

SEEKING TO SECURE LOST MONEY

VICTIMS OF MABRAY FILE MORE SUITS IN EFFORT TO RE-COUP THEMSELVES.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Sept. 30.—Two more civil suits were filed in the federal court today to recover $25,589 said to have been lost as a result of alleged fake wrestling matches and prize fights promoted by J. C. Maybray, now under indictment charged with illegal use of the mails. The first case is of W. H. McGrath, a lumberman of Minneapolis, who sues for $10,000. The suit is directed against the First National bank; Ernest E. Hart, republican national committeeman for Iowa; Benjamin Marks, a local capitalist, whose name figures in the Maybray indictments; Maybray himself and P. G. Conners, formerly cashier of the First National bank and now connected with the City National of this city.

The other suit is brought against Benjamin Marks and Maybray by P. E. George of San Antonio, Tex. He charges that he lost his money in New Orleans, where, after losing $7,580 on a fake wrestling match, he was induced to return home and send $8,000 more, which he also lost in a similar manner.

SECRET TREATY.

Paris, Oct. 1.—A morning paper prints a letter stating that a secret treaty exists between England and Spain, by which Spain places her strongholds in Africa, commanding the strait of Gibraltar, at the disposition of England in case of war. This, it is said, is in return for England's support of Spain's program of African conquest.

VALUABLE PROPERTY INVOLVED IN SUIT

Spokane, Sept. 30.—Forty thousand acres of Yakima Indian land, valued at $500,000, and the validity of a treaty made by Isaac I. Stevens, first territorial governor of Washington, and Kamaichan, chief of the Yakima tribe, in 1855, are involved in an action by the United States against the Northern Pacific Railway company, now on trial before Judge Edward Whitson in the federal court here. The government seeks to prove that the boundary of the land held by the railroad is the main ridge of the Cascade range, as stated in the treaty, while the defense contends that the boundary, as interpreted when the patents were issued, is the watershed of the Klickitat and Tappan rivers. A survey of the tract was made in 1890 and the boundary established on the mountain ridge. This was followed by a resurvey in 1906, when it was reported to congress that an error had been made in interpreting the treaty by showing the boundary to be the watershed of the two streams already mentioned. If the government is sustained the company will have to relinquish its claim.

WANDERING INDIANS WILL TAKE FARMS

Spokane, Sept. 30.—The wanderings of the Kulspeil Indians have ended and the remnant of this tribe, which from days beyond traditions has occupied the fertile valley of the Fond d'Orville river in northern Washington, has decided to take farms like white men. Altoning Agent Clair Hunt will leave for the valley this week to assign a tract of 40 acres of good land or 80 acres of poorer ground to each Indian.

Sch-Ki-A-Ki, known to white men as Mosslaw, is chief of the tribe.

NEEDS ASSISTANCE OF WOMEN

SPEAKER DECLARES THAT UNCLE SAM MUST HAVE AID FROM GENTLER SEX.

Spokane, Sept. 30.—"Uncle Sam, crusty old bachelor that he is, will never be able to settle any of the important questions until he has a helpmate, or, in other words, until the country has its woman marching to the ball to help govern the country."

This was one of the sizzlers handed out by J. M. Glass of Pasadena, Cal., who opened the fall and winter course at the Young Men's Christian association of Spokane with an address on "The World Growing Better." Here is another gem that met a kindly reception at the hands of a large audience.

"With sap-headed politicians and mutton-headed lawyers the United States has failed to settle a single important question during the last 40 years. The American constituency has been half drunk, and not until we have a sober, moral people will anything worthy be accomplished."

Mr. Glass lambasted Uncle Sam unmercifully in the second round, declaring that his funny chin whiskers, ill-fitting garments, seedy hair and "don't-care-a-darn" expression made him the personification of bachelorhood, adding:

"Did you ever see a confirmed bachelor sew on a button or patch up a rip? It is a pitiful sight. Every time I see it I am forced to remark: 'That which a bachelor seweth, that also shall he rip.'"

The speaker then rained sledge-hammer blows on the "fashionable cafes," declaring they are ruining more American boys and girls than all the other evils, and said in closing:

"The progress made by women in the last half century is an evidence of the progress of the world, and when they have been given a hand in really settling the important questions the country will see a marvelous awakening. Men are wont to doubt women's ability to handle national affairs, men doubt women for political purposes, but if you can't trust your mothers, wives and sweethearts, whom can you trust?"

"Tariff, finance and immigration are the three questions which the half-drunk nation has battled with without result. In fact, these matters are in worse condition than ever. Wipe out the liquor traffic and you will be able to consider the problems of the country with sober brains. The fashionable cafes trace their origin directly to the liquor traffic, and that is one reason why I am fighting the liquor traffic."

NO CRITICISM.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Secretary Dickinson finds nothing to criticize in the action of General Grant in taking part in a temperance and law and order parade in Chicago, in his uniform as a major general of the United States, and says that, as to such movements, each soldier and officer has a right to determine the matter for himself.

SENTENCED TO PRISON.

Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—Sherman C. Eby, formerly mayor of Burkeville, Va., who was convicted recently of using the mails to extort money from the Pennsylvania Railroad company was today sentenced to 18 months in the government prison at Atlanta, Ga. Eby threatened to dynamite property of the Norfolk & Western railroad unless he was paid $45,000.

Los Angeles, Sept. 30.—Captain Thomas H. Broadhead of the local police force, who was recently acquitted of the charge of receiving a bribe and reinstated on the force, was tonight dismissed by the police commission for insubordination.

HE WILL REMEMBER STUDENTS

PRESIDENT IS GIVEN A GREETING BY PUPILS WHICH HE CANNOT FORGET.

Spokane, Sept. 30.—When the kindly greetings with state and civic officials, the elaborate street decorations, the parade of military and fraternal organizations, the formal speeches, the famous apple luncheon in the Hall of the Doves and the game dinner in the North Idaho forest reserve are forgotten there will linger in the memory of President Taft, who was the guest of the people of Spokane and the Indian Empire on September 28, an incident of his first official visit to the Pacific northwest.

Fourteen hundred students, representing in their nativity every state and territory in the Union, all the provinces in the Dominion of Canada and 10 foreign countries, gathered on the campus of the South Central high school in the morning and united in giving their yell at the close of President Taft's brief address to the war veterans. There was a sprinkling of the men who wore the gray nearly a half century ago, and they stood shoulder to shoulder with 200 old soldiers in blue and joined in the hearty cheers an "God bless you and keep you, our president."

The veterans' file and drum corps, composed of Sanford C. West, Thirtieth Illinois Infantry; L. G. Skinner, Thirty-first Ohio; C. F. Wightman, Twenty-sixth Illinois, and A. P. Fassett, First Maine heavy artillery, first played "Marching Thro' Georgia," and swung easily into a medley of old southern airs, reaching the climax with "The Star-Spangled Banner" in which the students and several thousand men and women joined with song and waving of flags. Twenty-four states were represented by the veterans.

President Taft was deeply moved by the demonstration, and when his voice could be heard he felicitated the defenders, also showing his appreciation by smiling and bowing to the students.

MAKES HIGH FLIGHT.

Potsdam, Sept. 30.—Orville Wright made a high flight in his aeroplane this afternoon. No official measurement was taken, but Wright estimates that he ascended about 700 feet.

GETS INTO TROUBLE OVER BAD CHECK

San Francisco, Sept. 30.—S. K. Fitzhugh, formerly an army captain, and lately a construction engineer for the Warren Improvement company, was arrested here today on the charge of having forged the name of George Chadwick of the firm of Chadwick & Sykes to a check for $800.

Sibyl Seers, a 16-year-old girl, who had attempted to pass the alleged forged check at the Crocker National bank, was instrumental in the arrest of Fitzhugh. She declared that she had met him at a matrimonial bureau in Oakland; that he had posed as a rich man, used the name of George Chadwick, courted her, promised to marry her and had given her the check to purchase a trousseau.

The prisoner said his arrest was a mistake and that he had never had any dealings with Miss Seers. He stated that he had a wife and two children in Alameda, Cal., and that he was formerly a captain in the Twenty-sixth United States Infantry.

DR. COOK IS GUEST AT ELABORATE FEAST

New York, Sept. 30.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook was a guest tonight of the Hudson-Fulton banquet of Staten Island, where he spoke briefly. He told the diners that, whatever else he might or might not have done, he had never mastered the art of after-dinner speaking. This single sentence, he said, would be his only contribution to the polar controversy during the evening. At the close of the banquet 509 Staten Islanders shook his hand.

IS TORN TO PIECES BY MADDENED LIONS

Paris, Sept. 30.—A young woman committed suicide in a frightful manner here tonight. Having had a quarrel with her sweetheart, who is a lion tamer in a theater, in which three lions are introduced, she went behind the scenes and leaped forward into the cage. The animals were wild with rage and with a few blows of their claws, tore her head and breast to pieces. The woman's screams and the roars of the animals caused a panic among the audience.

HIGH WIND CHECKS FLIGHTS

WRIGHT AND CURTISS ARE UNABLE TO MAKE THEIR SCHEDULED FLIGHTS.

New York, Sept. 30.—Resting upon their laurels of yesterday, Wilbur Wright and Glenn H. Curtiss did not venture any flight today in the face of the strong wind which blew continuously over New York harbor. Early Curtiss announced his intention of attempting a flight, but by the time he was ready to start the wind had freshened so that he changed his plans.

An hour or so later Wright reached his shed on Governor's Island and assisted by Taylor, his mechanic, tinkered for a long time with the various wires and fastenings of his machine. Shriver, Curtiss' mechanic, also thoroughly overhauled the latter's machine. The two aviators, New Yorkers have discovered, bestow as much attention on their aeroplanes as an entire stable of thoroughbred horses usually get. Not one insignificant screw is overlooked, and there is always an assistant watching to get in the shed do not handle things roughly.

HEARS REPORT ON MINING LAWS

geological survey and at the present time land classification work of several types is in progress, which has the definite purpose of aiding proposed legislation. For instance, phosphate land surveys are now being made to furnish authoritative information to be placed before congress for its use in legislation to promote the best development of these important deposits of mineral fertilizers. This effort to secure special legislation is inspired by no dog-in-the-manger spirit, and, whatever legislation is proposed, it surely will not be restrictive of development for the good of this nation, nor will it look toward the non-use of the earth's bounty, but, rather, toward the promotion of the mining and utilization of this valuable rock, on which the nation's agricultural life will later depend.

"As another line of land classification work in aid of legislation, I may cite the water-power investigations. With earlier records and surveys as a basis, the geological survey is now actively engaged in examining power sites to which the government still retains the title. Again the purpose is to aid in the enactment of legislation that may promote, and not hinder, development of these water-powers as rapidly as the industrial, transportation and other needs of the nation demand. Utilization of the undeveloped water powers on the public domain involves either government development or long-time leases of these power sites to strong financial interests, and, in the latter event, the law must provide for effective government control that will insure that the profit to the capital accomplishing the development cannot impose unjust burdens upon the users of the power thus generated, whether the utilization be for transportation, city lighting or motive power.

Withdrawals.

The recommendations made by the geological survey have already resulted in 46 temporary withdrawals by the secretary of the interior of power sites on 42 rivers in seven of the public-land states.

"A map showing the distribution of these power sites now temporarily withdrawn would show their relation to the great mining districts of this western country. The government control of power charges may mean the difference between the closing down of a mine and its operation at a profit.

"Classification of the public lands is highly essential to the development in the land laws of the important principle of relative worth. The earliest land laws, those of a century ago, provided for the reservation of mineral lands from disposal for other purposes, and the present coal-land laws well express this principle of relative worth by giving gold, silver and copper deposits priority over the coal, and coal, in turn, preference over agricultural values. These distinctions necessitate land classification based on adequate field examination, and, with classification data at hand the principle of relative worth can be further developed. Wherever the different values conflict the higher use should prevail.

"Land legislation of the future should strengthen this principle of relative worth where it already exists in law and introduce it further in all new enactments. In his report as commissioner of the general land office two years ago, the present secretary of the Feeding Farm Hands.

Every farmer's wife knows what tremendous appetites farm hands usually have; but while they eat well they work well, too.

Here's a good suggestion about feeding farm hands. Give them plenty of Quaker Oats. A big dish of Quaker Oats porridge with sugar and cream or milk is the greatest breakfast in the world for a man who needs vigor and strength for a long day's work. The man that eats Quaker Oats plentifully and often is the man who does good work without excessive fatigue. There is a sustaining quality in Quaker Oats not found in other foods, and for economy it is at the head of the list. Besides the regular size packages Quaker Oats is packed in large size family packages, with and without china. 20 interior expressed this same ideal in land legislation and administration, stating that the end to be sought is that the remainder of the public lands shall be devoted to their greatest beneficial use for the states as well as for the government at large."

Traer Speaks.

"There is a rapidly-growing belief that society as a whole should bear the burden of industrial injuries, and the great industrial and humane problem to be worked out is how to distribute the burden equitably," was the conclusion reached by G. W. Traer of Chicago in a speech on "Insurance and Mine Accidents" before the American Mining congress here today.

"A general practice of mine employees carrying collective accident insurance for themselves in adequate amounts would be highly commendable," he said, "because it would relieve a vast amount of misery and the distressing effects of abject poverty, as well as beget or increase a tendency to thrift. But that question should be settled voluntarily by employees themselves. Requiring an employer to furnish accident insurance for his employees would be merely an indirect form of compulsory compensation from employer to employee for all personal injuries."

The speaker said the tendency in recent years on the part of the courts and legislatures had been toward a broadening of the scope of employers' liabilities and a corresponding lessening of the responsibility of the employee.

Employers' liability insurance, said Mr. Traer, being merely a commercial venture, has accomplished nothing in an ethical sense, and the great problem which is nearing an acute stage was how to distribute the burden of industrial injuries so that it might fall upon the public.

DEEPLY IMPRESSED WITH IRRIGATION

Washington, Sept. 30.—Thoroughly pleased with the reclamation projects, members of the senate committee on irrigation, who have been on a tour of inspection in the northwestern states, today expressed themselves as impressed with the extent of the works.

After examining some of them, they said they were much in favor of a loan for a reclamation fund recommended in President Taft's Spokane speech. The party passed a month visiting the irrigation projects in Montana, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, South Dakota and Nebraska and then adjourned for a month, after which they will visit the big works in the southwestern part of the country.

At 4 o'clock today no more depositors were in line to withdraw their funds. The total amount paid out since the suspension is less than $200,000.
