THE SEWER PLAN.

The Missoulian heard yesterday nothing but commendation of the plans for the proposed sewer system and of the manner in which they were presented at the council meeting Monday night. Engineer Swearingin has prepared the preliminary work on the sewer system in a manner which marks him as an expert well qualified to carry through the construction to a successful issue. There is no question as to the practical unanimity of opinion in Missoula regarding the necessity which exists for the construction of a municipal sewer system which will be adequate to meet the needs of a growing city, and will provide for demands which may be made in the future. The surveys for the system on the north side of the river have been carefully made; the specifications are detailed and complete; as soon as legal technicalities have been complied with, the construction work may be taken up; at the same time the plans for the south side will be prepared; by spring it will be possible to start work on both sides of the river, and Mr. Swearingin says the system can be completed in a year.

MUCH WORK AHEAD.

President Taft reaches the White House tonight after fifty-seven days of swinging around the circle; if he is dizzy with the continual whirl it is not to be wondered at. But he has little opportunity ahead for rest; there is a vast amount of official work that demands his immediate consideration. First of all, there are many appointments to be made to office in the public service. Next in importance to the appointment of an associate justice of the supreme court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Peckham, is the appointment of a minister to China. Then there is a new assistant secretary of the treasury to be selected, and also an assistant secretary of commerce and labor. Since the beginning of the present administration senators and representatives have not fared very well in their quest for places in the government service for constituents, and there are plenty of indications that as soon as the president gets back to work he will be besieged by the place-hunters.

But the president will have plenty of business to engage his attention, aside from that connected with the filling of offices. For one thing, he has the new tariff law on his hands. When he departed on his 13,000-mile trip, the indications were that the law would probably go into effect without a great deal of friction, but before he had turned his face homeward complications of an important nature had arisen. He returns to find the country on the verge of a tariff war with Germany, France and Canada, with the prospects that complications with other countries may arise. The new tariff law provides the president with a so-called tariff board of three members, which is to assist him in arriving at a decision as to whether the maximum rate shall be applied against any particular province or country, but, after all, the responsibility will all fall on the chief executive. So it is evident that Mr. Taft will have to give close attention to the situation that has developed since he started on his long trip last September.

The president is not likely to get comfortably settled down to work before the first of next week, as he is scheduled to leave Washington tomorrow night for Middletown, Conn., to attend the inauguration of President Shunklin of Wesleyan university. It was originally intended that the president should visit New Haven on this trip, but in his anxiety to get back to work as soon as possible the arrangements for the New Haven visit have been cancelled. After his return from Middletown the president is likely to remain in the capital until congress assembles, with the exception of a brief trip to Norfolk at the end of next week to address the waterways convention there.

Following his long absence from the capital, the president will resume work in the new executive offices of the White House. His new private office is a circular room, plain in appearance, but light and attractive. It is fitted out to a large extent with woods from the Philippines. The new addition in which the office is located also provides a large room for cabinet meetings and a new office for Private Secretary Carpenter.

TOO HIGH.

The interesting deduction is made by Henry Clews in his weekly financial column that the present high-price conditions in trade must soon be modified. The veteran financier says that the stock conditions are good except that the cotton speculation has carried the price of that commodity too high and that the manipulation of copper values is likely to breed trouble. He concludes:

"In many respects the general outlook is very satisfactory, and owing to the unequalled prosperity of the agricultural classes the promises are for at least another year or two of good business. On the other hand it must not be forgotten that the country is working upon an abnormally high price level; that interest rates are permanently higher; that the speculative mania is difficult to control, and that our prosperity is very unevenly distributed and decidedly lop-sided. Some process of equalization is due, and just how this will come cannot be predicted. The steel trade cannot keep up its present activity indefinitely; neither can the cotton industry go on without some relief to its present difficulties. Time alone will solve these problems, but they are sufficiently complex to warrant a spirit of caution in all commercial and financial transactions affecting the future. One effect of present high prices is the growing substitution or adulteration of one material by another of inferior grade or less cost. Short weights and short measures, too, are often resorted to in order to squeeze out a profit which high costs prevent. Our center of gravity has been raised too high, and lasting stability cannot be expected until equalization has restored the equilibrium and prices generally come down to a less speculative level."

We shall be sorry to see the Sixth leave Fort Missoula, but there will be a welcome here for the Fourteenth when it comes to occupy the post.

The list of stockholders in the new Scandinavian bank is good evidence of the fact that Missoula is good to those who are good to her.

If the courts sustain the opinion of Attorney General Galen, the state's revenue for another year is assured. And it will be needed.

The more you study the sewer plan of Mr. Swearingin, the more you are convinced that it is the right thing.

Waterfalls and coal are as important as the forests as natural resources which belong to the people.

It is not easy for the opposition to find ground for an attack upon Senator Aldrich's speeches this week.

Dr. Elliot is the right sort of conservationist. His appeal to the public should be read by everybody.

Dr. Cook is eminently correct in maintaining that a naval officer is not a disinterested expert.

If Engineer Swearingin's plans are carried out, Missoula will be, physically, a model city.

The importance of protecting the Alaskan coal fields becomes more apparent every day.

Today the president completes the circle. His swing has been a notable national event.

COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS PURCHASE OF PROPERTY

Special to The Daily Missoulian.
Helena, Nov. 9.—The committee appointed by the last legislature to appraise the property at the state prison belonging to Conley & McTague has made its report. It finds the net value of the property owned by Conley & McTague, on state land and essential to the running of the prison, to be $28,721, and that on state land worth $14,755. The latter does not include the value of the land, which is liable to fluctuation before the next meeting of the legislature. The committee recommended the purchase of all the property at the appraised price.

It also recommends the purchase by the state of all the property facing the prison grounds on the opposite side of the street and also of a farm of 100 or 200 acres within a reasonable distance of the penitentiary, where produce for the prison can be raised.

There is also a recommendation, in view of the crowded condition of the prison, that it be enlarged to double the present capacity. It also favors the conduct of the prison by the state and not under the contract system.

A recommendation is made that prisoners be provided with employment. The conduct of the prison by Warden Frank Conley is commended. The members of the commission are William Lindsay, chairman; Herbert Strain, Martin Maginnis, Lois Heitman and T. D. Lockman.

Costs But 2c a Bath, and the Body is Rid of Uric Acid Poison, With Astonishing Rapidity.

Quickly Cures Kidney Trouble, Nervous Prostration and All Skin Diseases.

The Robinson Thermal or Turkish bath, taken at home, is becoming a rage. Those who have used the bath have been completely carried away with enthusiasm because of the astonishing results obtained.

MYSTERY OF RIVER IS FINALLY SOLVED

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Part of the mystery surrounding the automobile accident of Sunday night, when a loaded taxicab plunged into the Chicago river at the open draw of the Jackson boulevard bridge, was solved today by the recovery of the body of the chauffeur, Ernest Camp. At first the body was identified as that of Max Cohen, supposed to have been a passenger in the car with Beatrice Shapiro, his fiancée.

A flotilla of police and fireboats is patrolling the river, the crew dragging grappling irons over the river bed. It is expected other bodies will be found.

MANY KILLED BY AUTOS.

New York, Nov. 9.—Charges that graft and bribery in a new form are rife in the ranks of New York's city bicycle policemen, leading to practically unrestrained violation of the speed laws by automobilists, will be made the basis of wholesale transfers and dismissals of bicycle and motorcycle officers, according to Police Commissioner Baker. During October 22 persons were killed and more than 100 persons injured by automobiles in New York.

FIRST ELECTION UNDER NEW LAW

Los Angeles, Nov. 9.—Los Angeles tomorrow will hold the first election under the new city primary law. A vast number of candidates, ranging from three for city clerk to 77 for city councilmen, fill the big blanket-sheet ballot. For mayor there are seven candidates.

Under the new law, no party designations appear upon the ballot, and every candidate has been named by petition. The signatures of but a hundred persons were necessary to put the name of a candidate upon the ballot.

George Alexander, the present republican mayor, is a candidate for reelection. Opposed to him are two other republicans, George A. Smith, former councilman, and W. C. Usher, present auditor. Oscar E. Parish, the fourth leading candidate for the mayoralty, is a democrat. However, each man's campaign has been entirely non-partisan.

As a result of the primaries tomorrow, two candidates receiving the highest number of votes for any one office will make the race at the general election in December.
