THINK STEINER IS ENTITLED TO MEDAL

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 11.—Friends of Frederick Steiner, a pioneer resident of Cle Elum, Wash., believe he and his wife deserve a Roosevelt medal for raising a family of goodly proportion.

This is believed to be a record without a parallel in the state of Washington, if not in the Pacific northwest, and, as the happy father remarks with just pride, "Where is there a town of the size and age of Cle Elum on this continent that can beat it?"

Governor Marion E. Haig has been apprised of the newest addition to the Steiner family, and their friends will bring the matter formally to the attention of Colonel Roosevelt on his return from Africa. Steiner does not go much on the medal proposition, but there is no gainsaying that he is the happiest man in this part of the United States.

CONGRESS SECRETARY WILL GET MARRIED

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 11.—Arthur Hooker of Spokane, permanent secretary of the National Irrigation congress, which will have its eighteenth session at Pueblo, Colo., in 1910, and Miss Mabel Sarah Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Baker of Pullman, Wash., will be married at the home of the bride's parents on December 1, and make their home at Pueblo after January 1.

The engagement, just announced, is the sequel of a romance begun when they were students in the State college of Washington, graduating with the class of 1907. The bride is a bachelor of science in domestic economy, while the bridegroom has the degree of bachelor of science in engineering. He attracted considerable attention by introducing a resolution for a $5,000,000 bond issue by the government at the last session of the irrigation and dry farming congress.

SAYS CATCHING DOGS IS LIFE WORK

SPokane MAN SAYS HE WOULD TRADE JOBS WITH NO ONE, NO MATTER WHOM.

"Say, if you want a life of excitement, one in which you can test your nerves and sticking qualities, you ought to become a dogcatcher. That's where you get your real excitement." This is the view of Harry Hart, humane society employe, who has been the active figure in Spokane's dog crusade, and who has taken up 1,250 dogs on the streets of this city since last March, more dogs than have found their way to the Spokane pound in any three previous years.

"I wouldn't trade jobs with any man in Spokane," he said yesterday. "I tell you I like to catch dogs. I've been at it for more than four years off and on, and I know the tricks of the trade. I would rather catch dogs than eat."

"I got chewed up about two years ago and for a while rather lost my nerve, but I don't let that bother me any more."

"Then I met some man who is going to whip me every day, and if they were all brought together that would point to a large corral which adjoins the humane barns—wouldn't hold them. I used to think these men meant what they said, but I learned to know they are mainly bluffers. The women who cry and curse me when I lock their dogs into our wagon used to touch my feelings, but the rule with me now is, since in the wagon the dog has to go, I would haul off my own mother's dog if I happened to find him loose, and entreaties wouldn't stop me."

"The fame of this man and his assistant, Bill Hawk, who is a necessary adjunct to this dog catching team, has spread not only beyond the limits of Spokane, but beyond the boundaries of the state, and in the last few months requests for their services have come from cities in three different states."

Kalispell, Mont., which was overrun by dogs in the early summer, begged for the services of these men in September, after several big, burly dogcatchers had been run from town by the citizens who didn't approve of the work. In spite of the threats of would-be lynchers, these two little men stayed seven days in the town and took nearly 50 dogs each night and guarded them at the pound the next day.

At the end of their week the marshal begged them to leave to avoid trouble, and this officer insisted on taking them from town secretly, as he feared a mob of irate citizens might attempt to block their exit by rail. The little Spokane men say they had a good time at Kalispell and are desirous of returning.

The two dogcatchers last week took their first vacation since March 1. On the last three days of October they captured 80 dogs. Since that time they have abandoned the work because of the disagreeable weather. They probably will not begin again until spring.—Spokesman-Review.

DOCTORS ARE AT WAR IN SPOKANE COUNTY

Spokane, Nov. 11.—"State laws making a trust possible among physicians and surgeons are responsible for the unseemly conditions in Washington, Oregon and California, and until these statutes are wiped out there will be no relief."

Dr. T. E. Callahan, a prominent physician in Spokane, formerly of Baltimore, Md., who has been fighting the Medical Society of Spokane county the last six years, made the foregoing charge in an authorized interview, adding:

"The members of the Spokane County Medical society are working hand in glove with the railroads and the insurance companies, and a diagnosis in an accident case, where the physician is called in by the patient, is drawn entirely in the interests of the companies. Then, too, all candidates for the legislature are pledged to the societies, and for that reason it is difficult if not altogether out of question to get remedial legislation."

Officers of the local society deny the charges preferred by Dr. Callahan, saying that he has met them solely out of revenge for the reason they will not admit him as a member.

DURAND TO CALL FOR IRRIGATION FIGURES

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 11.—Census Director Durand has advised Arthur Hooker of Spokane, secretary of the Eighteenth National Irrigation congress, that the bureau's agricultural schedules will call for the acreage and yield of the various crops that are under irrigation and the total irrigated area in the United States.

However, it has not been authorized to go so far as to take in the enumeration of the people engaged in and depending upon irrigation for a livelihood, the capital invested in plants and the private companies engaged in each state. He added that there is an increasing public demand for statistics and other information relative to water power, and that the bureau expects to develop data along this line in connection with its census of manufactures. Officers and members of the irrigation congress believe that a compilation of the data requested would be of importance, and it may be that another plan will be worked out in 1910, when the sessions will take place at Pueblo, Colo.

HAMILTON, MONTANA

Did You Notice

what Prof. Thomas Shaw, whom James J. Hill calls the greatest farmer on earth, says of the Bitter Root valley? He says that "he doubts very much if there is any section in the whole United States which will furnish so much diversified production and wealth for its area as the Bitter Root valley. The soil is splendidly adapted to fruit, especially the apples."

Our land is the pick of the valley. It was considered by Marcus Daly the best land in the valley at a time when he could have had his pick.

We are selling this land today on terms of 25 per cent cash and the balance in ten yearly payments. Let us show you how to make it pay from the start.
