The busiest man in Missoula yesterday was Principal Thomas of the county high school; the expectations of increased attendance at the high school were fully realized and the institution is now running at its capacity. The handsome new building, which many people thought too large when it was built a year ago, is none too large this week and there are some pupils who have not yet registered. By the time the year's organization is perfected and the rush of the opening registration is over, there will be probably not less than 250 pupils enrolled. The new teachers were in their places yesterday and things start off with a dash that gives promise of a highly successful year.

In response to the special advertising of the Donohue store yesterday there was one of the greatest rushes in the history of the store; the sale was a continuation of the Saturday bargains, and it was not expected that there would be as great a crowd as on the opening day, but the rush was so great that, last night, it became necessary to withdraw the specials for one day in order to get the stock straightened out. On Saturday and yesterday a thousand pairs of shoes were sold, which is a record for this store and probably for many others. It was the biggest and busiest day of the special-sale season, and it proved emphatically the results that follow advertising in The Missoulian.

Peter Scheffer was in town yesterday from his ranch in the Frenchtown valley, attending to business matters and getting acquainted with his Missoula friends, whom he has hardly seen since the harvest began. Replying to a question from a Missoula man, Mr. Scheffer said: "Our grain is all cut and I presume they are starting again today to thresh. We had to wait for the rain to get through; it has made the threshing very slow this year, but I am sure there has been no damage, aside from the delay and the extra work water rain always makes. We have a good crop this year and the quality of the grain is good."

Missoula should be glad that she had the opportunity to adopt Herman Rossi and get him into business here when a GOOD BOOSTER branched out from Wallace. At the time he came here The Missoulian predicted that he would make one of the best boosters and he is making good in a way that is gratifying. He is doing his besting where it does the most good. In another part of The Missoulian this morning there is printed a story from the Wallace Times, which shows the sort of campaigning that Mr. Rossi is doing for Missoula. Coming from across the range, this talk is pleasing and the spirit of friendliness which it displays is the sort that will do Missoula good. Missoula, on her part, is ready to be of any service she can to her neighbor over the Hill, and there should grow up a strong commercial bond between them.

"SIGS" ENJOY MONTHLY DINNER AT FLORENCE

Twenty "Sigs" enjoyed the first monthly dinner of the Missoula alumni chapter of Sigma Chi, held in the Florence hotel last night. The dinner was held following a recent resolution passed by the chapter providing for a monthly meeting of the members in a social session. After the dinner an informal meeting was held, at which various matters pertaining to the active and the alumni chapter were discussed. Those who were present at the dinner were: Professor P. C. Schuech, King Garlington, Edgar Polleys, William Dickinson, George D. Little, Hugh Forbes, Gilbert McLaren, Clarence J. Forbis, T. Joseph Farrell, Jr., Gilbert Heyford, Edward Simons, Joseph Streit, Arthur Bishop, Milton Mason, W. G. Ferguson, F. T. Ferguson and George P. Stone.

PETE WELCH KILLED NEAR TAFT

LABORER IN EMPLOY OF BATES & ROGERS KILLED BY OVERTURNED DUMP CAR.

Coroner W. D. Kendrick yesterday evening received word from W. M. Downey, timekeeper for Bates & Rogers at tunnel No. 19 on the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound, between Sattese and Taft, that a man by the name of Pete Welch was dead at that place, having been injured by a dump car. According to the story told the coroner, the man was working between 1 p. m. and 2 p. m. yesterday with or near some dump cars. One of the cars, while going at a rapid rate, jumped the track and fell on top of Welch. The man was taken from under the car and given the best surgical attention possible at the camp, but died about three hours later from the results of the injuries sustained. Not very much is yet known of the dead man, other than the fact that he was in the employ of Bates & Rogers, contractors on the Puget Sound road. Coroner Kendrick will leave today on the Puget Sound for the scene of the accident and bring back the remains.

BLOW WITH BOTTLE INJURES MAN

SALOON FIGHT ENDS WITH FRANK IRVIN RECEIVING A CUT SCALP.

While Pete McDonald, night chief of police, was standing at the corner of the Florence at about 12:30 o'clock this morning he saw a man come staggering from one of the saloons and fall in the middle of the street. When questioned the man, whose name was later found to be Frank Irvin, said that Charles Mattson, one of the proprietors of the saloon, had struck him on the head with a beer bottle. When arrested Mattson claimed that Otto Olson, a lather of the city, who was in the saloon at the time, had struck the blow. Mattson and Olson were taken to the city jail and Irvin was attended to at the county jail by County Physician Turman. Just how the fracas occurred was not learned, but Irvin received a hard crack on the skull with the bottle. He was hit over the left ear and the scalp cut badly, causing him to lose a large amount of blood.

LAURENCE REMAINS SHIPPED.

The body of J. F. Laurence, the well-known pumpman at Bearmouth, who died several days ago, was shipped yesterday morning to his old home in Livingston for burial. The Massons, of which order the dead man had been a member, escorted the remains to the station. Mrs. Grace Black, the daughter of the deceased, accompanied the remains.

BIDS FOR PRINTING OPENED

MISSOULA HERALD TRIES TO CHANGE ITS TERMS AFTER FIGURES ARE READ.

The county commissioners yesterday opened the bids for the county printing and advertising for the next two years, and spent the afternoon in discussing them, without arriving at any conclusion as to the award of the contract. There were two bids, one from the publishers of the Missoula Herald and the other from the Missoulian Publishing company.

The bid of The Missoulian, which was opened first, was as follows: For plain composition, printing proceedings, legal notices and the like, no charge to the county; for rule and figure work (tabulated printing), 10 per cent of the legal rate; for legal blanks, 50 per cent of the legal rate; for blank books, 50 per cent of the legal rate.

The bid of the publishers of the Missoula Herald, the only other bid submitted, was as follows: For plain composition, no charge to the county; for rule and figure work, 25 per cent of the legal rate; for legal blanks, 22 1-3 per cent of the legal rate; for blank books, invoice price with 10 per cent added.

These bids were opened at noon, and after the noon recess the commissioners took up the consideration of the matter. The Missoulian management submitted a statement showing that the difference in the two bids on rule and figure work, based on last year's business, would be nearly $300 in favor of The Missoulian; the difference on legal blanks would be about $150 in favor of the Herald; the net difference being considerably to the advantage of The Missoulian bid.

The attention of the commissioners was called to the fact that the bid for blank books submitted by the Herald was really no bid at all. It reads "invoice price with 10 per cent added." The "invoice price" might be anything; the bid is ambiguous and is really no bid at all.

Attention was also called to the fact that all of the blank books manufactured under The Missoulian bid are made in Missoula by Missoulian men, working for Montana unions, wages. The Missoulian operates a bindery and its bid is the bid of a home institution.

Replying to this, Mr. Hassler, for the Herald, tried to amend his sealed bid by offering to furnish a bond that the cost of the blank books would be less than the bid of his competitor. This was objected to as being unfair, inasmuch as sealed bids had been called for and the bid of the Herald made under the same conditions.

The Missoulian's bid was submitted in accordance with the advertisement of the commissioners; its price is clearly stated; it is the lower bid. In fact, the Herald has submitted no bid at all on the blank books. If it should be awarded the contract it would have to send away for the books, and there is a state law imposing a penalty for sending county printing out of the state if it can be done at home.

During the afternoon the commissioners called upon County Attorney Mulrooney for an opinion in the matter. Mr. Mulrooney declined to decide which was the lower bid, but gave his opinion that it would be in violation of the call for sealed bids to readvertise, and that the Herald bid for blank books was not a bid at all.

A careful consideration of the two bids, as they were originally submitted, will satisfy anybody that the bid of The Missoulian is the lower. To permit the Herald's bid to be changed after the two had been opened and read would be unfair, inasmuch as The Missoulian's bid was submitted in good faith and in accordance with the call for bids.

WOMAN KILLED BY UNKNOWN PERSON

saw her with a male companion going to a Chinese restaurant near 1 o'clock yesterday morning. Other habits of the restricted district state that the woman was seen even later. So it is thought that she was shot somewhere between 2 a. m. and 3:30 a. m. yesterday.

An examination of the body will be made today and it will be ascertained whether or not the bullet went entirely through the head, as was at first reported. The coroner states that it did not leave the skull.

Pearl Anderson came from Anaconda recently in company with another woman and had been known by Clayborn since last Thursday, and why he should get drunk and shed tears over the murder, when he had known her such a short time, is a puzzle to the officers.

Clayborn is said to have served two and one-half years in the Idaho state penitentiary for shooting a colored woman in the head at Wallace several years ago. He admitted it to the coroner and to the sheriff's officers. An inquest over the remains of the murdered woman will be held by Coroner Kendrick at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening.

TO ENTER HIGH SCHOOL.

Miss Regina Lauziere and her younger sisters, Misses Angelina and Pamela, arrived in the city yesterday from their home in Frenchtown. The two younger girls will enter the high school, both having passed the eighth grade examination. Miss Angelina has the distinction of being the youngest successful candidate to pass the examination. Miss Regina will spend a few days in Missoula before returning home.

WALLACE IS HELPING MISSOULA

COEUR D'ALENE PEOPLE HAVE A LIKING FOR THE LITTLE OLD GARDEN CITY.

Missoula has always had warm friends in the Coeur d'Alene country, and that she is making many new ones there is indicated by the following good boost, which appeared in the Wallace Times yesterday morning:

"That Wallace has ascertained that Miss Spokane is a most fleckle sweet-heart and that the citizens of this city, as a result of the unrequited love on the part of the empire belle, are determined to cast their affections hereafter in other channels is made evident by the fact that of late much capital from the Coeur d'Alenes has been sent to Missoula, Mont. The citizens of that city are said to be absolutely in sympathy with the Coeur d'Alenes and to be boosting strongly for the interests of this community, with the result that much benefit has been forthcoming from the Montana city in the way of financial backing for some of its enterprises.

"No less than six brick structures, now under construction at Missoula, are said to be financed by Wallace men. In Missoula, the Coeur d'Alene district is referred to as being one of the greatest, if not the greatest, in the world, and it is not wondered at that an exchange of courtesies, compliments and general good will has followed.

"It has been pointed out that Spokane has lost its stronghold on the Coeur d'Alene's affections merely through its own selfishness. Not so very long ago Spokane was the real thing with Wallace and other Coeur d'Alene district centers, but this situation has been given the benighted end of the stick all the way through by Spokane, and that when Missoula came courting it had a snap in landing the prize sweetheart of this neck of the woods.

"The fact that Spokane, through the medium of its morning paper, tried its very best to have this section of the state of Idaho and some parts of Washington made a state by themselves; that a majority of its mining brokers became members of the avil chorus of the Spokane Blacksmiths' association, when it concerned Coeur d'Alene interests, and that the great Spokesman-Review did not find it worth while to recognize the Wallace district in a recent special edition, although it was from this city that it received its largest vote in a popularity contest, has caused Wallace to look upon Miss Spokane as a sourette out on fortune hunting bent.

"Missoula and Wallace are working hand in hand, and what benefits one city helps the other, and Missoula is regarded as the real thing by Wallace-ites now," remarked Herman J. Rossi, in speaking of the situation. "The Missoulians are finer fellows; they are willing to give you more for your money, and anything with the Wallace brand on it is not knocked if it cannot be boosted. If an eastern mining investor writes to Spokane to find the chances are that he will be informed he is being handed a lemon, and that if he would invest money in some other district he would be recompensed nicely, without a chance of failure. The Missoulians are different. When they are asked for advice, they tell inquirers what is what, and if the proposition does not look good to them, they will suggest other channels in the district for investment. There's the difference."

LICENSE ISSUED.

A marriage license was granted by the clerk of the court yesterday to George Evans Pursell of Creston, Wis., and Miss Effie Smiley of Nimrod, Mont.
