

CONVERSATION ANENT THE BRIDGE

OPEN-AIR VAUDEVILLE NEARS END—SMITH AND JONES GIVE OPINIONS.

For more than a year Missoula has enjoyed an open-air vaudeville of merit. For a twelvemonth the Higgins avenue bridge has afforded steady amusement for hundreds day by day and now, when the program is nearing its end, the audiences are growing. Yesterday was an ideal day for amateur bridge inspection work and the inspectors were there in strong numbers. Everything is approval now; the amateurs have at last conceded that the professionals understand what they are doing and criticism is strikingly rare—just now. A few months ago it was different. Nine out of every 10 that lined the temporary bridge knew that the piers were not being built in the proper manner, that the concrete was not mixed just right and that the whole structure would be a dismal failure. Most of these men were rather surprised when the builders went right on and the piers didn't collapse or crumble before the current of the Missoula river, but turned with great joy to the steel work, when the bridge assumed that stage. Some way or other, the steel men kept on putting up steel and bolting great girders together and the rivets held, and the traveling crane didn't topple over into the river and all of the men who fell off were rescued and—oh, but it was hard on the sideline experts.

Finally, a straight line of steel stretched entirely across the two channels of the river and there was a great revulsion of sentiment and the spectator-engineers culled their well-worked vocabularies for words of praise and expressions of commendation. A blind man might have "watched" the progress of the bridge by listening to the comment of the self-appointed supervisors. He would have heard opinion change from bitter condemnation to hearty praise, through a gamut of half-hearted criticism; to take warm commendation. Yesterday, had he been listening at the uptown end of the new passageway, he would have heard this, which is word for word the conversation of two citizens, whose minds are naturally full of the three greatest things in the world right now, the Higgins avenue bridge, the outcome of the final game of the world's championship series and the result of the Johnson-Ketchel fight.

Jones: "Take it from me, there's some class to this bridge, but I think Pittsburg will win that game Saturday, all right."

Smith: "You bet it is, but where do you figure Detroit is going to be all the time? Why, the Tigers 'll eat the Pirates up. It's a cinch. See, they've got the concrete mixer on wheels and are going to run it right out onto the bridge. Believe me, these bridge people are all to the good. Now, we'll be walking across there in a couple of weeks, looks like to me."

Jones: "We will, but Detroit isn't going to walk over Pittsburg to any great extent tomorrow. Just you look at Hans Wagner; all he did the other day was to get four hits and steal four bases. Show me where Ty Cobb ever got away with anything like that. Why, yesterday he played all over the field and never made an error. Then there's Leach; he's there, believe me, and—What's that? Schmidt? That Dutch bonhead doesn't know he's in the game half the time. He lost last year for Detroit by—"

Smith: "What do you know about it, anyway? I suppose you've bet four bits on Pittsburg and are talking to keep up your courage and— Say, did you notice that they're putting up the inside railing posts there? That's the system! There won't any horses or automobiles get over that. They're going to leave this track down for the street cars, I suppose, but there'll be" enough room for everybody, I guess. Now, who's going to win the fight?"

Jones: "Aw, Johnson's got a cinch. You and me'll stall over to the bulletin board tomorrow afternoon and see 'Eirth round—Johnson rushes Ketchel to the ropes; Johnson hands Ketchel a wallop on the jaw and then there'll be a flash; Johnson wins in the seventh and we'll be wondering again whether Jeffries will come back. Don't talk to me about Ketchel."

Smith: "Oh, I don't know. Johnson can't hit hard enough to dent a pane of glass. Ketchel has a sleep in either mitt and the big black is liable to walk into something, don't you know, in spite of his speed and cleverness. My money says that Ketchel goes to whole route with him, if he doesn't win and—"

Right here Smith noticed something. All the time he had been leaning against the barrel that contains the water used for the concrete mixer and his coat tails had been immersed for half an hour. He was halfway angry at Jones, anyway, and so the conversation had a sulphuric ending, Smith venting his rage on the barrel as the most convenient scapegoat.

NOTES OF WALLACE

Special Correspondence.

Wallace, Oct. 15.—While attending a meeting of a church society this afternoon Mrs. N. R. Penny, the aged wife of a Wallace grocer, was stricken with apoplexy and was unconscious for 19 hours. Her life is despaired of. Worried because of financial trouble, her husband was experiencing is believed to have been the cause.

Marcus Dee Needham of Mullan, a well-known business man, has filed suit for divorce from his wife, Violet A. Needham, charging that she deserted him a year after his marriage.

"Sergeant" Lewis, a prominent mining man, has returned from an extensive trip through Nevada and claims that the Coeur d'Alene employs more miners than the whole state of Nevada. He says Virginia City, where the old Comstock is located, is the liveliest camp in the state.

While the Coeur d'Alene are credited with making nothing but ore, yet Mrs. S. A. Gordan, who owns a ranch near Rose Lake, has proven that it is something in the way of a fruit country. In her fruit orchard she has raised this season apples weighing a pound and a half.

When the new time table on the Northern Pacific goes into effect a week from Sunday, the time of arrival and departure of every passenger train on the system in the Coeur d'Alene will be changed, with the exception of the time of the departure of the passenger train for Missoula.

The sheriff was called to the Silver Mountain mining property today to settle a contest between two men, both of whom claimed to be the superintendent of the property. Sam Tennant, president of the Silver Mountain company and Fred Frazer, an employee, were the competitors for the honor. Tennant recently went to the Palouse country to place stock and during his absence some of the directors placed Frazer in charge. When Tennant came home he fired Frazer who retaliated in kind. The sheriff brought both men to town and told them to get warrants for each other, but the grounds of complaint seemed so trivial that the two compromised and returned to work.

Harold and Esther Berquist, aged 22 years, are the names of twins who arrived in Wallace today from Vermeland, Sweden, to make their home in this country. They are brother and sister of Mrs. J. C. Edgren wife of the manager of the Wallace laundry.

MR. JOLLY OF JOLIET IS COMING

THIRD NUMBER OF UNIVERSITY LECTURE COURSE WILL BE HUMOROUS LECTURE.

The third number of the university lecture course will be given in Harmonis theater, Monday evening, November 1. Franklin Pierce Jolly, the Jolly entertainer from Joliet, will speak on the subject, "The Jolly Side of Life." His lecture-entertainments are a resistless medley of chaste fun, solid common sense, classic beauty, all tinged with true philosophy and religion of life, mingled with humorous recitations, impersonations and unsurpassed word paintings. He is both a lecturer and entertainer. There is not a dry moment. Almost every minute has a good laugh. The effect of the whole evening is to thrill the people with wholesome and inspiring conceptions of life. He has lectured in every state and territory in the United States and throughout Canada. He never faces an audience that he does not capture. People who have heard him from the lecture platform have demanded to hear him again and again because of his power to instruct, entertain and inspire his audience. He is great. He is a success.

Robert McIntyre, the well-known clergyman and platform speaker from Los Angeles, says:

"I heard F. P. Jolly in our church, where he spoke to a large audience. He has great power as a word painter. In fact, his gift is wonderful in dramatic intensity and cumulative force. He also has humor, pathos and mimicry. At the back of this lies culture and sane manhood. This combination will carry him far. I charge all of my friends to hear him."

Tickets for the course, including admission to the address by Senator La Follette next Monday evening, may be had at Harmonis theater and at Price's news stand for $2. There are seven numbers yet to be given. Count the cost of the seven evenings of pleasure and profit and you will see how cheap they are. Secure tickets and push the good cause along.

UNCLE SAM DESIRES MORE RANGERS

EXAMINATIONS ARE ANNOUNCED FOR GOVERNMENT FOREST SERVICE POSITIONS.

Uncle Sam makes a call for men with vigorous minds in vigorous bodies to become forest rangers. The United States civil service commission will hold an examination for this position at every national forest headquarters in the states of Idaho, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, and parts of South Dakota and Washington, included in this district, on Monday and Tuesday, October 25 and 26. The examination will be along thoroughly practical lines and will consist of questions regarding land surveying, estimating and scaling timber, the land laws, mining and the livestock business, supplemented by a field test to show the applicant's fitness to perform the actual work of a ranger. Rangers must be between 21 and 40 years of age at the time of taking the examination, able-bodied and capable of performing hard manual work. Thorough familiarity with the region in which employment is sought is essential, together with actual experience in the kinds of work required of forest officers.

The forest service desires to maintain the highest possible standard of efficiency and the degree of advancement of competent men in the service is governed entirely by their capacity. The initial salary is $900, with the beginner who starts as an assistant forest ranger. Through good work a ranger can rise to the forest ranger with a maximum salary of $1,500 to $1,550. The next step in promotion is to the position of deputy supervisor on a national forest. Rangers who show competency in particular lines of work, such as claims, examinations and marking and scaling timber are advanced and paid according to the importance of the work in which they are engaged.

The following is a list of the places in this national forest district at which this examination will be held. Requests for application blanks and further information should be made to the civil service commission at Washington, D. C., or to forest supervisors.

Spokane, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Cora W. Carpenter, M. D., who is practicing her profession in Persia, writes from Tabriz to her father, John A. White, a resident of Spokane, that she has been advised of her assignment to Constantinople, where she will work independently in the harems, making her the first white woman physician to practice there. She says that a Mohammedan woman will die before placing herself in the hands of a man physician, adding that hundreds are dying every year. Mrs. Carpenter writes also that "the need of a woman physician is urgent at either place, Tabriz and Constantinople," adding: "One of the men at Tabriz who can speak a little English, said, 'Entire city welcomes you,' which makes it rather pathetic to leave."

HEINZE WINS FIGHT FOR CONTROL

IS SUCCESSFUL IN SECURING UPPER HAND IN DAVIS-DALY COPPER COMPANY.

Special to The Daily Missoulian.

Butte, Oct. 15.—Advices from New York today state that F. A. Heinze has won out in his efforts at controlling the affairs of the Davis Daly Copper company, which properties are located in Butte. The fight has been a bitter one.

The stockholders also elected five directors chosen by Heinze. Not one director was given the opposition.

Erp and Jarvis, who spent many weeks soliciting proxies upon the claim that they represented the company, were able to vote only 16,000 shares.

The Heinze interests elected, besides Heinze as president, these: Geo. H. McKelvey, F. Augustus Heinze, H. Mason Raborg, a former director; L. S. Levy, counsel for Heinze; George Baglin, private secretary to Mr. Heinze and W. C. Shaw, present secretary of the company. Baglin and Shaw were elected as a temporary expedient until Boston interests can unite upon two directors to be chosen later.
