CAUGHT ON THE RUN ABOUT TOWN

Postmaster Ross announces that the new carriers to be added to the local force, will be Ralph Herriek and Paul Dodge, who have been on the substitute list. It is expected that the letter confirming the telegram of the first assistant postmaster general will reach Mr. Ross today. The appointment of the two new carriers is a matter that Mr. Ross had been urging for a long time, but he had received no intimation that a request had been acted upon until he got the telegram, the other day, which was announced in The Missoulian. Inspector C. E. Riddford of the post-office department was in the city when the message was received and he gave it as his opinion that the carriers were much needed and that the Missoula office should have had them long ago. It is likely that there will be further additions to the force in the immediate future, as the business which Mr. Ross is handling is increasing rapidly. The statement for July and August shows an increase of 80 per cent over these months last year.

THE NEW CARRIERS

"There's something wrong with somebody's date book," was all the comment which Dr. Gettlinger made yesterday regarding the complaint of M. Solomon that Gettlinger had, by popping his automobile, frightened the high-spirited horse that Solomon owns and had imperiled the life and limb of the owner of the prancing equine. "You see," continued the doctor, "my machine is in the shop for repairs and has been there for some time. It broke down three days before the date upon which Mr. Solomon says I scared his horse; it went into the repair shop at that time and has not been out since; it can't get out because it can't run. If Mr. Solomon is sure of the date, he has made a mistake in the man who scared his horse. If he is sure that I am the man, then he has got mixed in his dates. As a matter of fact, the entire matter is news to me; I didn't know that I ever scared Mr. Solomon's horse. If I did, it was unconsciously; if the horse was scared on the date Mr. Solomon gives, then I know I didn't do it."

WE ANNEX ONE MORE

Missoula has another booster on her list and he's a live one. Louis Carroll of the firm of Carroll & Napton, while a recent arrival in Missoula, is as enthusiastic as the most ardent of us could wish. He is getting better acquainted with the city and its people every day and the more he sees of us, the better he likes us. And that is as it should be. Mr. Carroll's family will be here in the spring to reside permanently; they are now in Cincinnati, which has long been their home. "I have looked all over the northwest," said Mr. Carroll yesterday to a Missoulian man, "and have examined a good many cities before deciding to locate in Missoula; of all the places I saw and of all the valleys that I visited, there were none that appealed to me like Missoula and the Bitter Root. I believe the city has a splendid future and that it will grow into a big town. The country about us—I can say it now—is remarkable; there is so much of it and it is all so good; the crops amaze me and the scenery is magnificent."

MOVING ALONG

The steel workers on the new Smith and Thomas building, on Stevens street, are getting their work about finished; the building will probably be enclosed by the end of the month. The men who are working under Dave Erickson in rebuilding the Higgins block and remodeling the Crescent store have made a good showing and the new store will have a handsome and convenient front. The finishing touches are being placed upon the ground floor of the Masonic temple and these large store rooms will be ready for occupancy soon. The Greenhous building is about complete, a handsome addition to the city's business blocks. The steel is arriving for the Cowell & Dixon building and the contractors, Olson & Johnson, have a good force of men at work. On the court house a good showing is being made; the brackets for the corals are being placed in position and it is estimated that the roof will be on within three weeks. These warm days are giving the builder every opportunity to make good and the showing is fine.

COUNCIL AND EXPERT DISCUSS SEWER PLANS

An informal consultation with Engineer Swearingen, the Great Falls sewer expert, was held by a number of Missoula aldermen yesterday afternoon in the office of Mayor Ligan. Mr. Swearingen explained his plans in detail and discussed with the city officials various schemes for meeting local problems. The use of the Missoula river for the carrying off of waste or the building of long mains with short laterals are the two expedients now under most favorable consideration. No definite action was taken yesterday afternoon.

TRAINS CRASH IN MISSOULA YARDS

any other the details of the accident. "The last that I saw of the track until just after the collision was about two minutes before train time. I cleared the track for the coming passenger, and, having gotten everything into shape, I went to the toilet for a moment. While I was there I heard a crash, and, looking out, I saw the passenger and the switch engine—1054—smashed together on the cinder-pit spur. When I went in the switch engine was not there, and there is no doubt but that while I was gone the switching crew came up the main line to get a few empty box cars which were standing on the siding, and, as they intended to come right out, left the switch open. They were around a curve, so that neither could they see the approaching train nor could the passenger crew see them. The switch engine had just started out when the train struck it. The rest everybody knows."

The Relief Work.

Within a minute after the collision the train was surrounded by people who live in the neighborhood and had heard the crash, and by frightened passengers who had been thrown out of their seats when the trains met. A section gang was put at work immediately and the work of pulling out the injured was begun. Anderson was the first man to be found. He had been standing on the footboard of engine 1054 when the two trains met and death must have been instantaneous. His neck was broken and the right arm badly torn, but by some miracle the body had escaped the grinding of the two engines as they met and was not disfigured at all.

"I Want to Die!"

Then the cries of another man were heard, and on investigation a tramp, who had been riding on the tank of engine 290, was found pinned down by wreckage. A crew of men hurried to his assistance and he was pulled out of his dangerous position apparently fatally injured. The foreman asked him for his name, but he only groaned and said: "I don't want to tell my name; let me die right now." He was hurried to St. Patrick's hospital, but his back was broken and he died within an hour.

The Injured.

With the exception of Howard Brooks, the rest of the injured men got out easily. Brooks, however, who is a boy of about 20, was in prettily bad shape. His legs were crushed and his body was badly bruised, and he was placed in an ambulance and hurried to the hospital, where he was reported late last night as resting easily.

The Damages.

Under the circumstances it is a wonder that the damage done to the rolling stock was not greater. Both of the engines, the 1054 and the 290, are pretty badly caved in, but the passenger coaches are all in good shape, and aside from one telescoped car no damage was done to the string of empties. The engines hit at a speed of 15 miles an hour, according to those who saw the collision, and the lighter switch engine was fairly lifted off the track. The impact slid it back 20 feet and the tank was pushed clear into the front box car. Nothing left the track, and so clean was the wreck that the track was cleared almost immediately and the train was out of Missoula within two hours. A freight train was coming in right behind the passenger and it was flagged and the engine went ahead to pull the coaches out. As soon as the train was on the main line again an engine was attached and it was pulled into the depot.

The Dead.

Charles A. Anderson, the dead switchman, leaves his wife, who resides at 596 North Second street, and the body was taken there last night. It will be shipped today to Detroit, Mich., the dead man's home, for interment. The local services will be in charge of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, of which order the man was a member.

Of Cummings' little is known. Papers showing his name to be Cummings of Butte were found on the body but other than that he is absolutely unknown. He was stealing a ride with another tramp on the rear of the tank, but his partner disappeared after the collision and nothing has been seen of him since. Cummings is supposed to have been a lumberjack.

Coroner Kendrick will hold an inquest on the death of Anderson this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

SALOON MEN ARRESTED.

Yesterday Deputy Sheriff Farrell brought to the county jail Jay Carr of Taft and Ben Smith of Ekalense. Both are saloonkeepers and are charged with violating the wine room laws. They will probably be arraigned today.

NEGRO ADMITS HE KILLED WOMAN

Yesterday morning. After identifying the body as that of his wife, Anderson returned to his home. He did not learn of the confession of Clayborn, nor did he see the murderer.

Came From Idaho.

Clayborn came to Missoula from Idaho. He has told the officers at the jail that he worked for a number of years in Seattle, and that he has also been employed at Spokane. He was born in West Virginia and has been in the west for years. He is 34 years of age.

No Inquest.

Coroner Kendrick announced last evening that no inquest would be held, inasmuch as Clayborn's confession removed all doubt as to the cause of the woman's death. The body will be buried in Missoula.

PRINTING CONTRACT IS NOT YET AWARDED

The session of the county commissioners yesterday was opened by a further discussion of the county printing contract, in which the commissioners and representatives of the Missoula Herald and The Missoulian participated. The Missoulian's contention was that the bid of the Herald was so worded as to make it no bid at all, and reference was made to the fact that Missoulian work is all home work, representing home labor and home capital. The Herald's representative insisted upon being permitted to change his bid, although sealed bids had been called for.

When the discussion was ended, Chairman Curran moved that the contract be awarded to the Missoulian Herald. There was no second.

Commissioner Worden moved that, as the Herald bid was no bid, and there was only the bid of The Missoulian before the board, the contract be awarded to the Missoulian Publishing Company. There was no second.

Commissioner Nelson moved that, as the Herald bid was in such shape that it could not be considered, the board advertise for bids. There was no second.

The board took up the consideration of other business.

THE BAPTISTS ELECT OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Special to The Daily Missoulian.
Helena, Mont., Sept. 8.—The state mission board report was adopted recommending that particular attention be given the ensuing year to Three Forks, the Flathead valley, Whitefish, Roundup and Blaine, and toward the putting on a self-supporting basis of the churches at Hamilton, Livingston and Anaconda.

During the year a gain in membership was made of 51 and receipts increased 50 per cent. Three new churches were organized, one made self-supporting and two delegated. Nineteen missionaries covered the state during the year. The Rev. J. E. Noffsinger of Butte was elected president for the ensuing year, J. F. McNamee of Helena vice president, and L. B. Hardy of Livingston secretary.

UNION LABEL TAKEN FROM SHOP

TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION WITH-DRAWS ITS EMBLEM FROM HASSLER BROS.' OFFICE.

At a special meeting of the Missoula Typographical union last night the union label was taken from the shop of Hassler Bros., because that shop had not been conducted according to the rules and requirements of the union, which provide that no man not a member of the union shall be permitted to work in an office which is entitled to use the label on its work. The action of the union was precipitated yesterday by the action of W. E. Hassler, who was expelled from the union at its last regular meeting, Sunday, September 5. Mr. Hassler, despite the fact of his expulsion, worked in the composing room of the Herald office yesterday morning. The following statement of the case in relation to the expulsion of Mr. Hassler and the removal of the union label from the Herald office was made by a member of the union last night:

"The action of the Typographical union in prohibiting the use of its union label by the Herald is the culmination of a series of long-drawn-out controversies between the publishers of that newspaper and the union. A few weeks ago W. E. Hassler was found guilty by the union of conduct unbecoming a union man on four different counts, and a vote of censure was passed upon him. At the last regular meeting of the union, upon new charges preferred by two members, he was summarily expelled from the union.

"The Typographical union's label is loaned for the use of offices employing union men and observing union conditions. When it was brought to the attention of the union officials that these conditions were being violated in the office of the Herald, a special meeting of the union was called and, after a thorough hearing, the union label was withdrawn."

ENGINEERS' UNION MAY BE INDEPENDENT

Special to The Daily Missoulian.
Butte, Sept. 8.—An important election was held here this afternoon and night by Engineers' union No. 83 of the Western Federation of Miners, the proposition being to withdraw from the federation. No official figures are available, the books all being locked up directly after the polls closed, and the count is to be reported next Wednesday night at the union meeting. Unofficially it is reported the engineers voted to withdraw from the parent body. The result may mean disturbed conditions in the Butte labor field, as the Miners' union has used all moral persuasion to prevent this step and has gone on record in resolutions opposing it.

ABANDONS ATTEMPT.
