

GAME IS FORFEITED BILLIARD INTEREST TO NEW YORK TO BE REVIVED

PHILADELPHIA PLAYERS OBJECT TO NEW UMPIRE'S RULINGS AND ARE FINED.

New York, Oct. 4.—The National league championship season in New York ended today under unfortunate conditions, Philadelphia forfeiting the second game to the locals. The first contest was won by the home team, 6 to 5, and in the second the score in the fourth inning was 1 to 1, when Picher Moren objected to a decision. Mullen, a new umpire, put Moren out of the game and also ejected Knabe and Doolan. The latter two refused to leave the field and Mullen awarded the game to New York, 9 to 0. The spectators sided with the referee and he was cheered when he left the field. Score: First game—R. H. E. Philadelphia 5 11 2 New York 6 8 0 Batteries—Corridon and Doolan; Whitse and Wilson.

Home Season Closed. Chicago, Oct. 4.—Chicago closed the local National league season today by defeating the champion Pittsburgh team 8 to 2. Score—R. H. E. Chicago 8 11 2 Pittsburgh 2 5 2 Batteries—Brown and Moran; Frock and Gibson.

Divide a Double Header. Brooklyn, Oct. 4.—Brooklyn and Boston divided a double header here today. Scores: First game—R. H. E. Boston 4 11 0 Brooklyn 2 4 1 Batteries—Curtis and Smith; Knetzer, McIntyre and Bergen. Second game—R. H. E. Boston 1 6 1 Brooklyn 3 12 0 Batteries—Mattern and Bairden; Dent and Marshall.

RUSH FOR SEATS. Pittsburgh, Oct. 4.—The national baseball commission having charge of the sale of seats for the world's series games here between Pittsburgh and Detroit announced tonight that the mail-order sale of reserved seats has been unprecedented. The 18,514 tickets for each game at Forbes field have been sold 48 hours after mail orders were received. An official of the Pittsburgh club announced that $100,000 worth of orders for seats for the first two games here have been returned with a notice that no reserved seats were left.

"OUTLAWS" ARE NO MORE. San Francisco, Oct. 4.—The California State Baseball league, known as an "outlaw" organization, came into the fold of organized baseball today, when Frank A. Herman, representing the directors, signed articles with Cal Ewing, president of the Pacific Coast league, whereby the state league becomes affiliated with the national organization, with a class "B" rating. According to the plans, San Francisco, Stockton, Oakland, Sacramento, Fresno and one other city, yet to be selected, will be in the league next year.

FIGHT IS POSTPONED. San Francisco, Oct. 4.—The Ketchikan fight, which was to have taken place October 12, was postponed tonight until October 16, at the urgent request of Promoter Jimmy Coffroth. The promoter declares that he believes it better to change the date for business reasons, Saturday being a better day than Tuesday to draw a crowd. All conditions governing the match are unchanged in the new articles.

NEW CYCLING RECORD. Berlin, Oct. 4.—Henry Guindard, the Swiss cyclist, won the cycling championship of Europe yesterday at Stuttgart. He covered 100 kilometers (62.1 miles) in one hour, 18 minutes, 41.25 seconds. Guindard's time is said to be a world's record.

THE FIRST VICTIM. Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 4.—Robert Milligan, halfback of the Pottsville high school football team, is dying as the result of injuries received in a football game at Shamokin Saturday afternoon. He received a kick in the abdomen.

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

When the blood becomes infected with the virus of Contagious Blood Poison, the symptoms are soon manifested. The mouth and throat ulcerate, copper-colored spots appear, a red rash breaks out, the hair begins to come out, and usually sores and ulcers show themselves on different parts of the body. At the first sign of the disease S.S.S. should be taken, for the trouble is too powerful and dangerous to trifle with. If allowed to run on the tendency is to work down and attack the bones and nerves, and sometimes it makes a complete physical wreck of the sufferer. The disease can make no such headway if S.S.S. is commenced and used according to directions; its progress can be stopped, the poison removed, and health preserved. S.S.S. goes into the blood and removes the insidious virus, cleanses the circulation and makes a complete and permanent cure by driving out the cause. S.S.S. quickly takes effect on the blood, and gradually the symptoms disappear, the health is improved, the skin cleared of all spots, sores and blemishes, and when S.S.S. has thoroughly purified the circulation no trace of the disease is left. S.S.S., a purely vegetable remedy, cures Contagious Blood Poison because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers, tested and proven for more than forty years. Home treatment book and any medical advice free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Hero Weds His Nurse

August E. F. Chamot and His Wife, formerly Miss Dellar, Whom He Married on Deathbed.

San Francisco, Oct. 4.—Telegraphing to his relatives that he was on his deathbed, and asking that they should pay his funeral expenses, August E. F. Chamot, the hero of the boxing uprising, once wealthy and influential trader in Pekin and other places in the Orient, connoisseur, bon vivant and clubman, who is mortally ill, has laid himself down to die in a little country shack in Larkspur. Here the man of bon mots, hero of a thousand adventures and dare-devil deeds; the man who at imminent personal risk managed by indomitable will, pluck and perseverance, to secure for 78 days provisions for 4,200 besieged men and women and children starving within the walls of Pekin, while myriads of hate-drunk yellow foes sought their lives, is slowly awaiting his end in poverty, though but a few years ago, as reward for his gallantry at Pekin, he was in possession of a princely fortune. One out of all his relatives, friends and companions has remained true and stays with him to soften the sufferings of his dying hours. She is Betsy Dellar, the former beautiful New York pianist, who is alleged to have been the cause of the divorce of Chamot and Annie McCarthy, his former wife. Chamot married Miss Dellar last week, the ceremony being arranged by Jean Escalle, a countryman and neighbor of the dying man, and performed by Justice of the Peace W. P. Magee of San Rafael. Though the cottage in which he is slowly dying is dimly and unattractive, on the walls beside the bed hangs the French decoration of the Legion of Honor, an exquisite cameo likeness of Pope Leo XIII, and the insignia of a Knight of the Rising Sun of Japan. These are about reminders of a few of the honors conferred upon him for his great work during the boxer trouble in China. Chamot's position as a hotelkeeper in Pekin had much to do with the effectiveness of the work he performed in succoring the starving Europeans who were being besieged by the boxers. The hotel was located just behind the British legation, and when the members of the foreign settlement sought refuge there Chamot converted the hostelry into a fort. Every device was used to make it impregnable against the attacks of the Chinese, and when that was done Chamot further undertook to obtain food for all within the legation walls. Though his hotel was being riddled with boxer bullets, Chamot, with his courageous wife, whom he married in 1887 as Annie McCarthy, daughter of Eugene McCarthy, a well-known San Francisco real estate man, started out in search of the provisions he had promised to obtain. To get the much-needed food he and his wife had to drive miles through the streets, and daily as they approached the legation walls the hostile Chinese would pour a hail of bullets from their blunderbusses at the cart. The pluck of Mrs. Chamot, who fired from the rear of the cart at every yellow foe who became visible, helped much to do with spilling the aim of the boxers and securing their own safe passage. These foraging expeditions lasted nearly three months, and were not discontinued until the legation had been relieved on the triumphant entry of the allied forces into the forbidden city. When order was restored the splendid work of the Chamots was at once recognized and, with meteoric rapidity, news of their daring traveled far and wide. The French government was the first to recognize Chamot for his brilliant work, obtaining from the Chinese government an indemnity of $200,000 for damages done to his hotel. He received a gift of $450,000 from the allied powers as recognition of his prowess, and was made a chevalier by the Italian government, received the cross of the Legion of Honor from the French government, and was personally decorated by the emperor of Japan with the insignia of a Knight of the Rising Sun. Having had enough of the allurements of the east for the time being, Chamot, with his wife, made a tour of the world, being received with notable marks of distinction in every country which they visited. Later, tiring of his travels, Chamot, like all those who have breathed the California atmosphere, returned here and, invested largely in real estate, he built a palatial residence at Inverness, where he kept open house and dispensed hospitality with a lavish hand. He also built the famous hotel in San Francisco, but it, along with his other worldly possessions, was consumed in the fire. Destitute of money, Chamot was compelled to dispose, in New York, of his valuable collection of curios at a sum far below their true value. After doing so his health broke down and he was forced to engage a nurse, who, as it happened, chanced to be the fascinating Miss Dellar. Chamot, with his wife and nurse, returned to San Francisco, and events which led up to his divorce soon followed. Chamot married Miss Dellar, his first wife being wed on June 1 to Gus Remstrom of the well-known auto firm of Frank O. Remstrom of 424 Stanyan street. Chamot, who is 42 years of age, was born in Lusanne, Switzerland, and went to China when he was but 16 years of age. It was through the aid of Father Pavler, a Catholic priest, that he built his hotel behind the British legation. Chamot prospered greatly in China and became a large dealer in silks. After he had finished his work of provisioning the legations in China during the boxer trouble, Lieutenant Eugene Miss Dellar, Chamot, with his wife and nurse, returned to San Francisco, and events which led up to his divorce soon followed. Chamot married Miss Dellar, his first wife being wed on June 1 to Gus Remstrom of the well-known auto firm of Frank O. Remstrom of 424 Stanyan street.

DRY FARMING BOOK IS OUT

ADVANCE NOTICE OF NATIONAL CONGRESS IS ISSUED IN BILLINGS.

Billings, Mont., Oct. 4.—The first copies of the advance book of the Fourth Dry Farming congress, issued by authority of the Montana board of control, are off the press. It is printed on fine book paper in two colors, filled with clear illustrations and a generous quantity of clean-cut type throughout its 129 pages. It is substantially bound and the cover is brilliantly and pertinently illustrated. This book, which is devoted to Montana's resources and opportunities and the Dry Farming congress, is a handsome advance souvenir of the congress which will meet in this city the last week in October. It is copiously illustrated with photographs of the principal officers of the congress and board of control and many scenes on the dry-land farms and in cities of Montana. Among the interesting articles in the book is one by former United States Senator Darius Gideon of Great Falls on "The Future of Montana." Professor Fred S. Cooley, superintendent of Montana farmers' institutes, contributed an article on "Agricultural Development in Montana," which describes the wonderful growth of communities in the newly-settled portions of the state. Among other strong articles are "Beets on Dry Farms," by Hans Mendelssohn, chemist at the Billings sugar factory; "Dry Farming in Montana," by Professor F. B. Linfield, agriculturist at the Montana Agricultural college; "Climate in Montana," by R. F. Young, section director of the United States weather bureau, and "Dry Farming and Its Value in the Development of the West," by W. M. Jardine, agronomist of the United States department of agriculture. There are also descriptive articles on Billings, the convention city; Montana, transportation in Montana, irrigation in Montana, and write-ups of Fergus, Lewis and Clark, Cascade, Gallatin, Valley, Carbon, Sweet Grass, Custer, Park and Dawson counties. This book will go to all the members of the Dry Farming congress throughout the world and to thousands of farmers in western states and Canada, and to prospective homeseekers and investors in all parts of the country.
