New Autumn Merchandise IN ALL DEPARTMENTS

MISSOULA MERCANTILE CO.

New! New! New!

These words seem to cry out from every nook and corner of this great store these days. Thousands upon thousands of dollars' worth of new, bright merchandise has been pouring into every department, and each is able to announce its readiness for the splendid fall and winter trade before us. It's a treat just to come and look around.

Dress Goods This Winter Will Appeal to Every Woman

This should be a beautiful season in clothes. A gown simply cannot be beautiful unless the material pleases the eye. This year dressmakers, tailors and the woman who makes her own clothes have wonderfully lovely things to pick from, and already our showings have captivated the hearts of Missoula's dress goods-buying public.

If one's taste be grave, she has deep-toned, dignified fabrics such as the flat-ribbed Epingle, the Pollax Souple, the Salvia or any of the beautiful blacks.

If her love be for the gay, she can choose broadcloths finer than ever, and in richer colors. Or there are Antoinette cloths or French Serges or Taffeta Cloths in out-of-the-ordinary weaves and colors.

If economy be sought after, there are pretty Plaids, Challis, Crepes and others in qualities that are dependable and styles and colors not everywhere found in moderate-priced materials.

The list of new materials to be complete would be a long one—to get the full benefit of the new things, one must see them, and we shall enjoy showing them to you.

YOU ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO AN

Exhibition and Demonstration of LA GRECQUE CORSETS

Beginning Monday and Continuing Through the Week

This week our regular corsetieres will be assisted by Madame La Buit of New York City, one of the Van Orden Co.'s experts in corset fitting. She brings with her all the latest models of both La Grecque Belt and Lattice Ribbon Corsets and La Grecque Tailored Underwear.

A corset-fitting at her hands entails no obligation; she simply wishes to spread more thoroughly the knowledge of La Grecque superiority to show Missoula women how much the female figure may be improved by wearing these stylish, shapely and thoroughly practical garments.

Come and let her show you how to add to your shapeliness and bodily comfort.

By Express and Str. La Lorraine These Trimmings Came

—right from Paris.

Tinsel is the keynote of box after box of the fascinating French trimmings just opened up.

Dull gold with a heavy, rich quality, which will add restrained elegance to a dinner gown. Deliciously gay trimmings of new gold or silver for some debutante's frock. Curiously somber jet affairs combined with laces and braids. Jeweled trimmings, of which only a touch is needed. The Trimmings section has a greater fascination than ever, and, listen, very often the quantities are very limited, giving them the added charm of exclusiveness—which means early choosing to get the best.

Then we have the new trimming braids—shades without number, including black and white, to match the new broadcloths, chevils, serges, worsteds and evening fabrics.

Satin cord braid, heavy tubular braid, gold and silver braids, satin and soutache combinations, narrow and wide. The variety seems to take in every braid need of the dressmaker. Per yard 15c to $12

ARMY TOURNAMENT IS HELD

TROOPS FROM ALL PARTS OF THE WEST PARTICIPATE IN MANEUVERS.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 20.—With the review of the 2,500 soldiers from all over the west by President Taft here, the greatest army maneuvers and tournament in the history of the country began today. Brigadier General Charles E. Moston, commanding the department of the Missouri, stationed at Fort Omaha, is in command of the operations.

Cavalry, infantry and artillery took part in the tournament from practically every fort in the middle west. Many valuable prizes are offered for the best tactics, feats of horsemanship and evolutions.

The third battalion, Sixteenth infantry, captured first prize for wall scaling. A record of 27 seconds was made.

Private Craft of the Seventh cavalry won the Roman standing race in 30 1-2 seconds.

John Wilson, 8 years old, son of C. W. Wilson of winter, was severely injured by a piece of the bridge which was blown up during the maneuvers conducted by the third battalion of engineers. Captain King's horse troop of the Second cavalry carried off the prize for horsemanship.

PROVES MARKSMANSHIP.

Monticello, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Prince Kuniyoshi Kuni, Japan's representative at the Hudson-Fulton celebration, had an opportunity today to justify his reputation as one of the best marksmen in the Japanese army. The prince shot at target practice with the experts of the Monticello Gun club. He scored several difficult bull-eyes.

ISSUES AN APPEAL TO ALL BRANCHES

Washington, Sept. 20.—The National Red Cross today issued an appeal to all its branches in the United States to procure food and clothing for the benefit of flood sufferers in Mexico. In a dispatch to the state department, Consul Hanna at Monterey, further depicted the great loss and intense suffering occasioned by the Mexican floods.

FORESTS ARE BEING DESTROYED

EXPERT OF BUREAU CLAIMS THAT TIMBER WILL DISAPPEAR—FIRES ARE BAD.

Washington, Sept. 20.—A startling situation has developed as the result of taking stock of the country's forest reserves, according to Treadwell Cleveland, Jr., expert in the forest bureau, in a bulletin made public today. It has shown, Mr. Cleveland declares, that the country still is destroying the forest, taking from it every year three and a half times as much wood as is added by new growth. It has shown that less than one-third of growing trees felled by lumbermen is never used.

Fires Are Expensive.

It has shown that one-eleventh of all the forests is swept by fires every year, and that on the average since 1879 forest fires have yearly cost $30,000,000 in timber and 50 lives. It has shown, Mr. Cleveland continues, that more than 99 per cent of forests in private hands—which comprises three-fourths of all forest lands and four-fifths of all wood, is thus devastated by destructive fires. It is stated further that the forest, as a reserve, is being rapidly obliterated.

BREAKFAST PLANNED FOR THE PRESIDENTS

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 20.—The arrangement committee tonight telegraphed President Taft requesting that he invite President Diaz to breakfast with him on October 16 and allow El Paso to be the entertainer. As the president has accepted the invitation of President Diaz to dine with him, it is thought he will be glad to extend the invitation to President Diaz. General A. A. Meyer, commander of the Texas division, was here today and secured camp for the 2,500 troops which will assemble here October 15 and parade on the 16th as an escort to the presidents.

SERIOUSLY INJURED.

San Francisco, Sept. 20.—Rev. D. O. Crowley, head of the youths' directory, an institution that cares for homeless boys, was struck by a taxicab early this evening and sustained serious injuries. His skull was fractured and his lower jaw broken. Father Crowley is one of the most widely known Roman Catholic priests in the west. He is 65 years old.

INSTITUTE'S OPENING AUSPICIOUS

In this he struck the keynote of all of the talks of the day. "Geography should be taught objectively rather than subjectively. Teach the student the climate, the physical appearance, the animals and the plants of the particular region which is being studied." He proceeded to outline a method of study based on this foundation and carrying out this idea.

Dr. Sarah Sprague.

Dr. Sarah E. Sprague, the next speaker, was the state inspector of education in Illinois for nine years and her talk, "Eight Years of Reading," was an education in itself. In her morning talk she discussed the primary-reading education, giving valuable hints as to how it may best be carried on and advising the teachers upon the same lines which Dr. Rowe followed, namely, less rote and more human interest.

Dr. Sanford Bell.

The next address, that of Dr. Sanford Bell, was more than a mere instructing talk; it was a lecture, delivered in a free and easy yet eloquent style, spoken in simple and direct terms that all could understand, yet beautiful in its English. "Applied Psychology" was Dr. Bell's subject, and so interesting did he make his lecture that not for one minute of the 46 consumed by him did the eyes of his audience leave his face. His speech was directed principally to the teachers, yet it applied to all who heard it, and the message which it carried was general. "The greatest duty of mankind," he said, "is to grow, to expand, to broaden. There is no stopping point," he argued. "Satisfaction in one's condition is dangerous; each development should lead to another. Only in this way can the race advance, each one growing continually and each one helping his neighbor to grow." This advice he made particularly strong to the teachers, and in his closing paragraph he expressed the whole message of his speech. "You also will grow if you will funnel every drop of your personality, the beauty, the pleasures and the joy—the joy, not the vitriol—of your lives into the minds of the children under your care."

Dr. Bell's speech was the last for the morning. Miss Anna Faherty was appointed secretary of the meeting by the superintendent and the delegates registered with her.

In the Afternoon.

The afternoon session was opened with a vocal solo by Miss Irene Cox. Miss Cox's singing was very good, and this with her piano solo of the morning session served to give the teachers and the other people who were present a high opinion of the ability of the new instructor in music in the Missoula schools. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. W. H. Bagby, after which Dr. Sarah Sprague was introduced for the second time, her subject being merely a continuation of her morning talk under the title of "Training Children to Study." She followed the method of teaching reading up through the higher grades, and again urged upon her hearers the necessity of bringing out the personality of their pupils. "Make their reading interesting and attractive," she said, "and make the child see the character of the place of which he is reading." She concluded her talk with a few words of important advice on the subject of school management and individual correction.

Dr. Bell Again.

Dr. Sanford Bell continued his talk on "Applied Psychology" as it affects the teacher, taking it up this time under the head of "Pedagogy." His talk really pertained, however, to literature and its effects upon the people of the day. "Aristotle wrote for me," he said; "Plato wrote for me; Jesus Christ wrote and talked for me; every genius that has ever lived has worked and labored solely for my benefit. That is the attitude which I have and that is the way you should look at it." Dr. Bell argued that in no better way can civilization be attained than through daily intercourse with the master minds of the ages. "Matthew Arnold has said, 'Culture is a knowledge of all that the great minds of the past have thought and done.' I add more to the phrase and make it, 'All that the great minds have thought, felt and done.' When the past may be communed with, with such ease, there is no excuse for neglecting the opportunity." Dr. Bell said, "and by observing this only can a race attain to its highest capabilities."

President Duniway Speaks.

Dr. Duniway concluded the afternoon program with a short but effective talk on the teaching of history. Dr. Duniway's long experience has taught him many lessons in regard to this subject. His talk, therefore, was the most instructive of the day, and more real delight was expressed by the teachers over his talk and what it taught them than over any other. "Feed the child's imagination," said the speaker, "for he was talking on the instruction of the pupil first attempting history. 'Do not tell him the details, but make the characters of history live and in that way show him the real cause of history, rather than make it an unnecessary and quickly forgotten collection of useless dates.'" This was Dr. Duniway's text, and on it he dwelt throughout his talk, concluding it with a series of practical examples of his method.

After Dr. Duniway had spoken a few short announcements were made and the meeting was adjourned until this morning at 9 o'clock.

VESSELS MAKE HASTE TO SECURE SHELTER

Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 20.—The wind this afternoon increased to hurricane speed and the weather bureau displayed the hurricane signals. All vessels in the bay hurried to shelter. Ocean-going steamships in the bay put out all possible extra anchors. Several barges loaded with lumber lost their cargoes and two were sunk near the western beach.

Residents of Wausley and Warrington and all along the bay shore west came up to this city late in the day, leaving their homes to the mercy of the elements. The tide is higher than known for many years. Reports are that the seas are breaking continually over Santa Rosa island, but all those who were at the summer hotel there have been brought to the city.

Congress' $500,000,000 Pork Barrel

Aren't you wondering what's at the bottom of all this confusing newspaper talk about the Pinchot-Ballinger controversy—the water-power trust—the conservation of natural resources, etc.?

It's the biggest question in the country today. Millions of dollars are being misspent through Congress' notorious "pork barrel" system of wasting our river and harbor appropriations.

Millions more being given away in water rights—strengthening the power of the trust that will control all other trusts.

You'll get the whole story—clear, dependable, understandable facts—by reading John L. Mathews' powerful series of articles, one of the most important of which appears in
