CAUGHT ON THE RUN ABOUT TOWN

A big black bear, lured to within rifle range of the city limits by anticipations of a savory meal at the slaughter house west of town, was killed yesterday afternoon by Charles Hackman and John Nichols. First the animal was discovered prowling about the place by the butcher in charge, and right there is where Bruin's troubles began. The butcher took down a shotgun from the slaughter house wall and took a pot shot at the visitor. The charge broke Ephraim's right foreleg and he limped off into the bushes, saying things in his own language that stizzled. In the brush the bear remained unharmed until the middle of the afternoon, when Hackman and Nichols happened by in a buggy. Both were armed with high-power rifles, and started to make systematic search for the wounded bear. Presently they found him and a single bullet put him away for good. The animal weighed 492 pounds, and the report of his killing drew many pilgrims to the slaughter house. A local photographer was among the visitors, and pictures of the dead bear will soon be on sale. The animal itself will be exposed to the public gaze today in the window of the Central market.

SCANLAN VISITS

Joe Scanlan, formerly of The Missoulian, and now getting out the Miles City Independent, was in Missoula yesterday afternoon for a look over his old haunts and a renewal of acquaintance with the town. "I don't come back every few months," said Mr. Scanlan, "I cannot find my way about the streets. Everywhere are new buildings; I don't believe there is a town in the west—certainly not in Montana—that's showing the progress that Missoula is. I think a lot of Missoula, and my visit here is proof of this affection. I am, on my way to Helena to attend a meeting of the executive committee of the State Press association, and when I found that I'd have to wait until tomorrow for the meeting I decided I'd rather come on to Missoula to spend the time."

WHAT'S THE USE?

The residents of University avenue have spent considerable money in making their street the handsomest in town. The street has been marked and boulevarded and long cement sidewalks stretch on either side of glistening curbs. Between these sidewalks and these curbs there is an incipient lawn. There grass seed is getting a hold and there the principal beauty of the aristocratic thoroughfare will be found by next year. That is, there will be a velvety lawn extended from one long block to another, providing the horses and cows of the neighborhood do not manage to trample the sprouting, struggling grass into complete subjection. A resident of the district expressed the situation as follows yesterday to a Missoulian man: "We are going to have the show street of the city pretty soon, providing we can keep the newly-laid ground from becoming the favorite early morning promenade of every cow and horse of the south side. I don't know where they come from, but every day or so I can see fresh evidences of animal activity. The other morning I was up early and saw a cow and calf walking serenely down the long strip of soft ground on one side of the street. I tried to chase them off, but my efforts were rewarded by seeing both rear off manly, still on the soft ground full of new-born grass, and finding great chunks of earth and sod from clumsy hoofs. What's the use?"

A SUNNY SUNDAY

The sun shone from dawn to dusk, and the breezes were soft and warm, and Mr. and Mrs. Everybody dressed up in their Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes and took the children out into the open. If Mr. and Mrs. Everybody owned an automobile, their buzz wagon took its place with the scores that whizzed out of Missoula in every direction; if Mr. and Mrs. Everybody didn't own even a family chariot, they walked, and with them toddled the children. The effect was the same, and yesterday's weather was commensurate; everybody's enjoyment was equal.

ATTEMPTED BANK ROBBERY.

Des Moines, Sept. 26.—The Farmers' Savings bank at Runnels was dynamited late today, but citizens succeeded in getting away the three handbags before they secured any money. A great hole was torn in the side of the bank building. From Runnels the men went to Adolph, where they dynamited the postoffice, securing some stamps and cash. A posse pursued the trio.

SUSTAINS BROKEN ARM.

A man by the name of G. H. Johnson, a laborer, was struck by No. 3 yesterday, just west of Garrison, and sustained a broken arm. He was picked up and brought to St. Patrick's hospital in this city and is getting along as well as could be expected.

WILLIAM FREITAG BURIED.

The funeral of William Freitag, the Lolo rancher who died last Friday, was held yesterday afternoon from Marsh's chapel. Rev. J. N. Maclean of the Presbyterian church officiated and interment was in the Missoula cemetery.

SALTESE WOMAN SAYS SHE IS NOT A VAGRANT

Miss "Midget" Weber, one of the four women arrested in Saltese last Saturday on warrants charging vagrancy, is very indignant about the affair and makes denial that she is a member of the idle class. She maintains that she is an actress, or professional woman, and has been ill at Saltese, where she has rented a small house. She has had roomers there for some time and states that she never was a vagrant, to use the milder term. She has children in Spokane and, for their sake, wishes to clear her name. She claims that her arrest and that of the other women is the result of spite work on the part of Constable Ed Hill.

The women will be arraigned this morning before Justice of the Peace Dyson. For the present they are at liberty under $50 bonds each.

IMPORTANT MATTERS FOR CITY COUNCIL

An adjourned meeting of the city council will be held this evening and some old business will be finished. The protest against accepting the report of the fire and water committee on the bids for fire hose will probably be considered. The chamber of commerce has addressed a letter to the mayor, which will be considered, as will the matter of the W. P. Smith plan. Besides these matters, there are innumerable petitions for arc lights, water main extensions, fire plugs, fences and so forth. It is likely that action will be taken on the committee report relating to the keeping of registers in hotels and lodging houses.

GERMAN LUTHERANS CONCLUDE MEETING

The German Lutherans concluded their conference yesterday and the delegates returned to their homes, after the most successful meeting in years. Two services were held during the day. Rev. A. Wachsmuth preached in the morning and Rev. J. Raub gave the evening sermon. Rev. J. Raub spoke to the communicants at the morning service. A vote of thanks was extended by the delegates to The Missoulian for its help during the convention.

RURALES DEPART.

Monterey, Mexico, Sept. 26.—A detachment of rurales left today on a special train over the National railway for Sabinas Hidalgo and Villadiego, this state. The two towns have been Reyes' strongholds for years, and it was at Sabinas Hidalgo that political riots occurred some time ago. It is thought that trouble is likely to occur at these points and the sending of the rurales is a precautionary measure.

ENTER CONTEST.

Rye, N. Y., Sept. 26.—A number of "old men" from all over the United States have entered for the seniors in the fifth annual golf tournament at the Aupawamus club, Rye, N. Y., next Wednesday and Thursday. The contestants must be at least 35 years old to be eligible. Several of the 110 men entered are close to 80.

CONFERENCE CLOSES IN MISSOULA

SWEDISH LUTHERAN PASTORS FINISH THE WORK OF THE MONTANA DISTRICT.

Yesterday, the last day of the conference of the Montana district of the Swedish Lutheran church, was a busy one, three meetings being held. The morning service was attended by an exceptionally large congregation. The instruction preliminary to holy communion was given by Rev. C. W. Vestell, who took as the text the psalm of David III:4-6—"The glory of the new covenant focussed in the Lord's supper, where the merciful God gives His only begotten Son as a ransom for the penitent and believing sinner." "Christ said: 'Unless ye eat my flesh and drink my blood, ye have not eternal life in you.'"

The sermon on the gospel was preached by Rev. C. T. Carlson, from John 5:19-21—"The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do." "This," he said, "presents the close union of Christ with the Father and this union consists of love. In this union rests the power and effectiveness of His church in the world. This appeals to some as weakness, but through this the power and wisdom of God unto salvation has been manifested. This lesson teaches us that the only way in which to know God is through Christ. We, too, will be strong and effective in our Christian life in the same degree that we do nothing in our own strength, but in the name and power of Jesus." At the morning service the church choir gave a fine program.

Afternoon.

In the afternoon the pastors addressed the Sunday school. The first speaker talked on the significance of the church year, and the second speaker's subject was "The Obedience That God Requires From the Children." Then followed a discourse on the angels, as being, also, the children's protectors in this life. The last speaker told of the honesty in life that will make the children friends among good people, saying that it pays to be honest and upright in all dealings with men and before God.

Evening.

In the evening the liturgical service was conducted by Rev. C. T. Carlson, the first sermon being preached by Rev. J. W. Nyvall on Phil. 1:20-26—"Our aim in life is to please God." He said: "We are here on earth for a special purpose and each of us has a blessed life in God to fill, not only in society and our daily walk, but a very important place in the church of Christ. The man or the woman who works and sacrifices for the temporal things of this life only is a selfish person, who does, in reality, fill no place in life, and certainly has no purpose or aim among men. Man's life here should develop into a higher and nobler spiritual one, that will at death materialize into eternal blessed life in bliss and glory in heaven. In Christ Jesus man is born anew in baptism, and this life must be developed in the trials and temptations in life, where we must glorify God in Christ—if we ever shall enter heaven with glory and honor."

Rev. A. P. Fair spoke on Acts 26—"It lacks a little that you, also, would make me a Christian," said Jesus to Paul, whose word was a word of judgment over this Jesus. In the history of the church there has been many instances where great men have been forced to state their position in the open in respect to the church of Christ, and then each one must either give up that special sin, whatever it be, and come out openly before the world or else continue in that sin, which will finally drag the person down to hell. A person cannot serve the devil and world and expect heaven to his reward. Now, you must come out decidedly and positively on the side of Christ, and in doing this you certainly shall lose nothing, but reap righteousness and glory finally. But doing this you will find a great and long struggle before you. Nevertheless, in this struggle you will develop that character and personality which is worth more than this world can give you. And now you, my hearers, have from childhood been instructed in the word of God, so you do know what God requires of you. In Christ you know that you have forgiveness of sin; therefore, show your faith in the right deeds of life. Let your life be a life of love and service unto the Lord, who has given His life as a ransom for you."
