RELEASE OF LEBEAU ORDERED

CHARGES AGAINST NOTORIOUS CHARACTER ARE DISMISSED IN DISTRICT COURT.

The spectators in the court of Justice of the Peace Small yesterday afternoon, during the preliminary hearing of Tim LeBeau, charged by Laura Peterson of seduction and enticing an unmarried woman for the purpose of prostitution, were treated to a bitter arraignment of E. D. Phelan, a Helena attorney who had been retained by the defendant, by Attorney E. C. Mulroney, who accused the attorney of unprofessional conduct. There were counter charges made against the county attorney by Mr. Phelan, who charged him with having used threats of imprisonment in attempts to secure the signature of Laura Peterson to a certain affidavit. However, before any testimony had been heard, it was ordered, both by statements made by the attorney for the defense and by the statement of Laura Peterson in open court, that the young woman would testify that she had been seduced by a man in Minnesota in June, 1908, five months before the act alleged to have been committed by LeBeau.

Upon this showing County Attorney Mulroney could see nothing to do but move the dismissal of the two charges against LeBeau, which was done and the defendant ordered released from custody.

At the beginning of the hearing the county attorney took the defense by surprise by producing a signed and sworn statement from Pearl Peterson, which stated the two young women had visited the room of Mr. Phelan, in the Savoy hotel, on the afternoon of Labor day, and a male friend of LeBeau's had paid Laura the sum of $200, which was paid to the girl on condition that she drop the prosecution of LeBeau. A similar statement, which was offered to Laura Peterson for her signature, was not signed. Attorney Phelan accused County Attorney Mulroney of having threatened the girl with imprisonment if she did not sign the document, which charge was strenuously denied by the county attorney.

The defense produced a statement, signed and sworn to by Laura Peterson, in which the girl stated that she had received the money from LeBeau, through his friend, in repayment of certain sums amounting to $1,000 which had been given to LeBeau at various times. In this statement, the girl also stated that she had been seduced in Minnesota by another man several months previous to the time of the crime alleged to have been committed by LeBeau.

Mr. Mulroney stated that Pearl Peterson had promised, on her honor, to be present in court and testify to the truth of the statement signed by her, but she did not put in an appearance. Asked why she had stated that she had been seduced by LeBeau, Laura Peterson said that she had thought that having had a personal relation with a man in another state, would make a separate offense in this state, and she had told the county attorney the facts of her relations with LeBeau because she believed that an act committed in this state would be taken into consideration without regard to the offense having been previously committed in another state.

AMUSEMENT COMPANY TO HOLD THE BOARDS

On Thursday night, September 9, the Harnois theater will throw open its doors with the Hart Amusement company as a stellar attraction for three nights. This company has won much applause through the west, as is illustrated by the following comment of the Winnemucca (Nev.) Silver state of June 28:

"Last night Armory hall was again packed to the doors with people assembled to see the ludicrous antics of those hypnotized by the master mind of Hart, the laugh king. Fourteen gentlemen volunteered, and with two exceptions yielded to the operator. The fun was fast and furious. The subjects were made to dream that they were little girls at dancing school, executing the skirt dance, that they saw a magickian grow the mango tree, took a trip to the moon, had the toothache, were deaf and dumb and told a funny story on their fingers to each other and to persons in the audience, and so on through the long program."

The Hart Amusement company will appear at popular prices.

NOTED EVANGELIST COMING

DR. BREEDEN WILL DELIVER SERMONS AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH DURING REVIVAL.

The coming of the distinguished evangelist, Dr. Breeden, is of interest to the entire community, because the message he will bring is not one in which the members of the local church under whose auspices he comes are alone interested, but one in which all the world is interested. Physically and intellectually he is a man of heroic build. Such a man can be trusted to deliver a heroic message. A man who speaks from one pulpit or platform for 25 consecutive years, with constantly growing power and widening influence, as Dr. Breeden did in Des Moines, Iowa, needs no other commendation. Fresh from college he took charge of a church of 200 members. At the end of a quarter of a century he left it with a membership of 2,000, and the mother of 12 other churches in the city, one of which now has a larger membership than the parent church. These were not the results of high pressure methods, but of fine generalship and able, dignified preaching and teaching through a long series of years. In inviting the people of Missoula to hear Dr. Breeden, it is not that he may be honored but that they may be benefited as all must be who sit under his ministry. If with a few hours in which to prepare each week he could entertain and edify for so long the people of his great church in Des Moines, how much more should he be able to entertain and edify the people of Missoula when he will bring to them the beaten and refined oil of all those years of preparation. The following themes will constitute the bill of fare for the first week, commencing with Monday evening, September 13: "Why Are Our Prayers Not Answered?" Tuesday, "What and Where is Hell?" Wednesday, "What and Where is Heaven?" Thursday, "What are the Wages of Sin?" Friday, "What Must I do to be Saved?" Sunday morning, "The Shepherd Psalm," Sunday 3 p. m., "Reaping the Whirlwind," Sunday 8 p. m., "The Divinity of Christ." Plan to hear every one of these sermons. Dr. Breeden will arrive in the city Friday night and will preach his first sermon at 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

THEY PLAY BASEBALL WITH REDHOT RIVETS

Playing baseball with redhot rivets. That is what they are doing every day at the Higgins avenue bridge. There are not many players and the "diamond" is not the regulation sort, but to see the flaming rivets go hurtling through the air from the pitcher to the catcher, then riveted into the great beams of the bridge is almost as interesting as some of the games seen on the south side grounds.

The rivets, short iron bolts, are heated to a white heat in a furnace. The blacksmith lifts the heated slug of metal from the coals with a long pair of tongs and with an ease and precision that is remarkable, sends it sailing through the air for a distance of 40 feet or more to the "catcher" who is working with the riveting gang. Sometimes the riveters are working upon the bridge, sometimes under the south section. Wherever they may be the "catcher," armed with a small tin bucket for a catcher's mit, deftly catches the rivet, lifts it out with a pair of tongs and slips it through the holes of the pieces of steel to be riveted together. A lever man, provided with a long piece of steel that works upon a fulcrum, holds the bolt in place while the riveter with his automatic riveting machine hammers the rivet home.

To catch the redhot rivets thrown to him from a distance of 40 feet or more and never miss one is a feat that requires no little practice on the part of the "catcher." But there is an expert working on the bridge and the ease and unerring precision with which he catches the little red slugs of metal furnishes an interesting spectacle to many who stand for hours watching the novel performance.

The proprietor of a Portland, Ore. dry-cleaning establishment writes:

I have used Ivory Soap for over two years, for all kinds of cleaning and dyeing, with the most perfect results. As a dry-cleaning soap, it acts like magic and is far superior to any of the benzine soaps supplied to the trade. It removes dirt, without injuring the most delicate color or fabric.
