EPISCOPALIANS MAY REPUBLICAN RALLY ALTER TITLE AT BONITA

DECIDE THAT JEWISH MEMBERS
MAY CONTINUE RITES AND PRACTICES.

Cincinnati, Oct. 10.—Resolutions and amendments calling for a change in the name of the church, and the question of revision of church canons regarding marriage and divorce, were under discussion at today's meetings of the Protestant Episcopal church. A resolution was offered in the house of deputies that recognition of the fact that the Episcopal church is part of the holy Roman Catholic church be put on the title page of the book of common prayer. The resolution will be taken up for the final session later.

Rev. Joseph D. Carey, of Saratoga, introduced a resolution asking for a commission to arrange for the celebration in 1911 of the 300th anniversary of the first publication of the King James version of the bible.

This afternoon the house of bishops and the house of deputies met in joint session with the missionary board. The subject under discussion was "Achievements and Opportunities in the Orient." Addresses were made by Bishop Frederick D. Graves of Shanghai, Bishop Logan R. Root of Hankow, Bishop John McKim of Tokio, and Bishop Sidney Patridge of Klotso.

The house of bishops today decided that Jews who had been converted to the Episcopal faith may continue Jewish rites and practices providing they do so for moral or sanitary reasons, but not as a matter of religion. The bishops also discussed proposals to revise the church's canons on marriage and divorce. The matter was made a special order for Thursday. The present canons forbid the remarriage in the church of divorced persons.

CHURCHMEN MEET.

Boston, Oct. 10.—Thousands of Congregationalists met in Tremont temple tonight for the formal opening of the triennial national council of Congregational churches and the co-operating societies of the denomination. A small part of the 7,000 delegates and visitors were able to gain admission to the opening meeting. Thomas A. McMillan of Illinois, the retiring moderator of the national council, presided. The first business session of the national council will be held tomorrow.

MILLIONAIRE'S SON JAILED.

New York, Oct. 10.—Harold Decker, 20 years old, said to be the son of a Chicago millionaire, was arrested in Sing Sing today for from two and a half years to five years. He was charged with having abducted Florence Richter, a young Brooklyn girl, whom he took to Rochester.

A LARGE AUDIENCE MANIFESTS SPLENDID ENTHUSIASM AT MEETING OF CANDIDATES.

Bonita, Oct. 10.—(Special.)—The candidates on the Missoula county republican ticket opened their campaign here tonight with one of the best political meetings Bonita ever saw. The attendance was large and the enthusiasm was great. The speakers were Ronald Higgins, candidate for the legislature; E. C. Maloney, candidate for county attorney; and W. J. McCornick, the speaker of general and local issues; the speakers were earnest and their remarks held the attention of the audience throughout the meeting. With the speakers were the other candidates on the ticket and all were greeted cordially by the people of Bonita. Many of them—most of them, in fact—have friends here, and are known to most of the local voters. All are known by reputation and the ticket is in good favor in this precinct. The republicans will hold their next rally at Clinton, tomorrow night.

RESCUERS MAY DISCOVER BODIES

Journey inward, it branched off a short distance and took a southerly course toward the spot where the pick men were supposed to have been working Saturday night. The dog's experience proved valuable and reconnoitering parties of two or three men, selected from the 16 forming the main party, were sent ahead to test the air. These scouting parties reported after a time, and in all of the short cuts and also in the main stop.

General Manager Weltzel was then communicated with by portable telephone and told the conditions. He ordered the men out of the mine until the air could be improved.

Emergency Blower

While the night shift was waiting to be sent inside the mine, a gang was also put to work installing a blower at the mouth of the air shaft, which runs parallel with the main stop. This is an emergency measure to prevent the sudden stoppage of air supply by the failure of the portable fan. Several times today this fan stopped working. Signal lights at the mouth of the stop flashed the danger and men scampered in all directions summoning electricians to correct the trouble.

This was one of the dangers that threatened the rescue men throughout the day, and the failure of power operating the portable fan could not be accounted for except through a short circuiting of the current by the motor cars running between the mine and the tipple.

All day long the hills facing the mine were dotted with groups of women and children, relatives and friends of the entombed men. With the appearance of each dust-begrimed miner the women would press forward anxiously questioning him for news, though little could be given beyond the information that the rescue party was progressing toward its goal. Mothers were unwilling to leave their children at home and many carrying babies stood stolidly within sight of the portal for hours or sat beneath the trees on the hillsides, their eyes trained upon the black hole through which the rescuers would come. Those who had remained nearby practically all day moved closer to the limit line set by company officials, as the rescue party came out, all with tensely drawn features and tightly drawn lips. The silent nods of the rescuers spread the word that no bodies had yet been found and none was expected to be found until late tonight.

Silently the mothers gathered together their little ones, moved back onto the hillsides in groups again, there to wait and watch through the darkness of the night.

State Mine Inspector John Jones was the last of the rescue party to come out. He said that he felt sure that the night shift would come upon the bodies tonight. He explained the terrible force of the explosion as indicated by the damage done, made almost certain that the pick men were dead.

Pathetic Incidents.

A pathetic incident came to light today when a message was sent to the wife and children of Anton Lysczarz in Poland that he probably had been killed in the explosion. Mrs. Lysczarz was on the point of starting for America to join her husband. Lysczarz had come to America two years ago to make a home for his family, and three months ago, after countless discouragements, got together enough money to pay their passage. All preparations had been made for the start when Lysczarz was badly injured in another mine accident and his wife was compelled to sell the tickets that he might have proper medical attention. As soon as he recovered he again began to save and the passage money was sent to Poland a second time, but a few days ago.

A Father's Pleas.

One of the few watchers allowed within the lines about the pit mouth today was Jack Greet, a white-haired old man whose son, Frank, is among the missing. Frank Greet had come to Starkville but a few days ago to care for his aged father and in spite of his father's remonstrances had secured a job as motorman of one of the electric coal trains. He had taken his train into the main stop, but a few seconds before the terrific explosion blocked that entrance and his father, confident that he was within a few hundred feet of the entrance, pleaded wildly to be allowed to search the main stop for his son's body. Moved by his distress, State Mine Inspector John Jones agreed to test his theory, and, equipped with an oxygen helmet disappeared among the wreckage of the main stop. With every nerve strained, the old man waited for his return. It was but a moment until Jones reappeared and told him gently that the stop was completely blocked and any attempt to reach his son from that direction was hopeless. Greet walked slowly back to the corner of the timbers where he has kept vigil since the explosion, sunk in apathy which refused to admit the loss of hope. All efforts to induce him to go home were fruitless and he was allowed by the officials to remain within the lines.

Bodies Found.

Starkville, Colo., Oct. 10.—Reports emanating from Trinidad, seven miles from here, tonight stated that 13 bodies had been found this afternoon and had been taken to within several hundred feet of the portal of the new stop and left until the crowds outside the mine had dispersed. The reports had it that the plan was to bring out the bodies after everyone but company men had left the mine, thereby preventing harrowing scenes customary to such occasions.

Although company officials denied that any bodies had been found, they stated that it was expected by midnight some would be reached.

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of its soiling quickly. This objection has been overcome and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyle's Sage and Sulphur the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the advantage of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow. It is sold by all druggists for 50c, and $1.00 in bottles. It is sent direct by the Wyle Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

BUTTE LABOR MEN NOMINATE

UNION PEOPLE IN SMOKY CITY
HOLD CONVENTION—BREEN FOR STATE SENATOR.

Butte, Oct. 10.—(Special.)—The labor party of Butte met here in convention this afternoon and placed a ticket in the field. During the afternoon there was little interest shown and there were comparatively few members of union labor present. George Tucker, chairman of the labor central committee called the meeting to order and A. M. Fluett acted as secretary. The usual committees were appointed. The committee on resolutions was given 15 minutes to report and when it came in they had a lengthy document, which was adopted without protest.

War on Corporations.

The committee presented a report in which war was declared on the corporations and a demand made to all union men to elect a legislative ticket. The platform also advocates the expansion of all mine superintendents, foremen and other bosses from holding municipal offices, and advocates the passage of a law preventing the mine superintendents and other bosses from taking part in a political convention. The resolutions conclude as follows:

"The law of negligence and the relation of master and servant has been so construed by the supreme court of the state of Montana that employees injured in the course of their employment have practically no remedy for injuries.

"The legal principle, Volenti non fit injuria, (one willing can sustain no injury, or may complain of no injury) has been so vigorously extended beyond its legitimate sphere in favor of capitalist employers and against the interest of the employees and society in general.

"We, therefore, demand the enactment by the next legislative assembly of the state of Montana of an employers' liability act that will be just to both employer and employee and be incidentally beneficial to society in general."

It is signed by Pat Stewart, S. R. A. Hoon, John H. Rooney, John R. Sullivan and F. E. Landstrom.

MAY BE DYNAMITERS.

San Francisco, Oct. 10.—Chief of Police Seymour has received a letter from Battle Mountain, Nev., which says that a man is under arrest there who answers the description of the leader of the trio who purchased the dynamite believed to have been used in blowing up the Times building in Los Angeles. Photographs of the man were enclosed and the police will submit them to the various persons who met the alleged dynamiters while they were in this city, in an effort to identify the suspect.

TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER.

Greensburg, Pa., Oct. 10.—Twenty men were placed on trial here today, each charged with murder, as a result of the long strike in the Irwin coal fields. Frank Chrove, superintendent of Latrobe and Connelville Coal & Coke company, was tried before Judge A. D. McConnell, charged with causing the death of Michael Cheken, a striker. The others, all deputy sheriffs, were tried before Judge L. W. Doty, being accused jointly of killing Paul Reno at Yukon in a riot in which the deputies, the state constabulary and the strikers took part.

FIGHT IS ARRANGED.

New Orleans, Oct. 10.—Owen Moran, reputed as England's second lightweight, and Johnny Frayne of San Francisco, have been matched today to fight 10 rounds before the New Orleans Athletic club next Saturday.

Temporary Heat Quickly

Did you ever stop to think of the many ways in which a perfect oil heater is of value? If you want to sleep with your window open in winter, you can get sufficient heat from an oil heater while you undress at night, and then turn it off. Apply a match in the morning, when you get out of bed, and you have heat while you dress.

Those who have to eat an early breakfast before the stove is radiating heat can get immediate warmth from an oil heater, and then turn it off. The girl who practices on the piano in a cold room in the morning can have warmth from an oil heater while she plays, and then turn it off. The member of the family who has to walk the floor on a cold winter's night with a restless baby can get temporary heat with an oil heater, and then turn it off. The is invaluable in its capacity of quickly giving heat. Apply a match and it is immediately at work. It will burn for nine hours without refilling. It is safe, smokeless and odorless. It has a damper top and a cool handle. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. It has an automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that the wick can be cleaned in an instant. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, and can be quickly unscrewed for reworking. Finished in Japan or nickel, strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

PERFECTION
