

WILL MAKE KOREANS FEEL AT HOME

ANNEXATION TO JAPAN IMPLIES NO DEGRADATION AS KOREA WILL BE TREATED JUSTLY.

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 27.—Lieutenant General Terachi, Japanese resident general in Korea and negotiator of the convention of annexation, which it may be stated will be formally promulgated next Monday, said today, in a statement to a correspondent of the Associated Press regarding the annexation:

"No stone will be left unturned to make the Koreans and the world feel that Japanese rule in Korea is a beneficial thing for the Koreans. It will and must imply no degradation for the Korean, who under the annexation will enjoy exactly the same rights in Korea as the Japanese. It is the wish and command of the emperor of Japan that every effort be made to make the Koreans feel no humiliation, but rather relief at the annexation.

"The policy of Japan in administering the new portion of the empire will be directed toward a steady improvement of conditions and the development of the resources of Korea."

It is stated with authority that, although the treaties of Korea with the foreign powers lapse with annexation, the present customs tariff of Korea, which is much lower than that of Japan, will be continued for an indefinite period under Japanese rule.

This is the point by which foreign interests might chiefly be affected if the Japanese tariff were introduced. Economic conditions in the kingdom will also remain unchanged and foreigners will enjoy the same rights in Korea as in the district of Japan.

Interesting details of the negotiations leading to the annexation are made public. The ascent of Emperor Y-Suek and of his predecessor, Y-Hout, to the annexation was given willingly. It is stated, the only hesitation shown when the terms were being discussed being in regard to the titles which will hereafter be borne by the former emperor. The original Japanese terms proposed the title of grand duke, but the emperor of Korea insisted on being styled "whang," or king, to which the Japanese assented.

The princes of the Korean imperial house would, it is conceded, be treated as Japanese princes and an annuity of $50,000 would be granted them. The royal family will be permitted to reside where it pleases and will probably remain in Korea.

MANY ACRES ARE NOW ELIMINATED

VICE PRESIDENT BEGINS HIS TOUR

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Vice President Sherman arrived from the east early this morning and departed for Clinton, Ill., shortly after 10 o'clock to begin his speaking tour through Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma. The vice president was greeted on his arrival by Henry Casson, secretary of the republican congressional committee, and during his two-hour stay, visited republican congressional headquarters at a downtown hotel. Mr. Sherman refused to discuss politics.

Refuge for Unfortunates

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 27.—A band of sweet-spirited Georgia women have built and equipped at Hapeville, the only institution in the South for the reclamation of girls who have taken the first step upon the downward path. The home is for women and girls practically what the reformatory is for boys. It is in this home alone that girls and women may be detained against their will. The home is the only place in the southern section of the country to which courts may send girls who would otherwise receive prison sentences. It is the only institution into whose keeping a mother may confide a daughter for whose future she fears.

The doors of the institution were opened less than six months ago, but the capacity of the institution is already taxed to accommodate those for whom admittance is applied. The sleeping rooms have been taxed to their utmost, and cots have been placed on the verandas and in the halls and a cottage, located a short distance from the main building, is now being fitted out as sleeping quarters. There are now 30 girls being cared for in the home, which is situated in the midst of a grove of shade trees and is surrounded by a tract of 60 acres of fertile farm land.

The movement which resulted in the establishment of the home was inaugurated by Mrs. Frank R. Logan, one of the best known mission workers in Atlanta. She gathered about her a number of other women who are interested in the work of saving wayward womankind. The home has been made into a memorial to John F. Barclay, who organized in an old passenger coach of the Western Alabama railroad at Atlanta the mission which today bears his name. The Rev. E. H. Peacock has been called to the general agency of the institution. The home is non-sectarian.

Everything possible is being done to give the place a homelike air. Under the watchful but kindly eye of motherly matrons the girls work, study and play, given periods being set aside for each. In order to detract the minds of the inmates as much as possible from the former surroundings each is kept unusually busy for a short time after entering the institution. The days are filled with study, work and

GETS RICH IN WEST GROWING SHEEP

NEW JERSEY YOUTH SPENDS 16 YEARS IN WESTERN STATES —MAKES GOOD SHOWING.

The story of the life of William Steinfeldt for the past decade and a half reads more like a fairy tale than sober truth, says the New York World, but the facts presented by Steinfeldt, who returned after an absence of 15 years spent in the west, show that to one with the necessary ambition and pluck nothing is impossible.

Steinfeldt was dissatisfied when as a youth of 20 he had made up his mind that the home farm did not present to him the necessary opportunities for development and without consulting his parents he took a quiet leave of New Market, N. J., his native town, and struck out west. At the age of 36 he has returned to his home, for a visit only, declaring that he has made enough to support his aged parents in comfort for the rest of their lives.

Besides being the owner of a ranch on which graze 40,000 sheep Mr. Steinfeldt has accumulated nearly $100,000, which is invested in stocks and bonds, and has a farm of 500 acres under cultivation.

In speaking of his adventures Mr. Steinfeldt said the other day that at first it was hard work interesting any of the ranchmen of the west in a tenderfoot, but he finally secured a job as a herder on a big ranch in Wyoming. Then he went to Idaho, and from a rather weak strapping he became a robust and bustling ranchman. Saving his earnings soon became a passion with him, and with an occasional small investment his progress was unimpeded. Everything he turned his hand to seemed to bring good results, and notwithstanding a natural longing to hear from home he persevered in his silence, hoping to make good the dream of his youth. Today that dream has been realized, and Steinfeldt has risen like one from the grave only to astonish his parents and, as he says, make the balance of their lives one of ease and comfort.

Asked why he had remained silent for so many years, Steinfeldt declared that he did not want any one to know recreation. Besides academic work, the girls are given instruction in industrial matters, each taking turn in cooking, housekeeping, laundering, sewing and milking. With the exception of those who enter of their own accord the inmates sleep under lock and key. None are allowed to leave their enclosure except when accompanied by a matron.

There is now in the home a girl from Rome who was sentenced to serve 12 months in the chain gang. She is serving her sentence in the home instead. There is a pretty romance in connection with this case. The girl was engaged to be married to a young man who was sent to jail for a misdemeanor. She visited her lover at the jail and carried to him a file, with which he effected his escape. The girl was arrested, tried and convicted for aiding and abetting in the escape of a criminal.

Another case is that of a 15-year-old girl from Jasper, who had been kept in jail for practically a year. She is the principal witness in a criminal case, and interested parties attempted to pay her to leave the state. Later she was threatened with violence. Her incarceration is as much for her own protection as anything else. She has been committed to the home for five years.

Still another case is that of a 17-year-old girl whose widowed mother lives in Atlanta. The girl had a good position, but her mother was fearful that she was going astray. The home was petitioned to take the child in charge. The agent appeared on the following morning at the place where the girl was employed and informed her that she would have to accompany him to the home. For the first week of her stay the girl was greatly dissatisfied, but she has now become accustomed to her surroundings and is perfectly as well satisfied as any of the other inmates.

The home is operated on the convent idea and every class of fallen womanhood, regardless of creed, is cared for, every class in a separate department, so that young girls are not thrown under any possible influence of those of hardened characters. The home is a southern rather than a local institution, reaching out arms of welcome to sad-hearted and sin-sick daughters of all the southland.

what he was doing nor where he was until he could declare himself an independent man and one whom everybody would recognize as an example of what industry and push and sticktoitiveness would accomplish.

"I have gotten there with both feet," he declared, "and now I propose to take it easy and let the folks have their easy time. I don't mean to say that it has been at all an easy proposition, nor would I encourage any one in these days to try to duplicate what I have done, although it is possible that another starting out now might be successful."

"Things have changed greatly in Idaho since I made my first attempt at sheep herding. That occupation was looked down upon by the cattle ranchers, and many a time I had to sleep with one eye open to keep my sheep from being stampeded. Nowadays, as the beef ranching goes further west and southwest, there is not so much trouble and a man has less to contend with in certain ways, but you can bet your last cent that ranching in any part of the country is not what it is cracked up to be."

Mr. Steinfeldt has persuaded his parents that it is better for them to be with him, and in all likelihood they will be ready to accompany him to his home by the beginning of September.

MARKET MOVEMENT OF THE DAY

New York, Aug. 27.—Some pressure was shown in today's operations on the stock exchange, but the movement was so dull and narrow as to be almost featureless. Europe's markets were quiet and practically unchanged. The commercial agencies reported a certain or irregular business in different lines of trade. Western shippers have outlined a plan of attack against proposed increased rates at Monday's hearing of the interstate commerce commission. Weather conditions, according to most reports, were helpful to crops. In the local cotton market August options went to a new high record, advancing 36 points at the opening and other options were up 5 to 10 points, but reactions from these prices were general before the close of the market. The bank statement displayed the usual discrepancy in its average and actual tables, loans under the former system increasing about $10,500,000, while the actual condition increase was little more than $500,000. The actual decrease of reserves on all deposits was $1,600,000, with an actual loss of $2,418,000. The net change in cash reserves was trifling—28.87 per cent against 28.99 per cent the previous weeks. The loans of the state banks and trust companies operating outside the jurisdiction of the clearing house fell off $3,600,000, with a small gain in cash. United States government securities advanced 1/4 per cent, the registered 4 1/2 and the coupon 3/4, on call, during the week.
Total sales of bonds, par value, $412,400.

Export demands gave promise of larger shipments abroad and traders listened willingly to reports that the continental and English markets would need much wheat later to improve the grade of the home crop.
