WATCHMAN HELD UP AT TUNNEL

PUGET SOUND EMPLOYE ROBBED AT NEIL TUNNEL—LOSES RED LANTERN.

A peculiar holdup was pulled off at the Neil tunnel, east of this city, Tuesday night. Steve McKoff, who is employed by the Puget Sound to watch the tunnel, was making his usual trip through it, when he was suddenly confronted by two men, who told him to put up his hands. He complied and the men took a gun and red lantern from him. After satisfying themselves that he had nothing else of value the robbers gave him back his gun and departed. McKoff considers himself lucky as he usually carries a considerable amount of money with him, but happened to leave his pocketbook at home. No trace of the holdups has been discovered.

Several of the Northern Pacific employees who have not had the good fortune to make the first team have decided that they can put up a classier article of ball than the regulars and have issued a challenge. The deft has been accepted and the game will be played on the south side grounds Sunday. Some of the second team players will probably be lifted to strengthen the first, as some did not show the necessary form in their practice game last Sunday.

Manager Dodge has received a challenge from the Northern Pacific team at Livingston and a game will be played there within the next few weeks.

ASSOCIATION GIVES A CLASSY PROGRAM

The science association of the state university held a most interesting meeting last evening. The program was on the various phases of photography and some interesting topics were discussed. F. M. Ingalls gave a talk on "Carbon Prints," Miss Carrie Wharton gave a paper on "Plates," and Miss Lucile Marshall talked on "Lantern Slides." The program was greatly helped out by a practical demonstration of stereopticon views and colored and uncolored plates.

IN THE THEATERS

Sarah Mathena Brown and the Chicago boy choir arrived in the city from the west last evening, and are enjoying a day of rest from strenuous travel. They will therefore be in good trim for the matinee for children this afternoon and for the regular program in the university lecture course this evening. Mrs. Brown and her musical boys will present a program of exceptional merit, and all music lovers who attend the entertainment will enjoy a rare treat.

Mrs. Brown has selected these boys from over 100 applications. The program by the boys is a perfect round of pleasure. In their patriotic national airs of the many nations represented they find the fancy and satisfy the popular demand for entertainment. The wholesome boy voices in song revive the days of Blatchford Kavanaugh as they sing sweet melodies into every heart. Mrs. Brown plays the harp with fine feeling and unsurpassed technique. No finer piece of workmanship than her $1,500 instrument is made, and no one plays the harp with better touch or sweeter music than she.

The matinee for children will begin at 3:15. Arrangements have been made with Superintendent Williams for attendance of children, who will be accompanied by their teachers. The little folks will be well cared for.

The evening program will be entirely different from that of the matinee, adapted to the audience which attends the lecture course attractions. It is desired that the audience be present in sufficient time to permit the beginning of the program promptly at 8:30.

The next number of the course will be Laurant, the magician, and will be given April 27. This will be the ninth number. Tickets for the magician may be had free by patrons of the course on presentation of ticket No. 8 at the theater today. Obviously it will be impossible to supply tickets to those who may use No. 8 without securing ticket No. 9 before No. 8 is used. Holders of course tickets who wish to see the magician must secure tickets today.

Tonight's entertainment really fills every obligation of the lecture course committee to the public, and the next number is a gift. It is the last musical number of the course for the year, and will come up to the highest expectations. Persons not holding course tickets who desire to attend may secure tickets at the theater.

He called last night on some of his old friends here and will look over the city today. "Missoula has changed much since I saw it last" said he. "That was five years ago and it does not look like the same place now; it has grown amazingly." Mr. Parker is staying at the Florence.
