

MILL IS NOW READY FOR OATMEAL

HAMILTON FLOUR COMPANY'S PLANT IS SOON TO OPEN NEW DEPARTMENT.

Hamilton, Oct. 7.—The Hamilton Flour Mill company has about completed the installation of the new machinery for the manufacture of oatmeal, and upon the arrival of the representative of the concern furnishing the machinery, the big mill will commence the manufacture of "Ravalli" and "Hamilton" oats.

The machinery is furnished by the Nordyke & Mazon company of Indianapolis, Ind., and consists of hullers, cleaners, flaking rolls, steaming machines and roasters, as well as the other necessary small machinery to make a mill of this sort complete.

After the oats pass over the hulling stones over 50 separations are made, thus insuring absolute purity and guaranteeing that all foreign substances will be removed before the finished product is offered to the consuming public.

From the manager of the mill, W. C. Harlan, it is learned that the mill will have a capacity of 50 barrels of oatmeal per day, which he says may be increased to 100 barrels by adding another roaster, which will be done as soon as the demand warrants. Mr. Harlan also states that it will require about 2,000 bushels of oats to make a car load of the finished product.

On the north end of the mill there will be erected a brick building, in which will be installed the roasting machine, which is made by the Prims company of Battle Creek, Mich., and a 20-horse-power boiler, which will furnish steam for the steaming machinery and heat the big mill.

From the hulls will be made a dairy food. The parched hulls, which will contain valuable medicinal property, will be mixed with either corn or barley.

All of the machinery is of the very latest models and makes, many of the machines bearing patent dates of 1908 and 1909. Upon the arrival of the representative of the Nordyke & Mazon company, the machinery will be given a thorough test and then the milling of oatmeal in the Bitter Root valley will be a reality. The "Ravalli" oats will be put up in pasteboard packages and the "Hamilton" oats will be put in cloth sacks.

In addition to the machinery mentioned above, a new weighing apparatus has been installed. It consists of a "no kick" set of scales and automatic unloading device. The gross weight is determined, the wagon box is raised and the grain deposited in a chute in the rear and the grain is then conveyed to the cleaning machinery and again weighed on an automatic scale and the screenings and sacks are returned to the wagon, all in the short space of four minutes. It is contended that these scales will do away with there being any possible doubt that the farmers are not getting full weight for their grain. It is all done in practically full view of the farmers hauling in the grain to the milling company. These improvements represent the expenditure of a large sum of money and will increase the output of the mill to a marked degree.

INDIGESTION WILL VANISH

AND OTHER STOMACH MISERY OTHER STOMACH MISERY GOES IN FIVE MINUTES.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth, and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case someone else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases; then you will understand why dyspepsia trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery. Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

Arrangements have been perfected for the restoration of the union label to all the factories in Danbury, Conn., as well as in Bethel and New Milford, from which the label was taken, at the time of the inauguration of the great strike in the hatting industry last January. This action is a step toward the final adjustment between the manufacturers and the union.

CREW OF ROOSEVELT PEOPLE HAVE FAITH IN TELEGRAMS

ASHORE

MEN WHO WENT NORTH WITH COMMANDER ARE TAKEN FOR AN AUTOMOBILE RIDE.

New York, Oct. 7.—Under the guidance of Archer M. Huntington, president of the American Geographical society, the crew of Commander Peary's Arctic steamer Roosevelt came ashore early today and were whisked about town in automobiles, a vehicle which few had ever tried. There were 19 men from the Roosevelt in the party, including Mat Henson, the colored man who shared with Peary the honors of the dash to the pole.

After a visit to the museum of natural history they were taken to the botanical gardens, the zoo in the Bronx park and the aquarium. At the zoological garden they discovered a real live polar bear and spent much time studying the old fellow at closer range than would have been pleasant in the north. From here a part of the crew returned to the Roosevelt, while the others remained ashore to see the artificial midnight sun of Broadway. The crew will disband tomorrow.

At the American Museum of Natural History tomorrow the sledge which Commander Peary used in the dash to the pole and other exhibits of the journey will be placed on exhibition. An entire wing of the museum has been turned into a "Peary section" and more than 600 specimens are shown.

CAUSES CONSUMPTION.

If you have catarrh, don't fool yourself into the belief that it is a harmless disease.

At least one-half of the consumption in the world can be traced to catarrh. Here are some symptoms of catarrh; if you have any of them, get rid of them while there is yet time:

- Is your throat raw?
- Do you sneeze often?
- Is your breath foul?
- Are your eyes watery?
- Do you take cold easily?
- Is your nose stopped up?
- Do you have to spit often?
- Do crists form in your nose?
- Do you blow your nose a great deal?
- Are you losing your sense of smell?
- Does your mouth taste bad mornings?
- Do you have to clear your throat on rising?
- Do you have a discharge from the nose?

Does mucous drop in back of throat? Hyonol is guaranteed to cure catarrh, sore throat, coughs, colds, croup and bronchitis or money back. Just breathe it in. Complete outfit, including hard rubber inhaler, $1, extra bottle, 50 cents. Leading druggists everywhere sell Hyonol. Geo. Freisheimer guarantees it.

The city campaign in Philadelphia for the district attorneyship and two minor offices is in full swing, with a strong independent movement against the dominant republican organization. There is every prospect that the contest will be as bitter as that four years ago, when the republican organization was defeated by 48,000 majority.

PEOPLE HAVE FAITH IN TELEGRAMS

MANY FRAUDS ARE MADE POSSIBLE BY BELIEF IN LITTLE YELLOW SLIPS.

Ninety-nine men out of a hundred will accept as gospel truth the contents of a telegram when it comes from the hands of a messenger boy. They buy and sell, pay out large sums of money, start on long journeys and do countless other things upon the suggestion of the little yellow or white paper slips with their condensed messages without in the least questioning their authenticity. This is an interesting fact, upon which hinges an enormous amount of the country's business, and it is also a fact upon which hinge some of the cleverest and boldest frauds in criminal records.

Smooth Swindle.

A lot of nerve and a little telegram was a combination that made possible a smooth swindle on a Des Moines bank, a well dressed man, apparently a business man of large affairs, called at the paying teller's window with a draft or check on an Omaha bank and asked if the Omaha bank had telegraphed notice that the draft was good. He got "no" for an answer, and then informed the teller that such a telegram might be expected at any moment. Soon afterward the telegram arrived, delivered by a messenger boy, appearing to have come from the Omaha bank, and authorizing the Des Moines bank to pay the draft. When the stranger appeared again he was given the $500. When the Des Moines bank people took up the matter by wire with the Omaha bank they found that the latter institution had not sent the telegram, and then it was discovered that the whole transaction was a fraud.

But how could the swindlers send a telegram from Omaha bearing the bank's name. They did it in this manner: An accomplice of the Des Moines man stopped to a telephone booth in Omaha and called the telegraph office. "This is the ——— bank," he said. "Send a messenger at once to get a telegram for Des Moines." Then this accomplice hurried to the entrance of the Omaha bank to meet the messenger, and there hand him the message for Des Moines. The telegraph company had no reason to believe otherwise than that the bank had actually signed the message, and it transmitted it. The Des Moines bank also accepted the telegram as genuine because it bore every mark of genuineness, and it paid out the money to the swindlers, who turned their fraud so as to get out of the reach of the law on trains that left immediately after their game had been worked.

Enlarged Graft.

In two smaller western towns a similar game was worked, only for seven or eight times the amount. An alleged horse buyer appeared in one of the towns and made purchase of a carload of fine animals to be delivered and paid for at a later date, preceding which he made the acquaintance of the officers of one of the banks. On the day fixed for the delivery of the horses the alleged buyer deposited in the bank a draft for a large amount drawn on a bank in another town a hundred miles away. At the same time the bank received a telegram purporting to come from the distant bank authorizing the payment of the draft. The bank believed the telegram, paid out the money and then discovered that the telegram was fraudulent. It had not been sent by the second bank, but by a confederate of the alleged horse buyer. Later developments disclosed that this accomplice had called up the telegraph office in the distant town by telephone. "This is ———, cashier of the ——— bank," he said. "Please send this telegram for me." Then he gave the message authorizing the first bank to pay the bogus draft, and this message the telegraph company sent without suspecting that it was fraudulent.

Some years ago an eastern man was induced to invest in worthless mining stock on the basis of a fraudulent telegram purporting to come from an expert he had sent out to investigate the mining property, but which was in reality sent in a manner similar to the above by a confederate. This eastern man's faith in telegrams cost him something more than $10,000.

The story of a fraud with an amusing side comes from across the water, with a London man of rather convivial habits as the victim. This man was forgetful and used to leave at home his office and safe keys. He also had a practice of leaving the city surreptitiously for a day now and then for a convivial time with friends, all unknown to his wife. One day this business man went on one of his periodical jaunts, and a rogue who knew his habits ventured to send this telegram to his wife: "Please send my keys, Love, Freddy." In due course of time the keys were delivered at the office door, and the rogue was there to receive them. He ransacked the whole office at his leisure, safe and all. Late that night the business man came home and was teased by his wife for his forgetfulness. This was news to him, but he kept his counsel. The next morning he discovered his office had been robbed.—E. K. Mann in Pittsburgh Dispatch.

PLANS TO EXHIBIT SOME RARE ANIMALS

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 7.—Great interest has been created among south-west Texas sheepraisers by the announcement that Dr. C. C. Young, "the man with the Karakule sheep," will exhibit his flock of Bokharans at the coming international fair. This is easily understood when it is remembered that he is the only flock to be found outside of Russia, or better, the deserts east of the Caspian sea, where these animals have their native habitat.

Dr. Young in a recent interview stated that the semi-arid parts of Texas and other parts of the United States present conditions very similar to those of the Bokharan desert, and for this reason the sheep ought to do well here. He intends to acquire a large tract of land in the hills west of this city and there will breed his sheep, both pure and crossed with Texas stock. While the meat of the pure Bokharan is excellent by no other mutton in the world, the wool of this animal is a little too coarse to be used for anything but the making of carpets. As a matter of fact, most of the famous oriental rugs are made from its hair. Interbreeding the Karakule has resulted, Dr. Young says, in the production of the four best breeds of sheep in the world as far as commercial value and meat is concerned. These are the Persian Broadtail, the Kimmor, the Astrakhan and the Afghan sheep. The common scrub sheep of Persia bred to the Karakule produced the first, the sheep of the Grimos and Karakules the second, the sheep from the vicinity of Astrakhan and the Karakules the third, and the sheep of the interior of Asia crossed with the Karakule bred the famous Afghan sheep, producing the finest wool now known commercially. All of these provide excellent furs, known best to us as Astrakhan and Persian lamb.

Alpaca deposits on the tail and buttock of the Karakule enable it to go for many days without food or water, and for this reason vast regions in the United States will be brought to profitable use with the introduction of the Karakule Bokharan. The wool of the animal grows remarkably quick and three shearings a year are necessary. The texture of its wool is long, wavy, glossy and coarse, a material needed by the carpet weaver. To get the elegant effect of Russian and Bokharan rug silk is used in their manufacture in small quantities. The raising of the sheep in this country would, no doubt, furnish an impetus to carpet weaving in the United States.

The Karakule is very prolific in reproduction and imparts this quality to a very great degree in its crosses. Dr. Young started from Russia with 15 of them, and after the most adverse conditions in transportation, making the long trip an ordeal for the animals, they in a very short time increased to 25 on his ranch near Wichita Falls, Tex.

HUTCHINSON CHOSEN TO HEAD ORGANIZATION

Spokane, Oct. 7.—State Senator Richard A. Hutchinson, one of the most prominent members of the legislature and owner of more farm land than any other man in the state, has been chosen to be president of the new state suffrage society to be organized here tomorrow by the "Progressive" faction of the equal rights element.

"I am in hopes they will select someone else," confessed Senator Hutchinson today, "but am at their disposal if I can do anything to aid the suffrage cause."

Engineers are figuring on piercing Mont Blanc for a double track electric railroad. The tunnel would be eight miles long, and would shorten the distance between Paris and Genoa over 20 miles.

A plan for world-wide weather reports by wireless, to increase the information available for forecasters, will be discussed at an international meeting of meteorologists in London next month.

Try This in November.

Thousands upon thousands of families who have not been regular eaters of Quaker Oats will begin on the first of November and eat Quaker Oats once or twice every day for thirty days of this month; the result in good health and more strength and vigor will mean that every other month in the year will find them doing the same thing.

Try it! Serve Quaker Oats plentifully and frequently for the thirty days of November and leave off a corresponding amount of meat and greasy foods. You'll get more health, more vigor and strength than you ever got in thirty days of any other kind of eating.

While you are trying this see that the children get a full share. Quaker Oats is packed in regular size packages and large size family packages.
