WILL GROW NEW TREES IN COEUR D'ALENES

Supervisor Elers Koch of the Lolo national forest stated yesterday that work on the new forest nursery to be established three miles from DeBorgia is progressing at a fine rate. Under the direction of Mr. McDonald of the district office, a gang of five or six men is busy clearing the land, putting in ditches and getting the ground ready for plowing, so that the seeds may be planted in the spring. This nursery is to be a large one, the seed beds to cover about 12,000 square feet. When the seeds have grown to the dignity of seedlings, which will be in two or three years, they will be transplanted and will then cover an area of seven or eight acres. It is expected that by that time the capacity of the nursery will be doubled. The seeds to be planted will be those of the white pine, yellow pine and red fir. Next spring an expert of the forest service will be placed in permanent charge.

NEW TELEPHONE LINE IN COEUR D'ALENES

Another of the several telephone lines which the forest service is constructing in district No. 1 has just been completed. This one being in the Coeur d'Alene valley. It connects the ranger station at Petty creek with the Bell Telephone company's line at Lothrop. As soon as connections have been made with the Bell company's line, which will be within a short time, the line will be placed in commission. It is not planned to have any but forest service employees use the telephone on this line.

PERMITS ARE GRANTED FOR STORES IN PASS

In line with the commencement of active operations on the grade of the Clearwater Short Line railway through the Lolo pass, the forest service has granted three permits for the establishment of stores on national forest land in the pass. Those who took out the permits are the Lolo Valley Mercantile company, Perry Wible and J. P. Robinson. Besides this act, the forest service has granted the Clearwater Short Line company the right to establish three construction camps on government lands in the pass.

Act quickly and you'll save yourself a lot of suffering and trouble. If you have a sudden chill—or taken cold—if you have colic, cramp or diarrhoea, don't wait a minute. Take at once a teaspoonful of Perry Davis' Painkiller in half a glass of hot water or milk. You'll be safe and on the right road to quick recovery. Then you'll escape serious illness. But you ought to have this tried and proven remedy on hand for immediate use. Being prepared is half the battle when there's pain to subdue. New size bottles 25c, also in 50 cent sizes.

AN INCIDENT

"This visit of President Taft's," said J. S. Hindman, special agent of the Northern Pacific, "reminds me of an incident that occurred when President Roosevelt visited in Portland. It was in 1902. The president, surrounded by all sorts of secret men, was making a speech to a large gathering of people. I was in the crowd, attending to my part of watching for the safety of the president, and noticed a man walking towards the president's stand, who seemed to be carrying an open book in one hand and a bundle of some kind in the other. I stopped him and, as he looked suspicious, called the attention of an army officer to him. We took him into custody, quietly, and marched him to the outskirts of the crowd, where he was surrounded by a troop of cavalry and marched to the police station. There we searched him. The open book that he was carrying was the Bible, and the bundle consisted of two small bicycle pumps tied together by their nozzles. He was as crazy as a loon."

"EXCUSES" FURNISH HIGH SCHOOL OPENS SERMON THEME AGAIN TODAY

DR. H. O. BREEDEN PREACHES FIRE IN COAL BUNKERS IS EXTINGUISHED AND CLASSES WILL MEET AS USUAL.

The service at the Christian church last night was one of unusual interest and profit. A large and thoughtful audience listened with breathless interest to Dr. Breeden's impressive sermon, drawn from the text, "I Pray Thee, Have Me Excused." He said: "There are certain delusions which are cherished with wonderful tenacity by men, delusions that have been passed on from generation to generation as a legacy. Where can you find a man, be he a selfish miser, an abandoned wretch or a respectable sinner, who does not flatter himself that deep down in his heart he hates sin and loves righteousness? Indeed he would choose for himself a life of perfect purity and righteousness, but for him the prize is impossible. Nature, temperament, environment, all combine to put it beyond his reach. Indeed, he would be godly, but God will not let him. The blessedness of the kingdom of God is acknowledged and approved only for him, it is beyond reach. This was the conception of the man who said, 'Blessed is he who shall eat bread in the kingdom of God—a pious platituder, well sounding indeed, but without meaning or reality, a mere buzz which the Savior proceeded to prick, using a parable as his instrument. From the story the Master shows that men go contrary to nature, reason and sound sense in dealing with the kingdom of God. This parable indeed is a most unnatural story, differing as it does from all the other parables of Jesus in this regard. 'The parables all belong to the region of the imagination, but the meaning is never forced, the incidents never arbitrary. They are transcripts from real life. But in this parable something is described which would never take place in real life. You would never have heard of all the people invited to a feast with one consent making excuse. If they were invited to witness a surgical operation they might say, 'Excuse me, but I am so anxious to attend a feast, but I am very unwell.' This is the most marked feature of the truthfulness of this parable, because it brings out this fact that in religion, people will behave as they never behave in the ordinary affairs of life. People who in ordinary things act with sense and sincerity, in religion often act as if they had parted with their sense. In religion men are blind to their own blessedness. They know their eternal interests are involved, but they will not look in that direction. The reasons which prevented those who were invited from attending were not vicious. All were going to do things which were not only lawful, but honorable, and that in the right time and place would have been praiseworthy. Yet these detained them from the feast as effectually as if they had been the greatest criminals. Doubtless men are kept from coming even within hearing of the gospel, by the cords of their vices; but the things which keep most men and women from coming to Christ are not of this sort at all."

School again today. For two days now that portion of the younger generation which receives its daily instruction in the Missoula county high school has been allowed to remain away from the halls of learning, owing to the fact that the same halls containing some 100 tons of burning coal, which filled them with gas and smoke. The fire is out now, however, and the gases have been cleared away, so that the high school will open its doors as usual this morning. "Everything is in good shape again," said Principal Thomas yesterday, "and school will meet Wednesday morning."
