CAUGHT ON THE RUN ABOUT TOWN

"Please send a hack; I want to go on No. 15." And then the answer: "There is no No. 15."

RATTLED BY CARD This provokes an argument and by the time the end of the discussion is reached, it is too late to get to No. 41, which is the successor of No. 15 on the timetable, and there is a passenger who doesn't leave town on that train. It is taking a longer time than usual for the public to get accustomed to the new card; not that the changes in time are radical, but the trains have all been renumbered and a man doesn't know what to ask for, and when he gets it he doesn't know what he has. There are more trains in and out of Missoula than there ever were before and the service in the main is excellent. But there is necessity for careful study of the train nomenclature or you will go away on the train that you didn't intend to take, while the one you did want is going somewhere else with somebody else where you wanted to be.

STOCK PERFORMANCE WELL RECEIVED

SECOND PRODUCTION OF "LA BELLE MARIE" MAKES HIT AT THE FAMILY.

Before an audience which filled nearly every seat in the theater and which was enthusiastic as it was big, the Laura Winston Stock company, which is holding down the boards at the Family, gave its second production of "La Belle Marie" last night. The play as presented was outside of the stock company class. Not for an instant did the interest of the audience in the wonderful play break and from start to finish the production was easily on a level with the majority of the road shows which visit the Harbors.

OFF FOR HOME

75 or more of them, men and women, and they had the trunks and boxes with which they left home. The baggage made a small mountain and the passengers made a big smudge as they puffed at their pipes and jabbered with each other. Some of them said they were going home, but they boarded a train that went the other way, and maybe they were trying to throw their questioner off the trail. But they made a reproduction of Ellis Island as they sat on the station platform, and there were many passers who paused to look at the picturesque scene.

BACK HOME

Elmer E. Hughes came in from the west yesterday and will remain for several weeks in the city on business matters. It is a long time since the Missoula friends of Mr. Hughes have seen him here at home, and he has gained so much in weight since he got a sea-coast diet and quit chasing over the country with a trust on his shoulder that he was not recognized by many of them when they first saw him yesterday. He has evidently fared well in the sound country, but he has not lost all of his affection for Missoula, and he was pleased to note the progress that has been made here since he last saw the town. "Things are looking fine," said he, "as far as I have had time to look and there is no doubt that I shall find the entire town as lively and satisfactory as what I have seen of it."

GOOD WORK

The forms have been stripped from the concrete work on the first story of the Cowell-Dixon building and there has been an interested inspection of the massive columns that carry the weight of the five stories above. The columns have stripped clean and the work is said by those qualified to judge to be excellent. Contractor Johnson said yesterday that the removal of the rest of the forms will be accomplished soon. Practically all of the concrete work is finished and as soon as it hardens there will be a start made on the brick work if the weather is favorable.

POPULAR YOUNG MAN IS DANGEROUSLY ILL

Massey McCullough, son of Dr. and Mrs. George T. McCullough, is seriously ill at the home of his parents on South Third street west. He was operated on Monday night for an abscess of the stomach and last night his chances were said to be good for recovery, although he is yet in an extremely dangerous condition.

SECOND PRODUCTION OF "LA BELLE MARIE" MAKES HIT AT THE FAMILY.

Before an audience which filled nearly every seat in the theater and which was enthusiastic as it was big, the Laura Winston Stock company, which is holding down the boards at the Family, gave its second production of "La Belle Marie" last night. The play as presented was outside of the stock company class. Not for an instant did the interest of the audience in the wonderful play break and from start to finish the production was easily on a level with the majority of the road shows which visit the Harbors.

Miss Laura Winston as "La Belle Marie" displays by far the best talent. Her acting last night was magnetic and sympathetic and the manner in which she treated her part gave evidence of a careful and conscientious study.

Mr. Lionel carried the heavy part. He is better than the usual stock actor and his interpretations last night were excellent.

As a breezy salesman, Mr. Van Dyke made good. His part abounded in comedy situations and he carried the audience with him through the entire performance.

The big comedy part, however, is that of the office boy. Mr. Ingersoll in this character was better than good and he was repeatedly called back for encores on his comic songs.

The minor parts were well carried and the whole cast demonstrated the fact that the management of the theater is trying to bring out, that a stock company can produce a play. If given the same show for a week, which is fully equal to those of the better class of road companies.

CHICAGO MAN BOOSTS MISSOULA

TELLS OF INTERESTING TRIP UP THE RATTLESNAKE AND BITTER ROOT VALLEYS.

As an example of the way in which the west is making boosters of the easters is quoted an article printed in the Irving Park Signal, a paper printed in one of the suburbs of Chicago. Mr. Lippincott, the writer, visited Missoula during the apple show as the guest of Dr. Ward, and the following shows what he thought of the city:

"Looking up you could see snow-capped mountains in all directions and yet the climate at the high altitude was just like a beautiful spring morning. With two engines pulling us and a third one pushing from the rear, as long as we were going up the mountain grade we crossed the divide when two engines were used, till we got to our journey's end, Missoula, Mont. How good that did sound to us, as we were getting very tired of riding. We arrived Thursday at 1 o'clock in the morning, and we never left a sleeper with less regret in our lives, except when we arrived home. We just like a town of 21,000 inhabitants, situated in a deep valley in the heart of the mountains. Next morning when we got up we were surrounded with snow-capped mountains, the air was simply indescribable, and we proceeded to take in all our lungs would hold. After breakfast we went to the "apple show," which was in session, where we saw the most luscious apples, pears, cherries, grapes and plums. Each exhibit was a beautiful picture in itself. Potatoes, such as we never had seen before, 14 inches long and 2 inches thick, and not a hollow potato in the lot. We secured a horse and buggy and drove straight at what appeared to be a crack in the mountains, and as we drew nearer it developed into a beautiful stretch of country called Rattlesnake valley, with a river of the purest water for irrigating and drinking purposes. Missoula gets her drinking water from this river, which comes down from the mountain. As we went up this beautiful valley we saw everywhere attractive bungalow homes, with barns and chicken houses all nicely painted, flowers and shrubs in the front yard, and orchards at the sides and back, containing from 10 to 15 acres each. These are called fruit ranches and produce from $500 to $1,000 worth of fruit to the acre. This seems like a fairy tale, but the writer investigated a number, and found this statement to be no exaggeration. One gentleman took $750 worth of celery off one acre of his land, and there is a market for everything they can raise. We drove eight miles up the Rattlesnake valley and the farther we went the more enchanted we became with the homes, orchards, etc. Returning we went up the Bitter Root valley, which claims to produce the finest fruit in the world. We did not investigate this thoroughly at the first but if it beats the Rattlesnake valley it certainly has got to go some. The people are all "boosters." You cannot find a "knacker" in the whole country. At least, so we were led to believe from the large number of gentlemen we met. Everyone has the glad hand to give to a stranger coming into their country and gives you "the time of your life." Missoula is building a large number of very fine five and six-story buildings. It has large department stores, where one can buy anything from a paper of pins to a threshing machine, large grocery stores and fine meat markets, sash and door factories, good hotels and theaters, a large college, public schools and churches, electric lights, sewers, water and gas.

MRS. HINCHMAN DIES AT HOME IN TACOMA

Word has been received here of the death, at Tacoma, of Mrs. M. R. Hinchman who was for many years a well-known and much-respected resident of Missoula. Death resulted from a severe cold which was contracted by Mrs. Hinchman on her way to Tacoma from Missoula, where she spent a portion of last summer. Mrs. Hinchman was more than 70 years old and leaves two sons, one, Wilbur, is a resident of Missoula; the other, Merle, lives in Tacoma and was with his mother when she died. Mrs. Hinchman was a most estimable woman and had many friends in the city and in Orchard Homes.

THE AFFIDAVIT AGE

The old days were the good old days when knights were bold and gay. When men were making history and making it to stay; When Hannibal went o'er the Alps, the world believed it so, And none an affidavit made to prove he didn't go.

J. Caesar conquered many worlds and beat up many foes, And in the end was stabbed by friends, as everybody knows; Brutus was not above the knife, as each historian writes, But still he never swore an oath that Caesar faked his fights.

But times have changed; today we find our hero sore beset, The lecture platform pays him well and royally he's met; A great dead glory brings, but ere he grows accustomed to it, Some one an affidavit makes to prove he didn't do it.

—Detroit Free Press.

WHOLESALE ROBBERY.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 2.—Fifty Italian laborers employed by a construction company on a trolley line and housed in a shanty were held up early today by four armed men and robbed of nearly $1,000.

The highwaymen represented themselves to be officers of the government. One by one the laborers were called out of the barracks and bound and gagged. The bandits escaped.

KING DODO DELIGHTS AUDIENCE AT HARNOIS

"The Tale of a Bumble Bee" is sufficient excuse for the perpetuation of the extravaganza which was presented last night at the Harbors—that song and the inimitable nonsense of the piece have made it everlastingly popular. John Coates, revivator of the comedy opera, requires no apology. "King Dodo" delighted the audience, which listened to the music, laughed at the antics and applauded everything last night. William Friend in the title role was as ridiculous as the imperator of the burlesque monarch should be and his support was fine. Zoe Barnett, who had the "Bumble Bee" story to sing, was graceful and clever in all her work; the singing association of Eleanor Kent and Louise Mink was high class and earned repeated recalls. Laura Millard looked the part and acted it as Queen Lil. The male parts served well to support these and the chorus was unusually good. The company was one of the best that has ever presented "King Dodo" here and the "Bumble Bee" song was never so well rendered as last night. "King Dodo" improves with age. Long live the king.

WEST POINT BURIES CADET BYRNE

YOUNG SOLDIER KILLED IN A FOOTBALL GAME IS GIVEN MILITARY FUNERAL.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Cadet Eugene A. Byrne, who died on Sunday as the result of injuries received in the Harvard-Army football game, was given a military burial in the academy cemetery here today.

The funeral was attended by the entire body of cadets, officers of the academy and the army post, and by scores of friends of the young soldier. The parents of Cadet Byrne stood beside the grave.

Preceding the interment the cadet battalion marched to the beat of muffled drums to the Roman Catholic church of the reservation, where the religious ceremonies were held. The post will be in mourning for 30 days.

Will Not Play.

Washington, Nov. 2.—The great annual football contest between the West Point cadets and Annapolis midshipmen, which was to have taken place at Philadelphia, November 27, will not be played this year, the athletic authorities of the naval academy today deciding to grant the request of the superintendent of the military academy to cancel the game on account of the death of Cadet Byrne.

Ladies' Long Black Coats

A sample lot of 35 long black coats, fortunately just received, enables us to offer Missoula ladies a treat.
