FIRE ON THE LOLO IS SERIOUS

N. P. WOODS REPORTS BAD BLAZE NEAR SPRINGS—FLAMES CROSS DIVIDE.

Late yesterday afternoon N. P. Woods of Lolo telephoned in the news that the fire on Lolo creek had gotten away from the fire fighters and was burning fiercely in the neighborhood of the springs.

Mr. Woods also said that the flames had broken over the divide in the neighborhood of Mount Lolo in two places and was threatening the west slope of the Bitter Root in the neighborhood of Carlton.

BITTER ROOT FIRES ARE NOT ALARMING

W. B. Wilds telephoned in to The Missoulian from the Missoula Mercantile company's store at Victor last night that the situation in that part of the valley was far from serious.

INCIDENTS OF A DAY AMONGST THE FUGITIVES FROM FOREST FIRES.

The streets were deserted at an early hour this morning. The visitors, tired, footsore and sleepy, went in for a good night's rest, and the residents, glad of the opportunity to take a vacation, followed suit.

During the day the refugees viewed the city from the main streets. Some of the women did a little shopping. The refugees were out bright and early yesterday, seeking news of friends and relatives.

"I am Mrs. John Miller," she said, "and we had charges of the Pacific Hotel annex, which was burned. I left home a week ago to attend the bedside of a sister who is desperately ill, and am trying to go home. My boys, Wesley and Warren, are lost from me. I have sent two telegrams, but they have not delivered. I am desperate. Has anybody heard of them here?"

"The woman was in a most pitiful condition. Her eyes were red and her face tear-stained from eyes to chin.

Philosophers. In the Shepard bar quite a different scene was enacted. Three, grimy, smoky-faced men stood at the counter drowning their sorrow in beer.

"I had a h-l of a fine little dog," said George Woodard, who ran a bar at Haugan, "but he is gone."

Woodward was crying. "I told everybody that the fire was coming and advised them to get their women and children out, but forgot my little dog, my trunk and suitcase. Poor Chippie, the little brute, he burned in my room, where I locked him. He was such a noble little fellow. Chippie—God bless his ashes."

"We had about 50 people in Haugan," said the last man to leave the town.

FEET SO SORE COULDN'T WALK DOWN STAIRS—TIZ CURED HER QUICK

If you have sore feet, tired feet, sweaty feet, lame feet, tender feet, smelly feet, corns, callouses or bunions, read what happened to Mrs. Crockett of Jeffersonville: "TIZ DID IT. Mr. Crockett says: "After the second treatment she walked down stairs one foot at a time. She has not been able to walk downstairs before in past five years, except by stepping down on each step with one foot at a time. This is remarkable. Send five more boxes."

Bright Girl. "Have you heard anything from Wallace?" asked a bright, blue-eyed girl who escaped in a Northern Pacific caboose Saturday night.

"I have no idea, but they say that 75 crowded in the caboose. One mother got on with seven small children. Another woman left her daughter, but saved her dog. She was clinging to the pup and weeping for her girl.

"I believe when the truth is known," said a man from Wallace, last night, "that the number of dead will run up to nearly 100. I feel certain that some of the firefighters were caught in the gulches."

"Sister Joseph was one of the many heroines of the Wallace calamity," said a refugee. "She went in the basement of Providence hospital to help some crazy patients, and would not give them up. Of course, the way it turned out, all the occupants of the building could have remained there, but no one could foresee the result."

THE WEATHER

The weather man's efforts—if he made any—to produce rain were fruitless yesterday, and all day long the same monotonous atmosphere prevailed—a bright yellow sky which filtered a sickly yellow glare.

The people generally think well of Mayor Logan's request that all trash be removed from lots in the city, as two birds can be killed with one stone: the danger of fire will be lessened and the looks of the yards improved.

SUSPECTS ARRESTED PROVEN GUILTLSS There was a rumor on the streets all day yesterday to the effect that Deputy Miller and O'Neill, guided by Otis Worden, had picked up the men wanted for robbing the Murphy-Lockman grocery store last Saturday morning. This rumor was denied later in the day by the sheriff's office and it was revealed that the men in question, while they had been spotted in a barber shop by Otis Worden as the men who had robbed the store, were merely slightly intoxicated and talking too freely. Both were released after an examination at the jail. Deputy Ed. Miller had a rather spirited fight with one of the men on the way to the jail which attracted a great deal of attention and gave credence to the rumor regarding the guilt of the men.
