

LIBERAL RULE MUST BE SECURED

INSURANCE AGAINST REPETITION OF INTERFERENCE BY LORDS IS PLEA.

London, Nov. 22.—It is my opinion that it is impossible that any liberal government can ever again bear the heavy burden of office unless it is secured against a repetition of treatment such as other measures have had to undergo for the last four years.

This sensational declaration by Lord Loreburn, lord high chancellor, in the debate on the budget in the house of lords today, had an electrical effect upon liberal members of the house of commons who crowded the galleries. Quitting the galleries they surged into the lobby and the government's last word before the general election, that Premier Asquith will make a similar declaration in the house of commons next week and that the long-delayed campaign against the lords has now begun in earnest.

It was held that Lord Loreburn's statement would only mean that no liberal leader henceforth will accept office unless he receives a pledge from the crown that enough peers will be appointed on the premier's nomination to secure the house of commons against interference from the house of lords in financial matters. After the Earl of Crewe, lord of privy seal, had formally moved the second reading of the budget bill, without comment, Lord Lansdowne, leader of the opposition immediately moved its rejection. He quoted precedents to show that, although the house of lords could not amend a finance bill, it had full right to discuss it and throw it out if it so wished. The attempt of the lords to interfere, declared Lord Loreburn, was the beginning of a system that would lead to constitutional revolution. After the lord high chancellor, many peers addressed the public, but interest waned.

LABOR LEADERS TALK TO LAWYERS

COMPERS AND MITCHELL ADDRESS NATIONAL CIVIC FEDERATION.

New York, Nov. 22.—Samuel Compers, president of the American Federation of Labor, paid his respects to the legal profession today at the opening session of the National Civic Federation's annual meeting. He was discussing the need in this country of new laws to cover the subject of employers' liability and to provide adequate compensation to wage earners injured by accidents.

"Lawyers will prevent our getting the best and the wisest laws in the matter," he said. "They will have little difficulty in finding almost innumerable constitutional objections for the resources of our constitutional lawyers for interpretation are limitless, particularly when they are superinduced by the opportunity for well-earned fees."

"All we can hope for is a little progress. We must go on with our work of spreading the light. For the present, let us be satisfied with establishing some semblance of the justice which is demanded by such disasters as this most recent one at Cherry, Ill."

John Mitchell, also spoke, saying natural conditions of mining in this country are more safe than in Europe, but that nearly five men out of every 1,000 employees are killed annually; whereas, in Belgium, England and Germany the average is one to a thousand. He said the laws should protect workers more adequately.

ed November 12. Briefly, stated, the situation is summed up by the correspondent as follows:

"Government forces now hold Greytown, which is generally conceded to be the most important station, strategically, on the east coast. Greytown is on the San Juan river, which joins the east coast with the west by way of the Nicaragua and Managua lakes, making the city the key to the Atlantic ports. Revolutionists hold Bilbofields, but government forces are reported to be closing in on the town from the west and south in such numbers that, if the revolutionists don't capitulate in a few weeks, they must be routed from the city."

Cosmopolitan Desperados.

"Large bodies of government forces, it is reported, will be sent through to the east coast at the close of the rainy season, which is near. Government forces on the east coast are merely doing police duty and holding the revolutionists in check until the larger army can arrive. The declaring of a provisional government by the revolutionists caused an influx of desperate characters of various nationalities from all Central American ports. As nearly all the business of the east coast is in the hands of foreigners, it is difficult for revolutionists to muster in force. Few Spaniards are taking part in the revolt."

According to Law.

Managua, Nov. 22.—Not having received official notification on the subject, the Nicaraguan government expressed doubt that a demand for a repatriation be made by the United States on account of the execution of the two Americans, Groce and Cannon, for the reason, it is pointed out, that the procedure of Nicaragua was according to law. The men were tried by court-martial and condemned and President Zelaya refused to interfere with those decisions.

Notice to Public.

CLEVER ABE ATTELL WINS FROM MORAN

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 22.—Abe Attell, featherweight champion of the world, was given the decision over Jimmy Moran of Brooklyn in an eight-round contest tonight.

Moran, while outclassed in speed, science and ring generalship, at the start proved his stamina. Not until the fifth round did Attell extend himself. From then on he made a chopping block of his rugged opponent. Moran possesses a vicious right swing, but only once, in the second round, did he drive it home, reaching Attell's head. The blow nettled Attell and he fought to a clinch, displaying the speed and science that has given him the title he now holds.

RAILROAD CASE GOES TO SUPREME COURT

St. Paul, Nov. 22.—The constitutionality of the federal employers' liability law will be contested in the United States supreme court by the Northern Pacific railway. Today Charles W. Bunn, attorney for the company, contended before Federal Judge Willard that the suit brought by Mrs. Bessie Babcock of Billings, Mont., against the company for $5,000 on account of the killing of her husband in a collision at Young's Point, Mont., should be dismissed.

Judge Willard overruled the motion and notice was given that an appeal would be taken.

HARD LUCK.

Atchison, Kan., Nov. 22.—Mistaking a roll of bills for shavings, Philip Miller, an aged recluse living near here, threw $300, his life savings, into the stove.

CLARK IS SET FREE BY VERDICT

JURY DECIDES THAT CHARLES CRISWELL DIED BECAUSE OF HEART TROUBLE.

"An inquisition holden at Missoula, Mont. in the county of Missoula, on the 22d day of November, A. D. 1909, before me, W. D. Kendrick, coroner of said county, upon the body of Charles Criswell, the body of the jurors whose names are herewith subscribed, the said jurors upon their oaths do say that the said Charles Criswell came to his death from heart failure caused by excessive drink.

"In testimony whereof the said jurors have set their hands the day and year aforesaid.

THOMAS M. STEPHENSON,
P. F. SMITH,
T. M. SEARLES,
S. N. DAWSON,
T. G. HATHAWAY, SR.,
A. P. SPAULDING."

At Late Hour.

The above verdict was rendered about 11 o'clock last night by the jury in the inquest held to determine the cause of death of Charles Criswell, the man who died in the Shamrock saloon on West Front street last Friday night, and whose death was attributed to the giving to him of morphine in whiskey by Louis Clark, a companion.

The inquest, which was adjourned from Saturday afternoon, was convened at 7:30 o'clock last evening in the office of the coroner. The first witness to be placed on the stand was Bert Brederer, a bartender in the Exchange saloon on West Front street, from whom nothing of importance was elicited. He testified that he had seen Louis Clark, who is alleged to have given morphine to Criswell, take two "shots" of the drug in whiskey. He did not see Criswell take the "shots," as the other members of the party, whom he did not know, were in the rear part of the saloon. He did remember that somebody had remarked when Clark took the morphine in such quantities, "You must be an old hand at the business."

Dr. Randall Testifies.

The next witness called was Dr. J. G. Randall, who, with Dr. H. E. Anderson, conducted the post mortem examination. He gave a written report on the condition of the dead man, which, owing to the use of technical terms, had to be explained. The report was interesting, showing as it did, the condition of the various organs of the body of Criswell. According to the physician, the stomach of the dead man was half filled with food. The lungs had a good color, but showed adhesions, which indicated the existence of old pleurisy. The spleen was enlarged to three or four times its normal size. Four feet of the intestines were paralyzed; this condition might have been caused by a strong poison, although a blow or sudden shock would have the same effect. The physician stated that vomiting usually follows poisoning, although vomiting might be caused by heart disease.

Upon being asked a direct question the doctor stated that had he not known of the fact that Criswell had taken morphine he would give the cause of death as heart trouble. He stated that he could not give poisoning as the cause of the death of Criswell, as there was no sign of telling of the existence of poisoning except by analysis. He also stated in his report that there was a calcareous deposit in the aortic valves of the heart which caused the blood to ooze back into the organ.

The sum total of the testimony of Dr. Randall was that Criswell, previous to the time of his death, was in a very bad physical condition. He was in such a state that death was to be expected at any moment.

Professor Arthur.

Dr. Randall was followed, after a vacation of over an hour, by Professor Arthur, who, as assistant in chemistry at the state university, analyzed Criswell's stomach. Mr. Arthur reported that he had found morphine in the stomach and also, apparently, a trace of cocaine, but, owing to his limited time, he had not been able to make any but a qualitative examination. The quantitative examination will be made at a later date.

Mr. Arthur's testimony concluded the testimony and the case was given into the hands of the jury, who returned the verdict as given above. It is believed that by this verdict Louis Clark, who is alleged to have given the morphine in whiskey to Criswell, will be absolved of all blame in the matter and allowed to go free.

crowded with living, was the expectation of those working to lift it. It was asserted that the miners, hearing the moving of the machinery, would hasten to the cage, and that its first trip would add as many to the list of rescued as the car would hold. The recovery of 42 bodies today was attended by some of the saddest scenes of the disaster. Across the fields, as the first signal of "bodies coming up" was given, stumbled almost 100 women and children, who had been driven from the shaft side by the fierce wind and cold. The identification of the bodies was comparatively easy. There were no smoke stains or burns, and physicians declared that all except a few had died of asphyxiation. Some had torn every vestige of clothing from their bodies in their death agony. Among the first bodies carried out were those of two "trapper boys," neither of them more than 14 years old.

D. J. DONOHUE COMPANY

dead today were found beside the bodies. On the walls of the shaft had been fastened rude wooden pinwheels, shaped in the fashion of ventilating fans and intended to bring at least some current of air. Boards torn from the timbers of the mine had been crudely nailed or tied about the handles of the miners' picks. These the men had turned by hand, standing close to them to get any oxygen stirred by the movement of the improvised fans. Close beside the fans the largest groups of dead were found.

That the men had lived and retained their faculties for many days before the blackamp crept upon them was obvious, but physicians declared every man had been dead for at least 48 hours.

Efforts to reach men possibly alive in the St. Paul mine were made in two directions today—east and west. In the latter section the attempt was made at the third, or bottom, gallery at the earnest request of Duncan McDonald, president of the United Mine Workers of Illinois, and nine other officers of the organization. The gloom of the situation here was accentuated today by the weather. Rain fell all night and in the forenoon turned to snow. Almost no relatives of the missing were at the scene.

Efforts to explore underground continued with unabated vigor. Dozens of volunteers worked against the most overpowering odds to extend their explorations. Earth and coal were removed, only to be followed by another cave-in.

Taylor's Theory.

Mr. Taylor was impressed with the theory that the men cut off in the second gallery might have found their way into the gallery below, where there is no fire, and ordered its exploration. In this gallery—the lowest in the mine—there is an "overcast" or an irregular shaft, distinct from the gallery.

"If men who were in this part of the mine thought of the 'overcast' and were able to reach it, they are probably alive now," said Mr. Taylor. "In the gallery proper there is much water, but we hope that it is not so high that it rescuers can make their way through it."

Rescuers who carried up 23 bodies today said there was evidence that the men had walled themselves in for several days, but had emerged to seek food and water and had met death in the black damp.

At a point beyond where the searchers had gone several declared they could see the shattering blocking of a pocket where the men had taken refuge. The bodies are scattered along the gallery for many yards. Men who found them believed the victims collapsed from weakness or asphyxiation before going 50 yards toward the entrance. Some bodies were burned and it is probable that of the 23 not all had been in the pocket. The existence of the refuge was denied by other members of the party.

The tenseness of the nerves of the rescuers is shown by a remarkable incident this afternoon. A man who proved to have been dead many days was believed to be alive when brought to the surface and was rushed to the hospital car. The mistake, however, soon became apparent. Manager Taylor, worn out by days and nights of work and anxiety, left Cherry for a brief rest today.

GIRLS HEAR COMPERS AND VOTE TO STRIKE

New York, Nov. 22.—After hearing Samuel Compers speak at Cooper Union tonight, 2,000 members of the Ladies' Waistmakers' union voted to go on strike tomorrow for shorter hours and higher wages. Three other divisions of the union, representing about 15,000 more employees, met in other parts of the city and also voted to strike. Mr. Compers in his address at Cooper Union said:

"There comes a time when to refuse to strike is to be slaves. Conditions in the clothing trade are a blot on civilization. At stake in this contest of yours are the lives and futures of many men and women. It is time that you were aroused. If you let this opportunity go by, it may be generations before you again get the opportunity to improve your condition."

DYING MAN REFUSES NAME OF MURDERER

Kansas City, Nov. 22.—After stoically refusing for two days to tell who shot him, Harry Bonnel died here tonight. Two witnesses told the police they saw Mrs. Sadie Greer, keeper of the rooming house in which Bonnel lived and where he was found dying, shoot the man. Mrs. Greer was arrested.

"I don't want to get anybody in bad," were the dying words of Bonnel.
