.

It is not enough merely to transport the body to fresh fields and pastures new for the summer vacation. The mind also should be given a rest from home environment. The woman who packs her trunk full of bureau scarfs, photographs, sofa cushions and the like "to make the summer hotel room seem homelike," wonders why her ravaged nerves do not smooth out by fall. The summer hotel rooms may be bare and the furnishings ugly, but the very change is beneficial, and when one reaches one's cosy domicile again all the home possessions will seem doubly dear from the change and rest.

MILL IS DESTROYED.

Special to The Daily Missoulian.
Wallace, Sept. 6.—The mill and power house of the Hercules mine at Burke were destroyed by fire tonight, causing a loss estimated at $75,000. There was no insurance upon the buildings.

The cause of the fire is believed to have been defective wiring in the buildings. The Hercules is one of the richest lead and silver mines in the Coeur d'Alene, and has been shipping for many years. Two hundred men are thrown out of employment until the mill is rebuilt.

Masons, Attention.

Special meeting Missoula lodge at 10:20 a. m. today to act as escort to train for our late brother, James F. Lawrence.

A. J. BREITENSTEIN, Secretary.

New lines, which it is claimed will give greater speed with limited power, were followed in building a steamship recently launched in England. Cylindrical swellings on each side to increase the stability were features of the design.
