TOO MUCH GAME HAS WYOMING

WARDEN SAYS ELK AND BUFFALO ARE SO NUMEROUS AS TO BE A MENACE.

The Yellowstone National park and that portion of the state of Wyoming south of Wonderland is simply overrun with elk and other wild animals and that the state of Wyoming and the United States government will face a severe problem in disposing of the animals in a few years is the statement of Assistant State Game Warden C. P. Sorenson of Wyoming, who has just returned from a trip in the Yellowstone, according to the Montana Daily Record. He says: "Elk are altogether too plenty in the state at this time. There are about 50,000 and the state must soon face a serious problem for the preservation of the rapidly increasing big game. During the months of severe winter weather, for the past few years the state has been compelled to buy hay and feed the animals to save them from starvation, and the expense is considerable. Stockmen in the western part of the state have made strenuous objections to the setting aside of grazing lands in the Gros Ventre section for a range of elk. They don't want the wild elk there.

Game Problem.
The range is already overstocked with a sheep and cattle will suffer for lack of feed and the settlers do not have the wild game should be protected for the extent of retarding the development of the livestock industry. It has been suggested and the

PICTURES PRINTED ON APPLES

FRUIT SKIN USED INSTEAD OF SENSITIZED PLATE—CONTEST AT SPOKANE.

Spokane, July 15.—Displays of portraits and scenic views and lettered and figured designs on fruit will be featured at the third National Apple Show in Spokane the week of November 14, when the management will award prizes of $50 and $25 in each contest, open to professional and amateur photographers all over the world. Ben H. Rice, secretary, says no entrance fee will be charged, also that no limit will be placed on the number of entries by each contestant. The exhibits will be grouped in the state armory. An amateur camera operator, who has made a study of photography on apples, says there is no expense incurred, as no chemicals or water is required. He describes the process as follows: "The skin of an apple, especially at a certain stage of ripening, bears a strong resemblance to commercial photographic plates and printing paper, for the reason it is sensitive to light. The best result can be obtained by selecting apples of a red variety when they are yet green and encase them in bags of black paper, in which plates and paper are usually packed. "These bags are left on for 10 days to exclude the light and add to the sensitiveness of the surface. At the end of that time the bags are removed and the film negative pasted in position with the white of an egg, which is adhesive and will not show in the

A COUNTERFEIT.
Washington, July 15.—The appearance of a poor counterfeit of a $2 silver certificate has been reported to the treasury secret service. It is of the treasury of 1899, adorned with a portrait of Washington. It is on two pieces of paper, in which some silk threads have been distributed. "The seat and large figure are purple instead of blue.

Whitehall, July 15.—(Special.)—Hugh A. Little, partially demented, a resident of Sheridan, started to follow the railroad track home from Whitehall to Sheridan and took the main line instead. He walked directly into a westbound passenger train some time early this morning and was instantly killed. His body was cut in two. He was 28 years old. His parents reside in Sheridan, where he has lived for the past eight years.

FRIENDLY DEBATE ON CONSERVATION

for the organization of a new party. I tell you, sir, that a party cannot stand on a single issue now, although our party did stand on a single issue once in that great conflict between servile and free labor."
Speaking of his record as a public official, the speaker said: "I admit I have made mistakes—great God, I have been mistaken a score of times in the last 35 years. There are other fellows in congress who have been wrong just as often, but they are not honest enough to admit it."
Mr. Cannon shook hands with Mr. Pinchot at the conclusion of his speech and apologized because he had to leave without hearing him.
"I have to catch a train for Winfield," said Mr. Cannon. "Brother Pinchot, I am sorry I had to speak first. I always talk better when someone else speaks in my face or kicks me on the shin."
Mr. Cannon was not on the regular program, but having stopped over at the hotel where the dinner was given, he was invited to attend and respond to an invitation to address the club.
Pinchot Starts.
Mr. Pinchot was given a great ovation when he rose to speak. "Theodore Roosevelt was the father of conservation in this country," he said. "The National Conservation association is continuing the work he started. The last session of congress did great work and our association was largely responsible for it. The withdrawal bill as it passed was due
